

Two Tan Beauties In Miss Memphis Pageant

DORIS F. PRICE

IN MISS MEMPHIS PAGEANT — Miss Doris F. Price, a senior at LeMoyn College, is one of the contestants in the Miss Memphis Pageant, scheduled for Thursday and Friday of this week.

The 1968 Miss Memphis Pageant, scheduled for this Thursday and Friday in the 1,550-seat auditorium of White Station High School, will be integrated.

This will mark the first time in the pageant's history that Negroes have been welcomed as participants. There are two non-white contestants among the 25 competing for the coveted title. The two are Miss Doris F. Price, a senior at LeMoyn College, and Miss Pat Mayweather, a senior at Central High School.

Miss Price is LeMoyn's "Miss Homecoming of 1968" and Miss Mayweather is "Cover Girl" for WDIA radio station's 1968 "Goodwill Family" calendar.

At noon this Thursday the Miss Memphis contestants will model at a Jaycee-sponsored luncheon at the Chisca Plaza. Personal interviews with the contest judges will be conducted during Thursday afternoon.

Thursday night all contestants will compete in the talent and swimsuit divisions of the pageant at White Station. Booker T. and the MG's will provide pre-show entertainment Thursday night.

Friday night's schedule calls for all contestants to compete in the evening gown division and the top 10 finalists to repeat their performances in the talent, swimsuit and evening gown division. Miss Memphis will be announced at the end of Friday evening. The newly organized Bar-Kays will play a pre-pageant show Friday night.

Music at the Miss Memphis coronation party at the Chisca Plaza following the pageant, will be provided by The Load of Mischief.

Reservations for the pageant may be made through the Memphis Junior Chamber of Commerce office at Chisca Plaza. Tickets will be available at the door.

Miss Mayweather is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Mayweather of 1263 Greenwood and Miss Price is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd L. Price of 1464 Raynes.

PAT MAYWEATHER

Garbagemen Happy END OF STRIKE IS CHEERED

All Memphis joined nearly 1,300 sanitation workers in rejoicing Tuesday afternoon when the 10-week-old garbage strike came to an end. Settlement came on the heels of a dramatic statement by Dr. Ralph Abernathy in which he threatened "to close down the entire city if necessary."

The striking men, many of whom faced hardships during the 10-week period, go back to work with a pay increase of 10 cents an hour, to be followed by another 5 cents an hour increase effective Sept. 1. Mayor Loeb said the nearly 300 men who worked on sanitation trucks during the strike would be "fully protected."

"There is a no strike pledge on the part of the union in the settlement."

The settlement also includes a check-off of union dues, the main issue in the 10-week strike, and recognition of the union on the part of the city. The union dues checkoff will be conducted through the credit union.

An agreement was announced at the mediation table at Hotel Claridge shortly after noon Tuesday.

At 1:05 p. m., the union membership, meeting at Clayborn Temple, approved by a standing vote.

City Council gave formal approval for the strike settlement by a vote of 12 to 1 at 2:45 p. m. The only no vote was from Bob James who said the "city can't get the money to pay the raises."

The city finally recognized the union "under a memo of agreement," which is not exclusive. The agreement also provides for promotions "on a basis of seniority and competency."

Mayor Loeb expressed relief that the strike was over. He had long contended that the strike was illegal. He had held out against a dues checkoff and recognition of the union.

Sanitation workers were jubilant as the vote was taken. They sent up cheers when all voted to accept the proposals.

The strike had brought on boycotts of downtown stores, business houses and the daily newspapers. It even led to the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

A strategy meeting was scheduled for Wednesday of this week to determine whether or not to continue the boycott.

Equally jubilant Tuesday afternoon were union officials, NAACP officials and ministers who have spearheaded marches and boycotts in behalf of the striking sanitation workers.

Many of them even spoke kind

Upward Bound At LeMoyn Gets New Grant

The Upward Bound Project at LeMoyn has been assured another 12 months of operation by the Office of Economic Opportunity. OEO approval of an $80,033 grant to the project was announced this week. LeMoyn must add $8,000 to the grant.

Upward Bound is a community action program aimed at challenging high school students who possess ability but lack the desire to achieve.

The grant provides salaries for a director, teachers, counselors and tutors. It also covers cost of books, field trips and "spending money" for enrollees.

The 68 students enrolled during the regular school year visit the LeMoyn campus on Saturdays. They attend classes and receive help from counselors and tutors relating to their regular classroom problems.

These students receive $5 a week during the regular school term and $10 a week during the five-day summer session.

Willie E. Johnson, project director, said one of the prime aims is to encourage these young people to prepare themselves for college. The project helps them secure scholarships.

Mrs. Bailey, 58, died of a cerebral hemorrhage Tuesday morning of last week at Baptist Hospital.

She suffered the hemorrhage about two and a half hours after the fatal shooting of Dr. King.

Mrs. Bailey was in a state of shock after learning of the shooting and began "shaking like a leaf," her husband said.

She said she felt better after being carried to the Bailey apartment in the hotel. Her brother-in-law found her later unconscious in the floor.

Mrs. Bailey was a familiar figure at the hotel and motel where she worked side by side with her husband.

Mr. Bailey said Dr. King had been a guest several times at the

Cotton Makers' Jubilee Postponed

The 33-year-old Cotton Makers' Jubilee, headed by Dr. R. Q. Venson, has been postponed indefinitely.

Parades, dances and the midway in Church Park have been cancelled.

The announcement came after the Memphis Cotton Carnival scheduled for May 4-12, announced an indefinite postponement.

Dr. Venson said he will try to stage some type of program next month.

Recent unrest and turmoil in Memphis brought on the postponements.

New Dates For LeMoyn Plays

The three short plays scheduled to close out LeMoyn's Spring Arts Festival this weekend will not be presented until next week, according to James Lee, director of drama at the college.

One of the plays is David Turner Ward's "Day of Absence," which had a long run in New York. It is a comedy about a small town that aroused itself one morning and discovered all of the Negroes missing.

The other two plays are Edward Albee's "The Sandbox" and Lawrence Ferlinghetti's "The Alligation."

New dates for the plays are Thursday, April 25, at 8 p.m.; Friday, April 26, at 8 p.m., and Saturday, April 27 at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The plays will be presented in the little theatre located in the college's student center. The cast is composed of LeMoyn students and faculty.

Send King Gifts To Atlanta Office

The widow of Dr. Martin Luther King and the new president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Dr. Ralph D. Abernathy, this week requested that all contributions in honor of the slain civil rights leader be sent to the Martin Luther King Memorial Fund in Atlanta.

In a joint statement, Mrs. King and Dr. Abernathy said:

"As Dr. Martin Luther King's widow and his closest friend and successor, we ask that all funds to honor Dr. King be sent to the Martin Luther King Memorial Fund, in care of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC)."

"Throughout the nation and the world, countless friends and supporters have asked how they might contribute to the memory of Dr. King. He often said that he wished to be remembered for his work through SCLC, and he asked that in the event of his death, financial contributions be made through SCLC to continue the struggle for freedom and justice."

In order that contributions may be used in accordance with Dr. King's own wishes, we have established the Martin Luther King Memorial Fund. This Fund will be used for the continuation of his work. We are also taking steps to insure that the children of Dr. King will have a secure future, and Brothers Die In Crash!

