Morehouse Begins Second Century

Forty years ago when Dr. W. E. B. DuBois was making sur veys on his own to discern what colleges of our group should merge, upon his visit to Morehouse he said: "There was real life in the student body at Morehouse. Their interest and emphasis thrilled beneath you — and the speaker got new inspira-tion upon addressing them,"

This was never more evident than the powerful push that same good old Morehouse spirit gave those who attended the Inaugural Banquet at the Regency Hyatte on Friday night. Yes, Morehouse was there in full regalia and there was never a dull moment as speaker after speaker extolled Morehouse and "Morehouse men."

Surely Dr. Benjamin Mays never felt prouder of this brand of "he" men who kept kindling fires around the old Morehouse pot that boiled over with enthusiasm from the record of the past and the prophesy of the future.

The roll-call of the classes netted above $225,000 in cash and there were contributions from the Morehouse clan still coming in.

President Hugh Gloster saw at a glance that Morehouse was well on the move and that he had a fine set of men to join hands with him in the building of a greater Morehouse.

Morehouse lately came into Phi Betta Kappa recognition and the group on Friday night in "The Battle of the Regency" breathed across the nation "full speed ahead."

Wherever this generation of Morehouse men gather, the spirit of Drs. John Hope and Howard Archer keep the rounds among them. Dr. Mays, was left to pass the torch around and well did he hand over to Dr. Hugh Morris Gloster, new president, an image and a challenge which he will "carry on" admirably.

Those are certainly BIG shoes he is being called upon to fill.

If was forty years ago, that Dr. DuBois uttered a challenge and a prophesy.

Nixon Asks Debates

Richard Nixon, who perhaps lost the 1960 election to the late John Kennedy because he agreed to meet him in televised debates, says he wants to debate the Democratic nominee this flushed ugly things out of dark year. "When they get their candidate I want to debate him," Nixon was guoted as having said recently in New Hampshire.

If there is poetle justice, Nixon should get his wish - but probably won't. In the first place, the nominee of the Democratic Party is almost certain to be President Lyndon Johnson and Johnson has previously expressed less than enthusiasm for the idea of debating a Republican opponent.

It's true circumstances are somewhat different. Kennedy challenged the Vice President, not a President. It can be argued that the President should not agree to live debate because it might adversely affect the image of the Presidency.

ty may attach to such aroun can people would probably benefit from such televised debates. And since Nixon was sporting enough to agree to them when he was a high official in government, it would seem only a fair return for him to be given the opportunity as challenger.

Mudding The Waters

The recent announcement that Democrat former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama was going to run for president on a thirdticket was somewhat a surprise because he had previously stated that his running would depend somewhat on the type of candidate the Republicans could offer.

Having definitely announced he would run and having selected temporarily his running mate, Democrat former Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia we can only conclude that someone has "talked to Mr. Wallace" and as a result he has decided to enter the contest regardless of the other candidates of the two major political parties.

The Wallace campaign cannot be laughed off. At best it will confuse some white voters and divide them unnecessarily. At this crucial time in our nation's history we hate to see voters confused and divided into splinter groups.

We should think the choice of the Republican and Democrat nominee would be sufficient for the voters.

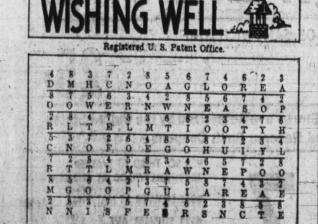

It is important that our citizens show sufficient unity to give whoever is elected next November a sufficiently large vote to provide a direction for action. Third-party candidates will only muddy the political waters.

UPI NEWSMEN EXAMINE WORK OF GAFFNEY'S PHANTOM KILLER

GAFFNEY, S. C. - (UPI) Children are playing in the sunshine again in Gaffney, but the mark of the strangler is on this town and it will be a long time

For a week, this little mill town lived in abject terror, a pervasive fear of shadows and strangers that corners. The relief that came Friday when a man was arrested did not entirely dispel the bitterness suspicion that the strangler had brought to Gaffney.

Four women are dead and small children whisper about "the choker." Twisted facts and fantasies, dredged from the past, still linger and many believe an innocent man is languishing in prison for a murder they believe the strangler committed.

