Bishop Willkes Announces Here

Wilberforce Honors Memory Of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

By JOHN N. SMITH

Bishop Willkes announced yesterday that Wilberforce University would honor the memory of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by dedicating its Peace and Justice Center to him.

By KENNETH J. CAVALIER

A new building, dedicated to the memory of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was unveiled yesterday at Wilberforce University.

The new building, which houses the Peace and Justice Center, is located on the university's campus. It is named in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who was a prominent civil rights leader and a graduate of Wilberforce University.

The dedication ceremony was held yesterday morning and was attended by university faculty, staff, and students, as well as members of the local community.

The Peace and Justice Center, which is located in the building, will serve as a hub for activities related to peace and justice. It will house a library, a research center, and a conference room.

During the ceremony, Bishop Willkes spoke about the importance of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and his contributions to the civil rights movement.

"Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was a man of great courage and conviction," Bishop Willkes said. "He was a leader who stood up for what was right, and his legacy will live on forever.

"We are honored to dedicate this building in his memory," Bishop Willkes added. "We hope that it will serve as a symbol of the importance of peace and justice, and inspire others to work towards creating a more just and equal society."

The Peace and Justice Center will be open to the public, and will host events and activities related to peace and justice. It will be open to the public on weekdays, and will be closed on weekends.

The new building is located on the university's campus, and is located near the main campus buildings.

The Peace and Justice Center is the latest addition to Wilberforce University's facilities.

President David Wilson announced the dedication of the new building during a press conference yesterday morning.

"We are thrilled to dedicate this new building," President Wilson said. "It is a symbol of the university's commitment to peace and justice, and will serve as a valuable resource for our students and the community.

"We hope that it will help to promote a greater understanding of the importance of peace and justice, and inspire others to work towards creating a more just and equal society."

A Great Tribute

From the Atlanta Daily World.

Throughout history it has been said seldom is a prophet honored by his home town until after he is dead. Such was the case with the late Dr. King. In his hometown, his hometown people have frequently honored him.

On Tuesday, they joined with high American officials from United States President Johnson on stage and high officials from every other nation on an unprecedented tribute to a young, dynamic leader of the labor movement. An estimated over 100,000 persons packed the streets surrounding the Atlantic War Memorial. And the atmosphere of the service was held.

Memorial services were held in every city throughout the nation and in many cities abroad.

The principal national television networks gave full and live coverage of the service which lasted about six hours.

Curiously, never before in history has a member of our middle class given such a national tribute.

In a recent tribute to Dr. King it was stated by Rabbi Jacob Israel that the late King 'had been an obedient son of the civil rights struggle. I have been privileged to meet him, to stand on the stage, and to speak to him. And I tell you, may not be permitted to be silent.'

The Lord is my mystery, you won't understand. The former minister of Central Union was the keynote of the service. He praised the late Dr. King and described him as an "89th century prophet."

He said the "feel good" both he would win the battle for civil rights and win the war with his own newspaper.

We express our deep sympathy to Mrs. King and all members of the King family. In the death of Dr. King, the nation has lost a great leader of our times. He may not be here to continue his work, but his life and message will live on.

For now all for all to work in his spirit of non-violence to achieve the goals of good, peace, prosperity and justice for all.

Another National Tragedy

In November, 1963 our nation suffered a great national tragedy. The nation's meeting was shattered by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

It is not just the loss of a great man but our loss, a man who was a tragedy. In the memory of those who knew him, to the young, to the middle-aged, to the elderly, to the millions of Americans.

As a result of the successful desegregation of races in the South and the North, we cannot afford to lose another great leader who fought for the rights of all men.

Dr. King's death is a tragedy for the nation. It struck a chord in the heart of every American. It was a tragedy for the world. It was a tragedy for us all.

Our hearts go out to the King family.

Mexico City Offers Challenge To Olympic Games Hopefuls

WASHINGTON, D.C. — With the world of high athletics being captivated by the Olympic Games, a new challenge is looming on the horizon for the athletes of Mexico City. The city is gearing up for a test of strength and skill against some of the world's best athletes, who have already qualified for the Olympic Games. The challenge is being framed as a test of endurance and mental fortitude, as the competitors will be put to the ultimate test of their abilities.

The test will take place in a series of two-day competitions, with each day consisting of a series of events designed to push the athletes to their limits. The events will include both physical and mental challenges, with athletes facing everything from grueling races and jumps to mental skill tests that require strategic thinking and quick decision-making.

The participation of Mexico City in the challenge is not without controversy, with some athletes and experts expressing concerns about the fairness of the test and the potential for injury. However, the organizers of the challenge maintain that it is designed to push the athletes to their limits, and that any potential risks are outweighed by the benefits of participation.

The challenge is seen as a significant step towards the development of a strong national track and field program, and the organizers are hoping that it will attract a diverse range of athletes from across Mexico. The event is expected to draw a large number of participants, with athletes from all over the country vying for a spot in the next round of competition.

The challenge is set to begin in January, with the first round of competitions taking place in early February. The ultimate goal is to select the top athletes from Mexico City to represent the country in the Olympic Games, and the organizers are committed to ensuring that the event is fair and well-organized, with all athletes having an equal chance to compete.

The test is not just an opportunity for the athletes of Mexico City, but also a chance for the nation to showcase its talent and skills on the international stage. The organizers are hoping that the challenge will attract the attention of the world, and that it will help to build the reputation of Mexican athletics on the global stage.
Dignitaries, Laymen Marched Side By Side

by GISIEE VAN WOOLCROCK

Viewing the funeral was a scene of pageantry and ceremony. The casket of the late Rev. Dr. William Warfield, who had been an influential figure in the civil rights movement, was carried on the shoulders of a group of dignitaries and laymen. The procession started at the church and moved through the streets, with a large crowd of people lining the route. The atmosphere was one of respect and honor, with everyone paying their respects to the late Reverend.