Easter weekend was a sad one for the parents, brothers, sisters and other relatives of Larry and Frank Brown, the two brothers who were killed early Saturday in a spectacular car-crash on East Parkway South near Central.

Both victims were student leaders at Lester Hih School. Larry C. Brown, 17, was an 11th grader, a distance runner on the track team and president of the school's Distributive Education Club. He also worked at McCrory's in the Popular-Plaza Shopping Center.

Centenary Awaits Achievement Day

Achievement Day, an annual observance of the women of Centenary Methodist Church, 584 East McLemore, will be observed at 4 p.m. this Sunday, April 21.

Speaker for the occasion will be Mrs. Elizabeth Poole of the Bethlehem Center, located on Walker Avenue.

"Modern Woman's Search for Personal Identity" is the theme of the program which is under the sponsorship of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Mrs. O. B. Johnson, president, said WSCS is attempting to raise $2,515 this church year for the support of several projects.

They also leave three brothers, James T. Brown, Clifton Brown and Tommie Brown of the home address; three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Pratcher of 409 Tillman, Mrs. Betty Wright of 405 Tillman and Miss Barbara Brown of 420 Gracewood, and a grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Brown of 536 Carpenter.

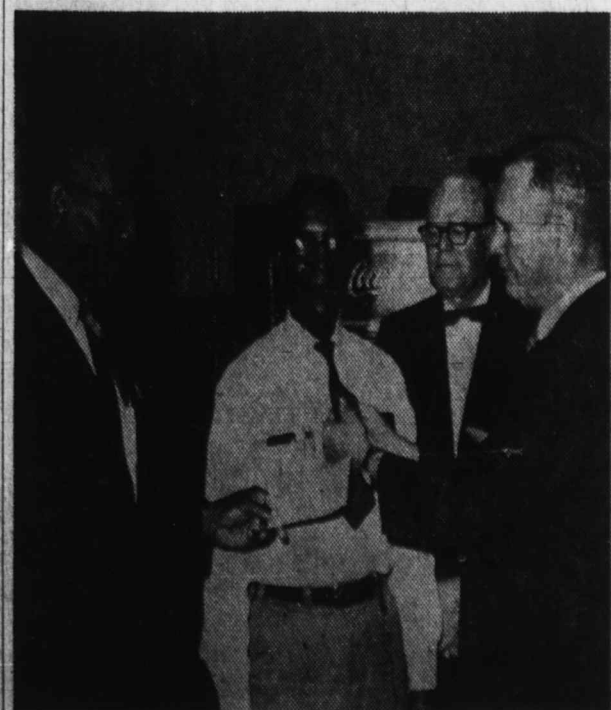

Funeral rites for the two brothers were held Wednesday of this week from Rock of Ages with burials at Whitesville, Tenn. in the Johnson Chapel CME Church cemetery. N. J. Ford and Sons Funeral Parlor was in charge of arrangements.

The dead youngsters were described by their mother as "good boys" who were handy around the house. She said they seldom stayed from home except when Larry spent some nights with his sister, Barbara, who lives alone.

Larry and Frank worked with their step-father, a carpenter, during summer months.

The oldest brother, Tommy, works at the Post Office, and Clifford just back after serving three years in the Army.

The mother said Frank dreamed last week that he and his brother Larry were in an automobile wreck.

Postman Honored Before Retirement

A Superior Performance Award of $250 has been presented to Postman M. D. McCoy for outstanding service to Memphis postal customers. Acting Postmaster Lydel Sims announced this week.

Mr. McCoy, carrier at the Main Post Office, received the award at a special ceremony in his honor April 11.

Mr. McCoy will retire from the Memphis Post Office April 26 after almost 40 years of loyal service.

He plans to "take it easy and enjoy a well-earned rest" at his home, 706 1/2 11th.

Suspected in Dr. King's Death: Eric Starvo Galt Never Really Existed

(By United Press International)

Indications mounted Monday that the most wanted man in the nation, Eric Starvo Galt, never actually existed but was carefully invented before Dr. Martin Luther King was assassinated.

Authorities pressed their search for a man who was said to have been in the Birmingham area at the time of the assassination. They indicated they feared Galt may be a kind of a "phantom" who was set up to hamper the search for the killer, or killers, of King.

It was learned that investigators have been unable to trace his existence beyond last summer, and pointed out that it is virtually impossible for a person to leave so few traces.

PURCHASED CAR
A man who called himself Galt purchased a car in Birmingham, Ala., on Aug. 30. He did not apply for an Alabama driver's license until a week later, at which time he gave his occupation as unemployed merchant marine seaman.

The apparently was a lie. None of the merchant seamen's unions have any record of him, and it is impossible to work in a ship, officials say, without a union card.

Only one resident of the rooming house where Galt lived in Birmingham, even recalls him, and he remembers virtually nothing about the man except that he probably stayed in the rooming house for six months.

ONLY MENTION
The only official mention of Galt was in an FBI "locate and notify" bulletin issued and then withdrawn in Florida. It said he was 37, 5 foot 11, 175 pounds, blue eyes and brown hair. It said his name was Eric Starvo Galt. It has been speculated, however, that this is a misspelling, although it is not known whether this is the result of an error in the bulletin or whether the FBI has the name listed that way. It is probably Starvo, a common name, rather than Starve.

If the identity is fictitious, authorities noted, it would indicate that months, if not years, of planning went into King's assassination.

Billfold Lost In Atlanta Returned To Mrs. Morris

Mrs. Alma Morris, civic worker and wife of Charlie Morris who ran for City Council last year, feels that she is the luckiest woman in Memphis. With her in Atlanta last Tuesday attending the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King, her billfold was "picked" from her handbag in the crowd on Morehouse College campus.

A plea was made over TV and radio stations for the papers in the billfold to be returned to Mrs. Morris in Memphis.

Monday, April 15, Mrs. Morris received a notice from the Post Office on Thomas St., to come down and pick up a package. To her surprise, the package contained her billfold with all papers intact, and of course, no money.

Mrs. Morris had won over the one chance in 20,000, the estimated number of people attending the funeral.

A note, signed, Mrs. Booker, Clark College, 240 Chestnut St., Atlanta, was in the package. The billfold had been found on the campus of Clark College, adjoining Morehouse.

A memorial service was held Tuesday, April 8, at Holly Grove Baptist Church for Dr. Martin Luther King with the following persons paying tribute: Rev. W. L. Reid, Rev. L. Nelson, Rev. J. R. Halliburton and Mr. Levi Moore. The display was by Miss P. F. Thompson.

Attending the service were Mayor Rozell Griner, Judge Paul Dew and Dr. L. S. Tucker.

Miss Eleanor Williams spent about four days with friends in Miami and Sarasota, Fla., last week. She was met here at the airport by her father last Wednesday night. After spending the rest of the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Williams, she returned by jet to St. Louis, Mo., Sunday, where she is employed in the school system.

Johnson Consolidated School presented its homecoming game Friday night with Johnson vs. Durhamville. The Johnson girls lost 21 to 19, and the boys won 56 to 31 over Durhamville. Both teams presented their queens. Howard Jones is the coach at Johnson High.