Jack L. Truluck, editor of the Gaffney Ledger, a thrice-weekly newspaper that tells it like it is wrote in a red-bordered editorial that "indescribable filth was tossed about by lascivious liars" and a good man's name was "dragged through muck and mire." ONE YEAR BACK

The story of the Gaffney strangler may go back a year ago, in March, when the body of 33-yearold Annie Dedmond was found, nude, sprawled in the middle of Jerusalum Road in adjoining Union County. She had been

Her husband Roger was arrested. He insisted he was innocent, but police said he gave them a verbal confession. Dedmond was convicted, sentenced to 18 years in Union County Prison Camp, and forgotten

Then early this month 15-yearold Nancy Christine Rinehart disappeared. The absence of Christine who had dropped out of school the day before, caused the town little concern. Christine, a moody girl who wrote sad songs, frequently disappeared.

Then Mrs. Nancy Parris, 20, went out to walk her white poodle one night and never returned. On Thursday, Feb. 8, a man called managing editor Bill Gibbons at the Ledger. "Get out three pieces of paper," said the voice. "I've got three stories for you." Thus did the Gaffney strangler introduce himself.

He told Gibbons in minute detail where to find the bodies of Christine and Nancy, and recalled, mysteriously, the slaying of Mrs. Dedmond before he hung up. The bodies were found, miles apart, where the caller said they would be found. Both were nude

both had been expertly strangled. SUSPICION MOUNTS

Monday night while he was at home, his telephone rang again. "This is the same man who called you before," said the voice. "We're going to have to do something about that man down yonder who is serving my sentence."

This time the strangler was not interested in talking about his latest victims. He talked about Mrs. Dedmond, and told Gibbons what the woman was wearing -down to the size of her brassiere and what was in her purse when, he claimed, he killed her.

When he hung up, Gibbons called the sheriff's office and his boss, son, and his wife, a music teacher began to get cancellations from her students. Gibbons' eyes took on a haunted look and his wiry frame tautened, but he made no attempt to break the silence requested by authorities and prove himself in-Truluck. In announcing the decrease in early syphilis, Dr. Roberts praised private physicians and private laboratories for their cooperation in reporting venereal diseases. He said the decrease in early syphilis can be attributed in large part to accurate diagnosis, prompt reporting, and intensive investigation.

GLOSTER INAUGURATED

the new president a standing ovation, then settled back to hear his inaugural address which traced the 101 year old history of Morehouse. and gave a preview of its future.

A week-long slate of inaugural activities had been in confunction with the founders day period, and a nearly year long celegration commerating the beginning of what has been called the second century of Morehouse. Merrill referred to the century-long period as one with box car beginning for ex-slaves to one of the strongest in stitutions of higher learning in the country.

* Prior to his official installation. Dr. Gloster, renown as an educator, administrator, writer, speaker, and a wartime USO executive was on the receiving end of what he called six greetings and one challenge, as follows.

Vice Mayor Sam Massell, Jr., "A city greets a college, both with much in common." Dr. Gloster great opportunity. Dr. Jerome H. Holland, president of Hampton Institute: "Our loss is Morehouse's gain." Dr. Gloster returns to Morehouse following an uotstanding career at Hampton

Dr. A. M. Manley, speaking for the university complex: "Dr. Glos-ter inherits a proud past but in welcoming him I also welcome him to the challenge of the present and the future."

Dr. Calvin Brown, president of alumni association; "What is transpiring now is great and what is being passed from Dr. Mays to Dr. Gloster is a torch of hope, dedicated and fulfillment.'

Dr. B. R. Brazeal, for the faculty; Under your administration we expect Morehouse to drive on." The challenge Dr. Gloster spoke of apparently came from stu-dent government president Sanford D. Bishop, Jr., who called the inaugaral ceremonies a decisive mo-ment from Morehouse. Bishop said the students were concerne so much with the past but the present and future of Morehouse "We no longer want to be reminded of the records of students of the past or statistics." We as courthouse caretaker urged him to students are determined to play lie down for awhile our nole in shaping Morehouse"s future and the challenge is for the fministration to join us to make and keep Morehouse what it ought to be." Gloster departed from the open inging paragraph of his prepared address to issue a return challenge to the students. "I challenge each student to make a good record which is the past I know." "I challenge you to learn as much about American Negre literature, history, the race problem, and race relaions as I know."

