BOYCOTT IN CITY IS STEPPED UP

Project Outreach Kicks Off Mar. 11

With Public Meet

Memphis chapter of the National Business League will kick off Project Outreach, a long-term program to help plan new development program, with a big public meeting Monday night, March 11, at leslie College.

Lamar J. Wood, president of the chapter, called that the move is needed because the city's growth is not keeping up with its needs.

The program, which is expected to span several years, will include such activities as landscaping, tree planting, and the establishment of new parks.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the school.

The College Presidents Speak

In our Thursday edition we carried a summary containing the address of President Charles E. Sparks of the University of Kansas. In his address, President Sparks referred to several significant aspects of higher education and the role played by American colleges and universities. The statement concluded, "We urge you all of you, particularly those who are at the academic level, to consider the important issues raised by our presidents."

The Current Rights Bill

After several weeks of discussion by the U.S. Senate, the bill and its provisions are now in the House of Representatives. The bill, which seeks to protect civil liberties and avoid any form of discrimination by race, sex, or religion, has been referred to the House Committee on Education and Labor. The principal provisions in the bill include the prohibition of church attendance and the right to vote, etc. The Senate version of the bill, which has passed, includes a provision for the establishment of a federal board to oversee the enforcement of civil rights legislation. The House version is expected to be introduced in the near future. The bill is expected to be considered in the House Committee on Education and Labor. The legislation is expected to be introduced in the near future.