4-H Clubs Hold Statewide Meet

By DEBORAH DAVIS

"When the State Congress of 4-H Clubs held its 21st annual session in Nashville, March 24-26, Shelby County was represented by one senator, Deborah Davis, and a representative, Ruth Donohue, both students at Barret's Chapel High School.

The state-wide event, attended by outstanding 4-H-ers and leaders from all Tennessee counties, provided new opportunities for 4-H-ers and leaders to develop a better understanding of good citizenship and how it relates to daily life.

The theme, "Reaching Out," was depicted in pageants throughout the day convention. During general assemblies, state 4-H public speaking, essays, and 4-H citizenship winners were announced.

Activities included tours of the Life and Casualty Tower, State Museum, State Library and Archives, Capitol Building and Tennessee's Supreme Court. There were chaperoned bus tours of the Hermitage, home of Andrew Jackson; Parthenon and the "Upper Room," and Ellington Agriculture Center. Finally, the Citizenship Banquet and farewell party at the National Guard Armory.

Official congress delegates and chaperones were housed at the Andrew Jackson, Noel and Hermitage hotels. Chaperone from Shelby County was Miss Alberta Gaines, assistant county agent.

Mere Drops In The Astrodome

New Yorkers were bragging about their record turnout for a basketball game in the new Madison Square Garden when 19,500 fans jammed into the new arena for a recent NIT game.

Californians were crowding about their record turnout for a basketball game in the Los Angeles Sports Arena when 15,742 fans jammed into the arena for the NCAA Tournament clash between UCLA and Houston.

Texans are laughing up their collective sleeve. It would take three record crowds at Madison Square Garden, they point out, and four record crowds at the LA Sports Arena to match 53,000 spectators who watched the original UCLA-Houston Cage classic in the air-conditioned, upholstered comfort of the Houston Astrodome.

Bob Hope was exaggerating when he called the new Garden "Astrodome East," they claim.

The dedication of the New Holikamp Pipe Organ also will be held in Sisters Chapel, on Sunday, April 21 at 2:00 P. M.

"If you have a college degree, talk to IBM Lexington."

There are many career opportunities here for college graduates. If you qualify for one of them you can use your education to full advantage." (This is Freeman Bass, B.A. '63 from Fisk, a Senior Associate Chemist at IBM's Lexington facility.)

The rapid growth of information processing has created many new positions. Right now, we have openings in almost every area.

If you have a technical degree, you may qualify for a position in Engineering or Manufacturing. Business-oriented? We have openings in Administration and in Finance. And if you have a college degree in any subject—plus a logical mind—you might consider a career in Programming.

What IBM offers you. First of all, there's IBM's on-the-job training. You'll be thoroughly trained in your position until you're ready to assume major responsibilities.

There's challenge. We're doing some pretty advanced things in the office equipment field. And personal advancement at IBM is based on ability—not seniority.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Gregory Peck, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, lauded Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the slain civil rights leader, Wednesday night.

The tribute came during the 10th Annual Oscar Awards which was attended by the nation's top motion picture stars.

In his opening address, Peck said, "this has been a fateful week in the history of our nation. We join with members of the industry and men of good will everywhere in paying profound respects to the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr."

Peck said he thought the eulogy was only appropriate to the mood of the American people.

It was Peck who was instrumental in delaying the awards two days and in leading Negro performers to return to the show after they had decided to forego the event in the face of King's death.

Santa Monica Civic auditorium was filled with bejeweled and luxuriously dressed guests of the screen, both on stage to take part in the show and in the audience.

They entered the auditorium on a red carpet as hundreds of fans cheered from bleachers. Some 60 million fans were expected to tune in to the show via national television, according to network executives.

Peck, in paying his respects to King, said, "Society has always been reflected in its art, and one measure of Dr. King's influence on the society we live in is that out of five films nominated for best picture of the year, two dealt with the subject of understanding between the races."

"The lasting memorial that we of the motion picture community can build to Dr. King is to continue making film which celebrates the dignity of man, whatever his race or color or creed."

Women Are Prejudiced Against Women, Study Finds

ST. LOUIS Mo. — In the battle of the sexes still raging in this country, woman's deadliest foe is not the beleaguered male, but other women. So concludes Philip Goldberg, associate professor of psychology at Connecticut College, in the April issue of Transaction, a magazine of the social sciences published by Washington University.

Research by the author and his associates showed that women consider their own sex inferior, and that this belief prejudices them against other women. In a survey of 140 college girls selected at random, Goldberg and his workers discovered, as they had expected, that "there is a general bias by women against women, and that it is strongest in traditionally masculine fields."

But, surprisingly enough, the research also showed that even in traditionally feminine fields such as elementary-school teaching and dietetics "women considered themselves inferior to men." In short, Goldberg concluded, "Women seem to think that men are better at everything."

In experiments Goldberg and his researchers conducted, the girls were first given a list of 50 occupations and asked to rate "the degree to which you associate the field with men or with women." The young women strongly associated law and city planning with men; elementary-school teaching and dietetics with women. Two other fields, linguistics and art history, turned out to be neutral, not strongly associated with either sex.

One published article from each of these six areas was then selected and bound in two sets of booklets. "The crucial manipulation had to do with the authors' names — the same article bore a male name in one set of booklets; a female name in the other set." For example, if John T. McKay was listed as the author of the first article in set one; Joan T. McKay was credited with the SAME article in set two. Each booklet contained three "male" articles and three "female" articles.

The college girls were asked to answer nine rating questions about each article. "On all nine questions," Goldberg writes, "regardless of the author's occupational field, the girls consistently found an article more valuable — and its author more competent — when the article bore a male name. Though the articles themselves were exactly the same, the girls felt that those written by the John T. McKays were definitely more impressive, and reflected more glory on their authors, than did the mediocre offerings of the Joan T. McKays."

Goldberg observes that since the articles supposedly written by men were exactly the same as those supposedly written by women, the young women taking part in the experiment clearly revealed distorted and biased judgment in rating the men's articles as superior. "Women," he asserts, — "at least these young college women — are prejudiced against female professionals and, regardless of the actual accomplishments of these professionals, will firmly refuse to recognize them as the equals of their male colleagues."

The double standard is not dead, the author concludes — indeed, it may not even be dying. Women, despite their professed enthusiasm for equality between men and women, are staunchly traditional.

Death Took No Holiday At Eastertime As 15 Die

By United Press International

Five small children, ranging from two years old to eight, perished Saturday night when fire burned down their small frame home near Davisboro in Washington County.

The tragedy was the worst in the state during the Easter weekend that saw 15 persons die in fires, automobile accidents and drownings.

Sties were gloomy and rain fell over a wide section of the state to cut down the number of Sunday drivers. Nonetheless seven persons had died in traffic accidents by late Sunday.

Washington County Sheriff J. Euse Curry said autopsies had been ordered in the deaths of the five Negro children and that an investigation was still being conducted into the fire.

Neither Leroy Holmes, or his wife, Pauline, was at home when the fire burned the house about 3 miles north of Davisboro shortly after 8 p.m. Saturday.

The victims were Tommy Lee Holmes, 9, Geraldine, 7, Willie Roy, 5, Shirley Denise, 3, and Sylvia 2.