"I challenge you to use reason and study as I did," for I did not come to Morehouse to maintain the status quot but to work with all in developing it as a first class stitution," Gloster replied.

Gloster repeatedly referred to the past throughout his address and pointed to the long struggle of Morehouse to attain its status and record of its graduates.

He reflected back to the history of neglect and financal hard of the Negro college but pointed to a future of competition with white colleges for top facilities students, white and black and fi-

The inaugural ceremonies came less than 24 hours after the ban-quet was held at the Regency Hyatt House where another capacity audience witnessed more than $200,000 reported by classes from 1903 to 1967.

An address by Judge George W. Crockett of the Detroit city count and a 1931 graduate of Morehouse highlighted the occasion.

Judge Crockett, who was presented by John Hope II, said Morehouse came into existence to pro-vide a voice for the Negro. "After 100 years that voice still remains, qualitatively if not quantitavely." The judge said the Negro college faces its greatest opportunity and challenge today before race and color are the center of the changing times. He pointed out that he wanted for Morehouse; Dedication to idea er immediate family. One sister, takes on a position of strength and in integrating Negro and whites of the deep South and offering

He also said Morehouse must put more emphasis on the humanities rather than the sciences so its students and graduates can go in the ghetto and lead whites and Negroes Morehouse must give more attention to training more African students as leaders, and become a college of men who dare to speak their minds.

We as Morehouse men must never forget from whence we come; by this I mean keep the faith, baby," advised Judge Crockett.

In assuming the presidency, Dr. Gloster follows Dr. Joseph T. Roberts, 1871-1884; Dr. Samuel H. Archer, 1931-1938; and Dr. Benjamine E. Mays, 1940-1967. Dr. Charles Hubert served as acting president from 1937-1940.

7 DON'T have time to get drunk." Ed TV's great myths, carefully nurtured by ny Carson each time he says slyly well Ed, on't you think you need a little tabasco sauce,

A second stout blow, thus, struck for the Wartin isn't REALLY an alcoholic—but the perconsble McMahon truly couldn't say anything ise. He DOESN'T have time. Mr. Carson's talated second-banana is the busiest man in broad and telecasting, with no close second.

Monday through Friday, he works on the Carson program. Then, he tapes the daylime "Snap Judgment," is one of NBC's "Monihosts on weekends, makes guest appearances, acts in movies, takes a whirl at Broadway, is president of a "creative design" comnany (it designed the Vatican Tavilion at the New York World's Fairt- and in his spare title. is an active president of the alumni association of Catholic Ur rady in Vashington, D.C., his alms mater, where he's spearheading a campaign to raise $2 million for a hoped-for theater and radio-TV building. To date, this fantastic grind doesn't seem to have affected Ed neticeably. "Possibly," he says, "because I've been hurrying all my life, always juggling a couple of things at once. I hustled my way through college, always working, per-haps because I already had a wife and baby, and now I'm so used to doing a lot of things, it seems natural.

"One thing helps: I can cat-nap anywhere. Give me five free minutes and I just lean back in a chair and fall asleep."

SOME OF this never-ending business is pl hard work—but, just as with Steve Allen wi he did the "Tonight" show, McMahon finds working on the Carson program almost's re-laxing (it's taped nightly at 6:30). "Johnny and I have known each other a long time I was announcer on his 'Who Do You Trust?' show in 1954—and we like and respect each other," he says. "It's a professional job, to be sure, but at the same time it's a lot of fun."

The latest (to the public) McMahon facet turned up recently when he did an excellent job of character-acting in the hit film, "The Incident." His acquaintances weren't quite so surprised. Ed studied drama at Catholic U., played in college productions, later did summer st including "Annie, Get Your Gun" with the late budding starlet Judy Tyler, and subbed for Alan King on Broadway for a week in "The Impossible Years." "Why for just a week?" he asks rhetorically. "The credits, my boy, the credits."