Two other small children died in a fire Saturday in a rural frame home in Clarke County. They were Mary Frances Bankston, 7, and Mary Frances Bankston, 4. Four other children and two adults were saved in the fire spreading fire by passing and caused the sleeping children to be killed.

one of those — that of James Herman Murray of Appling — was counted as a traffic fatality because he rode his automobile through a guardrail and into a lake.

The other drowning was that of James Lester Darnell, 22, of Dalton who went under when he tried to swim to shore from his capsize boat in a lake near Chatsworth.

An early morning crash Sunday killed Sandra Jean Dixon, 17, of Cleveland, Ga. The car in which she was riding went out of control on a curve near Nelson and crashed into woods. Other victims included:

—Talmadge Todd, 49, of Clayton, killed in a head-on collision on a bridge late Saturday night about four miles north of Glensville near the intersection of U. S. Highway 301 and Georgia 73 in Tattnall County. Two others were injured.

—Thad Clinton Davis, 40, Calhoun, was killed Saturday night when he lost control of his car and it hit a bridge abutment north of Calhoun on Georgia 225.

—Mike Terry Rowell, 20, of Senoia, died in a head-on collision early Saturday night 3.5 miles west of Senoia. One other person was injured.

—Chester O. Campbell, 43, was killed Saturday when his car collided with another vehicle two miles east of Hahira.

—John Crocker, 14, of Columbus, was killed when the car in which he was riding went out of control and crashed on a curve on Georgia 219 in the Harris County town of Whitesville.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK Looking Back to 1868

24-D Collections of evidence of extra-sensory perception include a remarkable happening in 1868.

Months before, one Abram James, an ardent spiritualist, was driving with three friends in the Fithole-Titusville region of Pennsylvania. He suddenly leaped out of the carriage near Pleasantville in a kind of trance, jumped a farm fence, ran to a spot in a field, knelt down, and fell rigid.

Restored to consciousness, James told the companions streams of petroleum lay below — some distance from where wells had been drilled before. He proceeded to lease the property and hire drillers. At 7,000 feet he had only a dry-hole, but "Crazy James" confidently erected a tank for oil.

Early in 1868, flow began — a 320 barrels a day of it — from the hole James named the "Harmonial." Operators rushed to lease adjoining farms. Though none put any faith in the supernatural narrative of James, every operator located wells as near to the "Harmonial" as he could get. . . they turned out good wells," Paul H. Giddens recorded in Early Days of Oil. CLARK KINNAIRD

New Demonination To Form April 21-May 4th

DALLAS, Texas — Two Protestant bodies, The Methodist Church and The Evangelical United Brethren Church (EUB), will join forces here April 25 to create a new denomination — The United Methodist Church.

The special ceremony officially consummating the union will be one of the highlights of the United Conference of the two groups to be held in Dallas Memorial Auditorium April 21 to May 4.

This marks the first instance of organic union of two of the 10 denominations that are participants in the Consultation on Church Union.

The new United Methodist Church will have more than 11 million members in the United States and Canada — 10,289,000 from The Methodist Church and 745,000 from the EUB Church. In addition, there are nearly a million members overseas.

Methodists and EUBs share a common historical and spiritual heritage and hold the same basic doctrines with similar ecclesiastical organizations. During the past several years, conversations under the authorization of their respective General Conferences have led to the Plan of Union, which was adopted November 11, 1966, in Chicago at simultaneous General Conferences.

There will be some 420 EUB delegates and about 850 Methodist delegates seated at the United Conference, chosen to represent annual (regional) conferences of the two denominations. Ratification of the Plan of Union by two-thirds of the members of these regional conferences was completed last June.

Basic business of the United Conference includes the revision and perfecting of the organization and administration section of the Plan of Union, adopted in principle at Chicago. Numerous revisions are being suggested by the 48-member Joint Commission on Union.

In addition, individual church members and church groups of both bodies have the right to petition the conference for changes in the Discipline or book of law. Almost 2,800 such petitions had been received before the deadline for submitting such petitions.

All of these — the organization and administration section, revisions proposed by the Joint Commission, and the 2,800 petitions bearing on many issues — will be channeled through an appropriate on Tuesday, April 23 at 8:30 a.m. Bishop Donald Harvey Tippet of San Francisco, president of the Methodist Council of Bishops, will preside at the service, and the Rev. Dr. Albert C. Outler, professor in Perkins School of Theology, Southern University, Dallas, will give the address.

Some of the other program highlights for the conference follow:

Saturday, April 20 — Registration and evening reception of conference dignitaries.

Sunday, April 21 — Legislative committees will meet briefly at 7 p.m. to organize and elect officers. Communion service at 8 p.m. EUB Bishop Paul Milhouse of Kansas City, Mo., will be in charge of the service.

Monday, April 22 — Separate meetings of the Methodist General Conference and the EUB General Conference. A major item of business at the EUB General Conference will be the election of a new bishop to replace Bishop Harold R. Helinger of Minneapolis, Minn., who earlier announced his plans for retirement. The new bishop will be assigned later to administer an area in the North Central Jurisdiction.

At 7:30 p.m., Bishop Lloyd C. Wick, of New York will deliver the Episcopal Address, a sort of "state of the church" address, signed by all the bishops.

Tuesday, April 23 — First official session of the United Conference and service of unification at 8:30 a.m.

Wednesday, April 24 — An evening program commemorating the centennial of Christian higher education among Negroes.

Friday, April 26 — At 11:30 a.m. it is expected that an order of the day will be established for an address by an outstanding prelate of the Roman Catholic Church.

Saturday, April 27 — Texas Night program at the Moody Coliseum, Southern Methodist University.

Sunday, April 28 — An evening festival of Christian Song under the direction of Professor Carlton R. Young of Perkins School of Theology, editor of the Methodist hymnal and director of music for the United Conference. Lutherist will be the Rev. Dr. Paul Eller of the Evangelical Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill., and editor of the Worship Hymnal.

Wednesday, May 1 — Dramatic presentation on "The Women's Voice of the Church" sponsored by bishops and agencies of the United denominations.

Bishops will take turns presiding at plenary sessions of the conference, with each morning opening with a worship service. Bishop James S. Thomas of New Orleans, La., has charge of planning and directing these services.

Each week-end afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a service of worship and communion in the First Methodist Church in downtown Dallas. The service will be the first of a series of similar services in other cities.

A major item on the agenda of the conference will be the adoption of a new constitution for 1968-69. Bishop James K. Matthews of Detroit is chairman of the Constitution Council, which is bringing forward a proposed program or behalf of the bishops and various agencies of the church.

Adoption of a budget for the ongoing work of the denomination and any special appeals authorized

Anti-Proverty Workers To Try And Help Curve Violence

Anti-poverty workers played key roles in efforts to head off violence in several major cities following the assassination of Rev. Martin Luther King, a nationwide survey conducted by the Office of Economic Opportunity has revealed.

The survey covered the experience of 42 cities, from Thursday night, April 4, the date of King's death, to Monday morning, April 8, inclusive.

The cities were chosen to represent a broad distribution: geographical, political and social. All of the cities studied have significant minority populations.

Hardest hit by the weekend disorders were Washington, D. C., Baltimore, and Chicago, and in each of these cities, the local Community Action Agency made its facilities and personnel available to help restore calm and alleviate the suffering of innocent victims.

Youths and adults were effective in preventing major outbreaks during this period in two cities which have gone through recent major civil disorders — Newark, N. J. and New York City.

In Newark, the city's anti-poverty agency, the United Community Corporation, sent some 400 youths and adults into the streets to calm the anger that arose after the slaying of the civil rights leader, Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio set up a command post at UCC headquarters to coordinate peace keeping efforts.

In New York City, over 200 teenagers from HARYOU's Cadet Corps helped to disperse crowds and restrict the destruction and looting that broke out on Thursday.

Preventive efforts on the part of CAA personnel were also reported from Boston, Louisville, Houston, New Orleans, St. Louis, Kansas City, Mo.; Detroit, Minneapolis, Grand Rapids, Cleveland, Little Rock, San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash.

Baltimore's Community Action Agency was involved in attempts to reduce violence from its beginning on Saturday afternoon. By 8 p.m., the agency had 12 of its staff members in the streets of the city and the number was by the conference will also be under consideration.

Considerable interest centers around the proposed Program Council, which would combine with the present EUB Program Council concept a cluster of Methodist agencies, including the Coordinating Council, the Commission on Promotion and Cultivation, the Television, Radio and Film Commission, Interboard Commission on the Local Church and the Research Department of the Council on World Service and Finance.

There would be created in each local church a new mandatory "Council of Ministries" to consider, develop and correlate proposals for the church's strategy for mission."

A report on the ministry will bring up the question of whether there should be one order of the clergy or two and the possibility of a new type of lay deacon relationship. There are strong differences of opinion as to whether or not the no-smoking rule for ministers should be changed.

Anticipating that it will not be possible to complete all necessary reorganization during the United Conference, the Joint Commission on Union is proposing the creation of four special commissions to spend the next four years working on the issues. These commissions would be assigned to update the church's creedal statement, revise its statement of social principles, deal with general church organization, and continue to study the structure of Methodism overseas.

General boards and agencies of The Methodist Church are located in New York, Nashville, Washington, D. C., and Evanston, Ill. The headquarters of the EUB Church is in Dayton, Ohio. The plan calls for continuing all of these centers, to cognate units of the two denominations will be merged and here will be some shifting of board offices and staff personnel from city to city.

The Rev. Dr. J. Otis Young, Park Ridge, Ill., an associate publisher of The Methodist Publishing House, is chairman of the Commission on Entertainment and Program, which has charge of all arrangements for the conference.

Dr. J. Wesley Hole of Los Angeles has been secretary of the Methodist General Conference, and the Rev. Dr. Emerson D. Bragg, Dayton, Ohio, secretary of the EUB General Conference.

increased to 35 by Sunday afternoon. Six of the CAA's centers were opened to serve as emergency food distribution points for the victims of the riot and the number was expanded to nine on Wednesday.

The CAA was so overwhelmed by volunteers that it had to turn them away. In addition, donations totaling more than $15,000 were received to ease the human suffering caused by the outbreak. The CAA's Planned Parenthood Center was staffed by physicians from Johns Hopkins Hospital as a first aid station.

Washington's United Planning Organization deployed many of its personnel into the streets to hold down violence. One unit that came in for special praise was the Neighborhood Development Youth Program for ghetto teenagers. Some members of the youth program helped break up tense situations, disarmed other teenagers, and encouraged others to stay off the streets in areas of disorders.

Typical of the anti-poverty workers was Ronald Sinclair of the Northwest Youth Center, who said: "During the night I was talking to people, telling them that the police were there because they had a job to do. I think I got it over to a lot of cats. I just gave them the word: These fellows with guns — they aren't living."

In Chicago, the seven main Urban Progress Centers of the Chicago Commission on Urban Opportunity, the anti-poverty agency, remained open 24 hours a day to serve primarily as clearing house for information. Ghetto residents called them for information on obtaining food, clothing and shelter CCUCO staffers were on a continuous patrol of the riot area.

One of the Chicago areas that escaped violence was the Woodlawn section. This has been credited to the activities of two warring gangs, the Blackstone Rangers and the Fast Side Disciples who, believing that their neighborhood would suffer in a disorder, arranged a truce. Gang members then patrolled the streets to prevent any type of outbreak. The Woodlawn Organization (TWO) through an OEO Community Action Program demonstration grant, conducts a manpower program that involves gang members.

Reports from other cities include:

BOSTON — Neighborhood Youth Corps enrollees and anti-poverty workers under the direction of Boston City Councilman Tom Atkins, and wearing armbands, patrolled the Roxbury community, urging residents to "cool it." A spokesman for the anti-poverty agency, "Action for Boston Community Development," said the Police Department had reported that in seven areas the anti-poverty staffs and youths were engaged in calmness and helping to register voters.

MINNEAPOLIS — Sixty CAA staff members involved in calming efforts.

DETROIT — Mayor John Whitehead asked for the support of the Detroit Community Action Agency. The entire staff of the CAA (about 300 employees) was on duty 24 hours a day from the time of King's death until 2 a.m. Monday, April 8. The CAA staff together with volunteers patrolled the streets to assist police in keeping the peace. Blair Justice, one of the mayor's top assistants said the CAA cooperated "beautifully" and should be complimented for its role in keeping the peace.

NEW ORLEANS — Community Action Agency personnel active in neighborhoods in ghetto to keep the peace.

ST. LOUIS — Neighborhood aides spent the weekend advising residents in ghetto area to "cool it."

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Door-to-door calls were made in an effort to keep things under control. There was tight coordination with both city and law enforcement agencies.

DETROIT — Some 20 outreach workers from the Mayor's Committee on Human Resources Development helped maintain communication links with the ghetto.

MINNEAPOLIS — Volunteers, organized through the Minneapolis Urban Coalition, working closely with the local CAA Mobilization of Economic Resources, patrolled the streets to keep the peace.

GRAND RAPIDS — The local CAA, the United Community Services of Kent County, was instrumental in persuading the City Commission to permit a memorial march for Dr. King, which was felt helped to release pent up emotions.

CLEVELAND — The Council for Economic Opportunities kept its five centers open 24 hours on Friday and Saturday at the request of Mayor Carl Stokes.

LITTLE ROCK — The staff of EOA was extremely active in efforts to keep the area calm.

SAN FRANCISCO — Neighborhood and youth workers of anti-poverty agencies circulated throughout poverty areas keeping youths off the street.

OAKLAND — Male members of the West Oakland Advisory Board, a poverty agency patrolled the streets, knocking on doors and calling on other outposts urging people to stay at home and keep calm.

LOS ANGELES — Primarily responsible for the calm was an organization formed Friday the Black Operational Unity Committee, a coalition of religious, business and militant leaders from all areas of the city. The Neighborhood Adult Participation Project, and teen posts, all delegate agencies of the Economic and Youth Opportunities Agency of Los Angeles, was instrumental in forming this coalition.

More Tributed To Dr. King

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — President I. W. Abel of the United Steelworkers of America today issued the following statement:

We, of the United Steelworkers of America, deplore the senseless slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and the hate and bigotry behind it. It represents a national tragedy comparable to the martyrdom that befell President Lincoln and Kennedy. It shows the world an ugly side of our society and emphasizes the critical need for us to overcome the kind of thinking and emotions that are costing this nation both leadership and stature.

Dr. King was a friend of all people, and a particular friend of the labor movement. In fact, his faithful mission in Memphis was to help achieve the right of free collective bargaining.