He loves movies and would like to make more; he's part of the growing army that co film the finest art medium. "I'm not that thrilled by the legitimate stage," he says. "I like it, but I think if I ever were in a long run, Fd go quietly crazy after a couple of months."

ONE HARDLY can be surprised that McMahon found time, in the middle of his busy schedu to become involved in two wars-World War II and the Korean police action-as a fighter pilot with the Marines. Now a colonel in the U.S. M. C. Reserves, he flew 85 combat missions in Korea, winning str. Air Medals. "I remember most," he says, "the reason servicemen fight so well in wars that aren't so popular, even with them, such as the one in Vietnam. They just don't wan to let down their buddles. It's as simple as that."

Ed and his wife Alyce live in Bronxville, N.Y. with their four children. 'I guess I don't see them as much as some fathers," he says — then adds, almost defensively, "but I practice concentrated fatherhood, I try to make every time we're together an event. It works. We're pretty close, the bunch of us." Mr. McMahon is right. He has no time to booze.

We're told that qualified sources reported that the 15-Member Se curity Council, a most important group of U. N. You can be sure that diplomatic consultations continue privately, but to date all information has remained the same — 'private' shall we say, Sometimes we too agree with the person who wrote the letter about the U. The letter or note stated quote: "I suggest that the world's largest playboy club, the United Nations building, be turned into a hospital for veterans of wars that the UN has been helpless to prevent or end." Such a letter or note surely gives us some real 'food for thought.' Can it be that the UN is actually becoming the largest playboy club of the world??

Then along the same lines of what's doing with, in and around the U. N. — there is the belief of U. Thant that Hanoi would enter into peace talks after or four weeks after we stopped bombing .. How naieve can we get? Perhaps some thinking had better be given to Richard Nixon's admonition that it's wise to stop bombing only when Hanoi stops fighting. We admit that the U. N. Profiles do have a tremendous job to do with each thinking, seemingly, in a different way, while it might pay that there take place some thinking in a 'together-ness' way ..

Paper Placemats In New Designs Offered

Disposable paper placemats have become a fashionable feature of both kitchens and dining room tables, where their lively colors and designs offer an instant and inexpensive change of scene. Following the tremendous acceptance of these products for formal as well as informal entertaining, Scott Paper Company is now introducing six new designs in its popular paper placements: 1. Lollipops: an overall gay de-

6. Orange Crush: a modern fruit design in orange and green on white

Like their popular predecessors, the new placemats are two quilted layers of absorbent paper which drink up spills and protect table surfaces. They look like cloth and feel like cloth, yet are disposable. The attractive new collection of designs is eyed to complement any setting, modern or traditional. trophy or plaque. The success of the Institute de-

Can your hair be damaged from brushing, alone?

All hair becomes damaged from exposure to sun and natural elements. Certain greasy compounds and many chemicals, improperly used, also take their toll ... not to mention simple attempts at beautifying the hair with any brush not made of natural bristles. The results are brittleness, breakage, dry and

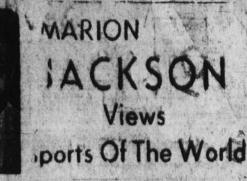

Your professional beautician knows how artificial bristles actually brush away a great deal of the "lubricants" of the hair that give it body, lustre and protection. And trained beauticians claim that nothing beats Clairol* condition* Beauty Pack Treatment for overcoming brittleness, dryness and breakage ... leaving hair lively and easy to manage. condition is an easy-towork-with creme which can even be applied during a chemical straightening retouch to prevent drying of hair that has been previously relaxed. condition* is the ultimate in repairing deepdown damage. And, when time is a factor for their customers. hairdressers turn to new Clairol® Hair Dew*-the lotion conditioner that penetrates so fast many think of it as an instant conditioner. When applied regularly by your beautician, Clairol Hair Dew adds body, softens and gives a glowing new look to your hair that many friends will notice and admire.

Damage can come from using brushes with artificial bristles. But damage to every woman's hair comes from so many other causes that all human hair (including wigs) needs to be re-vitalized periodically. Visit your professional beautician and ask this expert to check the condition of your hair.