Inasmuch as he gave his life for the cause of freedom, all American now must do no less than draw closer together, as a people, to carry on this great crusade for justice in the tradition of non-violence which Dr. King so rightly and devoutly espoused.

The profound sorrow of this Union has been conveyed to the family of Dr. King and our officers and members are rededicating our efforts to achieve, in the way he would want, the goals which Dr. King sought for a better and greater America.

The Killer Must Be Punished

News reports are that the white Mustang automobile in which the killer of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. is alleged to have left the shooting scene in, has been located in Atlanta and impounded by the F.B.I. here.

This is encouraging news. The F.B.I. had put out a nationwide alert following the assassination in Memphis last week. This Mustang car had been parked in southeast Atlanta several days. This indicates perhaps the general public has not been as alert as it could be. Don't hesitate to report to police any strange cars meeting police description when crimes have been committed. Let us cooperate with the police.

At least $155,000 have been offered in rewards for the killer or persons who may be involved in the brutal and cowardly act of taking Dr. King's life.

Crime in general is too prevalent in our cities and the nation as a whole. Let us all cooperate in helping to reduce crime.

As for us, we believe certainty of punishment is the most effective deterrent to crime. Let us all hope that the person or persons involved in this recent national tragedy will be brought to justice.

After The Lost Weekend

The New York Times carried an editorial under the above title a few days after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. A portion of that editorial, because of its appropriateness, is reproduced below:

"Not since the Civil War has this country experienced an epidemic of domestic violence so widespread as it was this weekend. The looters and arsonists who rampaged through the streets of Washington, Chicago, and other cities disgraced the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King and mocked the principles for which he stood. These criminals burned down their neighbors' homes and ransacked the stores serving the black ghettos, thus victimizing thousands of Negroes who were left homeless or deprived of normal facilities for obtaining food and other necessities.

"But it is important for all Americans to understand that it was only infinitesimal minority of his nation's Negroes who participated in this mindless debauch. For every Stokely Carmichael seeking to fan the flames of destruction, there were hundreds of thousands of Negroes who worked hard and effectively to cool passions and to prevent or to end violence. Grim as was this lost weekend, it would have been unimaginably more dreadful if it had not been for the massive contribution of responsible Negroes — acting in the spirit of Dr. King's life work — to the maintenance of law and order.

"The great majority of this country's black people stood aloof from or actively resisted the forces of anarchy that sought to capture the American Negro community these past few days. This is eloquent testimony that despite past setbacks and disappointments, this majority still believes America's democratic institutions can and will satisfy the justified demands of the Negro people.

"In the wake of Dr. King's martyrdom and its painful immediate consequences, the imperative task is to make these hopes reality."

The Funeral—In Retrospect

On the day that Dr. Martin Luther King, was buried a permeating tone of genuine sorrow seemed to override the propensity for violence and/or the cries for vengeance.

The leaders from religion, sports, entertainment, labor, business, and politics came unheralded from afar and near to honor a revered man. Anonymity is said to be the essence of the sincerity of purpose and herein lies the dominant theme which prevails as one reflects on the multitudes that view Dr. King's body as it lay in state and later marched across our town behind two mules pulling a wagon barely large enough to hold the casket. It was a memorable tribute to a man whose short eloquent life had given brilliant expression to noble and universally shared ideals.

Some commentators have bemoaned his passing with resignation and the acceptance of the contention that our society has lost forever a persuasive voice for morality and love. Others have responded with attempts to expound their own views. Dr. King's family and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, new head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, have stated that they will continue with the non-violent program of action.

Somewhat martyrdom seems inadequate as a term for Dr. King after his death. It carries the connotation of secularism which could not contain the all-embracing spirit of compassion that King held for all men. He had transcended the limitation of ethnic ties to the higher level of universality.

We feel that those who walked with Dr. King can be heartened by the fact that so many thousands from all stations in life around the world came to Atlanta to march in humble homage to a great American.

Wenonah State Tech Mourns Dr. M. L. King, Jr.

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — Members of Wenonah State Technical School joined institutions of higher learning throughout the nation in a memorial service for the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

At ten o'clock Friday morning, April 5, an impressive program was given in the school auditorium. Participants included Dr. Emory O. Jackson, Managing Editor of the Birmingham World, who gave a short talk "Who Was This Man?" The Rev. John T. Porter, pastor of Sixth Avenue Baptist Church brought the Inspirational Message, using excerpts from some of Dr. King's famous speeches.

The occasion was given by Mrs. Eva F. Green and solos by Mrs. Leola C. Smith.

Music was furnished by A. C. Campbell and Mrs. Mildred Hunter, music instructor, Wenonah State Junior College.

Tuesday morning at 9:00 a. m., Wenonah State Junior College joined Wenonah State Technical School in a "Flag Salute Ceremony" honoring the Martyred Dr. King.

Excerpts from the famous speech "I Have A Dream" were given by Mrs. Green. The Rev. George Wallace Maive, pastor of Trinity AME Zion Church gave prayer and a short inspiring message.

Mrs. Z. C. Billingsley is chairman of the program committee. Dr. T. A. Lawson is director of Wenonah State Technical School.

Women's Meet For Washington Is Postponed

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Women's Conference scheduled for Washington May 19, 2021 has been postponed until next Spring. It was announced today by the Democratic National Committee.

Vice Chairman Margaret Price said that the decision was made at the request of national committeewomen and party leaders across the Nation.

"Our women felt that this was the best possible decision in such a critical campaign year. Each of them is currently so active within their home states that it was simply a matter of not having time to spare for a national conference. We've had this decision under study for some time and we concur with their request."

Mrs. Price pointed to women's activities as a cornerstone of the 1968 campaign. "As always, our Democratic women are deeply involved. They will continue to work diligently to inform the people of the great accomplishments of the Democratic Party throughout its history and most notably throughout the past seven and one half years.

Tributes To Dr. M. L. King Jr. From The World Of Mourners

NEW YORK — MORRIS B. ABRAM, president of the American Jewish Committee, and a longtime friend and fellow Atlantan of the late Martin Luther King Jr., issued the following statement recently on learning of his death:

"The American Jewish Committee applauds the appeal of President Johnson that the nation, as it mourns the passing of its great Nobel laureate, Martin Luther King Jr., end the violence that so threatens to engulf our land. If the untimely and tragic death of Dr. King can signal such an end to violence in the U. S., then it shall not be in vain."

Dr. King received the American Liberties Memorial, highest award of the American Jewish Committee, at its annual meeting in 1965.

Mr. Abram, it was recalled, was the go-between in arranging the famous telephone call in 1960 from John F. Kennedy to Dr. King, expressing his support of Dr. King who was in an Atlanta jail for his civil rights activity. Mr. Abram also persuaded Atlanta officials to release Dr. King. The phone call is regarded by many Democrats as having had a powerful effect in bringing Negro voters into the Kennedy camp.

Founded in 1906, the American Jewish Committee is the pioneer human relations agency in this country. It combats bigotry, protects the civil and religious rights of Jews here and abroad and advances the cause of human rights for all.

"We are unspeakably shocked by the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King, one of the greatest leaders of our time."

"This is a bitter reflection on America. We fear for our Country. The only possible answer now is for the nation to act immediately on what Dr. King has been fighting for — passage of the Civil Rights and Anti-Poverty Bills, and a true and just equality for all men."

"Those of us who have remained loyal to his concept of non-violence have been dealt a mortal blow. We pray that he has not died in vain. If he has, this will mean the kind of violence that he gave his life to prevent."

NEW YORK — On behalf of the members and officers of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Executive Director Roy Wilkins, on April 5 dispatched the following telegram of condolence to Mrs. Martin Luther King, Jr.:

Our hearts are with you and the children in this dark hour. Your husband was one of the world's great disciples of peace. He had the compassion and love for all mankind which mark the true believers in non-violence. The cause of interracial justice has suffered an incalculable loss in his tragic death and the most fitting monument to his memory would be the opportunity and freedom for his people for which he gave his life. In shock and grief but in determination to realize his goals the officers, National Board Members and staff of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People send you this message. Within hours after the tragic news of the assassination reached him, Mr. Wilkins issued the following statement:

"The NAACP is shocked and deeply grieved by the dastardly murder of Dr. Martin Luther King. His murderers must be promptly apprehended and brought to justice. He was a symbol of the non-violent civil rights protest movement. His senseless assassination solves nothing. It will not stay the civil rights movement; it will instead spur it to greater activity. It places upon the American people the responsibility to move promptly and massively to expunge racism from our national life."

The following statement on the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King was issued Thursday, April 4 at 9 p. m. by Dore Schary, national chairman, Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith:

The assassination of Martin Luther King is a horrible and shocking tragedy; a place of America died with him. Dr. King, martyred by the uncontrolled violence which is tearing this nation apart, was a symbol of moderation and persuasive leadership. His murder is a national calamity. All who love America should at least be shocked into a realization of the danger that stalks the land and into an understanding that only by total emancipation of the Negro will this nation and this democracy survive.

"We trust that those responsible for his death will be apprehended and punished. We join with hundreds of millions of Americans and citizens of the world in sending our condolences to his bereaved family."

ITTA BENA Miss. — Martha S. Lyons, student publication editor, summed up the reactions of the student body at Mississippi Valley State College as follows: After receiving the news of the death of Dr. Martin L. King, the student body of Mississippi Valley State College was greatly disturbed. With sorrow in their hearts and tears in their eyes, they decided to have a sympathy March on the perimeter of the campus and culminate the march with an hour of mourning in the H. G. Carpenter Auditorium.

The service included expressions of sympathy by many students; expressions and prayer by our Chaplain, Rev. F. D. Matthews; solo — God Shall Wipe All Tears Away, Miss Olivia Turner; a sonnet written and presented by Miss Selene Brown; remarks by President J. H. White and solo — My Living Shall Not Be in Vain — Miss Lou Ann Pickett.

Though there is always a little violence in most undertakings, we are happy to say to the state, nation and world that the student body of Mississippi Valley State College was not one of extreme violence toward the situation.

She praised Messrs. Andrew Smith, Wilhelm Joseph, T. J. Miller, Charles Barron and Miss Shelly Alexander, student leaders at MVSC. Mrs. Henri E. Lowe, chair directress, was praised for furnishing the music.

MY WEEKLY SERMON

By
REV. BLAIR T. HUNT,
PASTOR,
MISSISSIPPI NVD CHRISTIAN CHURCH
MEMPHIS, TENN.

SUBJECT:
"MARTIN LUTHER KING"
Text: "There is a Prince and a Great Man fallen this day."
—II Samuel 3:38

Yes, a great prince, rather a "king," a great man has fallen, the victim of a mad man's rifle. A great man just six years the senior of Him whom he served, Jesus the Christ, has left us.

Throughout America and in many lands beyond the seas, there is a deep sense of sadness. In a city once rightly called "a place of good abode," Christ was crucified anew, crucified on a black Tuesday, April 4, 1968.

Dr. King, the great apostle of non-violence, the great advocate of peace and justice and love fell a victim to violence, injustice and hatred.

Martin Luther King was a man who had a golden heart of love and a golden smile. Only when he heard of injustice did his golden heart melt and that golden smile leave. Then his face would cloud and the raven feet of sorrow would etch his kindly face.

Dr. King, disenthralled of flesh, is now grafted on to the infinite and will be fruitful as no earthly life can be. Old age will not weary him as my 80 years weary me; neither will time condemn as in his life he was condemned by thoughtless souls.

Now, I can imagine Dr. King would have said with the poet: "Let me live out my years in heat of blood! Let me die drunken with the dreamer's wine! Let not this soul house built of mud go toppling to the dust a vacant shrine! Let me go quickly like a candle light, snuffed out just at the heyday of its glow! Give me high noon and let it be night! Thus would I go." And so Dr. King left us quickly like a candle light snuffed out at high noon.

And so Dr. King left us drunken with this dreamer's wine. He said "I have a dream." And so Dr. King left us having lived a short life but a full life. He lived a great life like his Lord and Savior who lived a perfect life but the two are greater in death because of "Resurrection."

Just as Jesus wept over His beloved city, Dr. King weeps when he sees violence, riots, burnings and looting in our cities. Just as Jesus admonished the people who he bawled and lamented Him on His way to His crucifixion "weep not for Me but weep for yourselves." So would Dr. King admonish us. We are yet enslaved but thank God Almighty, "King" is free at last. He has overcome.

Tuesday, April 9, 1968, loving hands carried his body to God's acre. The man of God intoned "Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust." The mortal remains of Dr. King returned to the soil of Georgia that had so long nourished him. But Dr. King will not be there; only the tenement of clay in which he once lived. Summer will come and emerald his grave with a carpet of green; winter will come and garment his grave with stainless white. The rains will wet his couch of clay with pitying tears. The silent stars will keep watch by night; the wandering winds will whisper a requiem over his couch of clay, but the Dr. King will not be there. In truth he will always be and live in our hearts of unborn generations.

In our sadness let us look up and say to Dr. King the words of the poet:

"Your day has come not gone;
Your sun has risen not set;
Your life is now beyond
The reach of change or death;
Not ended but begun."

Social Workers Profession Seek New Legislation Soon

WASHINGTON — Spokesman for the social work profession will come to Washington April 25 to meet their Congressmen and urge prompt action on legislation to relieve the current crises in the cities and in public welfare.

Some 200 members of the National Association of Social Workers from NASW Chapters throughout the country, will be at the Skyline Inn here on that date for a three day national social action workshop on "The Urban Crisis."

In personal visits with Senators and Representatives, the social workers will urge support of many of the recommendations in the report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders—particularly in respect to open housing, "model city" appropriations, rent supplements and provision of employment. They will also seek repeal, or at least postponement, of the recent Social Security amendments freezing Federal financial participation in aid to dependent children (AFDC).

The keynote address at the opening of the workshop will be given by Daniel Thoms, chairman of the NASW Commission on Social Action and dean, School of Social Work, University of Maryland.

Principal speakers at the plenary sessions will include: Thursday, April 25—"Strategies for Social Change," Adam Yaomolinitsky, professor of law, Harvard University Law School. Friday, April 26—"The 90th Congress and the Urban Crisis," "The Urban Crisis—A Challenge to Social Workers," Bertram Beck, executive director, Mobilization for Youth and Henry Street Settlement, New York City; and Alvin F. Poussaint, M. D., assistant professor of psychiatry, Tufts University School of Medicine, Boston.

Saturday, April 27—"A Look at the Black Revolution's Impact on the Urban Crisis," Charles Hamilton, chairman of the Department of Political Science, Roosevelt University, Chicago; and Richard Cloward, professor, Columbia University School of Social Work, New York City. At his same session, the concluding address for the workshop will be given by Mitchell Ginsberg, chairman of the NASW Division of Social Policy and Action and administrator, Human Resources Administration, New York City.

Informal workshop groups on Friday will tackle specific urban problems and the techniques and strategies for bringing about change. Experts on urban affairs will tackle specific urban problems and the techniques and strategies for bringing about change. Experts on urban affairs will be on hand to add background and depth to the discussion.

Typical workshop subjects will be: "The Social Agency—A Launching Pad for Change," "Direct Action Strategies Relating to the Welfare Rights Movement," "Coalitions—How and When to Form Coalitions for Change."

The board of directors of the project will begin within 30 days. The contractor will have eight months to finish the job.

National Associations of Social Workers has declared the urban crisis and the related current public welfare problems the major program priority of the Association for the year ahead.

MEMPHISIAN REVIEW DR. KING'S REMAINS

There is really nothing that I can say not add to what has been said by hundreds of reporters from the news media about our own Dr. Martin Luther King who was murdered in Memphis Thursday, April 4.

But he must be mentioned as this is the news the world around and we here are saddened when a man of stature, humility, dignity and faith has been killed defending us in our home town. Dr. King's virtues and achievements have been many more than one can name but are overshadowed by his death. This Nobel Peace Prize winner has advocated non-violence, following in the foot-steps of India's Gandhi. At his early age, Dr. King, only 35, had been around the world seeking brotherhood and from all reports he was sincerely loved by most of the nations.

The R. S. Lewis Funeral Home was the scene Friday morning of thousands who had mixed emotions as they heard by way of mouth that they had just 10 minutes to see our Black Moses. Had it been known, Vance Avenue where Lewis Funeral Home is located, would have been blocked for its entire length. There was possibly 50 or more reporters at the mortuary and many photographers when we arrived before eight in the morning. Standing at the entrance were Mr. R. S. Lewis, Sr., Mr. Robert Lewis Jr., Mr. Clarence Lewis, both Mrs. Lewis Sr. and Mrs. Lewis Jr. all who directed the crowd. Also saddened were Mr. Solomon Jones (a member of the R. S. Lewis Staff) who chauffeured Dr. King and who went on the plane to Atlanta along with Mrs. King and Mr. Charles Morris, embalmer, who did a terrific job on the world's beloved Dr. King who looked as if he were asleep in spite of the horrible gun wound.

We know of no man (with the exception of the late President Roosevelt and the late President John F. Kennedy) who have received the recognition and acclaim (around the world) that Dr. King has received. Here I quote Judge B. L. Hooks and the Rev. James Lawson who said that Dr. King's death has plunged America and the entire world into grief. I have only seen the large number of reporters and photographers (even many coming in from Europe, London, Paris, Rome and Germany). When Queen Elizabeth arrived in Chicago several years ago. There were three London reporters who spent much time Friday at the Lorraine Hotel, and they came from many other countries.

At Mass Sunday, we found that Pope Paul VI centered prayers at Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral around Dr. King. A letter at the masses in Memphis Sunday was read. It spoke of the turmoil in our community and the horrible death of Dr. Martin Luther King and the Bishop continued: "It is painfully apparent that our sympathies do not all tend in the same direction. However, the laws of love of God and fellowman, justice and equality for all are known to all of us. Our hope of survival is the immediate application of these laws to our own lives and to others as they may be affected. Those of us who mean well and are sincere in wanting true peace and justice, said the Bishop, must now speak out. Otherwise we shall be overcome by those whose intentions are not sincere and in accord with the teachings of Christ. Think of this during Holy Week."

Dr. King has walked with Kings, but has never lost the common touch. He had compassion for all who were not quite so fortunate, as many others, feel the loss keenly and we are touched over the horrible crime that is so close to us. Even small children are seen crying over the idealistic leader whom they have heard so much about. His preaching of love and non-violence appealed to all of us.

President Lyndon Johnson, the First Man of the Land, was stung and cancelled all of his engagements... even his trip to Hawaii to talk over negotiations regarding Vietnam. He spoke beautifully about Dr. King and attended a memorial for him on Sunday after declaring it a holiday and requesting that flags be half staff in all American embassies and Consulates abroad. So did other dignitaries such as Vice President Humphrey, Dr. Ralph Bunche, and many other world leaders (especially in Africa, Germany and Denmark).

At the airport I accidentally stood by a woman reporter from the Educational TV Station in New York City whom I first saw at the funeral home. A Brinson, a tall young Negro who is with the Washington Post... and talked with Stanley Scott (once with the Memphis World who is now with CBS out of New York City). Talking with the Atlanta Daily World they were expecting approximately one-hundred thousand persons in for the funeral from out-of-town cities and countries. Major Leagues refused to play ball and there is much unrest all around the nation as far as we can see on TV.

600 ATTEND MEMPHIS URBAN LEAGUE DINNER AT SPERATION-PEABODY

Aside of elegance and a delicious dinner the untiring work of the Memphis Urban League was brought out in talks made at the Annual Dinner on Monday with Dr. Hollis Price, chairman of the board and president of LeMoyne College presiding. Seated high at the speaker's table were Mr. Samuel M. Convisor, guest speaker and administrator of Community Relations of ROA. He was introduced by Mr. L. H. Whitten, a newcomer to Memphis who is manager of the ROA plant in Memphis. The speaker has distinguished himself in the area of Community Relations. For two years he served on the New York State Board of Education. He also served as Executive Administrator to the Mayor of New York City and was graduated from Dickinson, Rutgers and the University of Boston. The eloquent speaker said that employment means a city with purchasing power. A vibrant city, he added, it attracts more plants and more jobs. He suggested that we must work for better jobs, schools and housing as he spoke of the lack of communication among races as one of our number one problems. Have on Staffs, he added, people concerned with the poor. Our problems are ugly. It is deprivation and despair and for Negroes, it is also the lack of influence and

MRS. POMLEE JOHNSON and her sister, MRS. WILLIE MAE WATKINSON of Dayton arrived here five weeks ago to be with a sick aunt, MRS. BETTY STONES who passed away at the Jerrell.

ATTENDED KING FUNERAL - Thirty-five Memphis sanitation workers made the trip to Atlanta aboard a WDIA-chartered bus to attend the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. They were accompanied by the station's veteran gospel disc jockey, Theo Wade. The group is shown above boarding their bus.

WDIA Establishes Two Scholarships In Memory Of Dr. Martin Luther King

Wdia joined its associated stations of the Sonderling Broadcasting Corporation within hours after the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in establishing two $4,000 scholarships in memory of the slain civil rights leader. Other stations participating are located in New York City, Oakland and Westington, D. C. In addition, WDIA Goodwill Fund, Inc. set up a perpetuating Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Scholarship, under which $2,000 will be awarded annually. WDIA Goodwill Fund officials voted the scholarship as a memorial to Dr. King's abiding interest in the education of his people.

Following Dr. King's assassination, WDIA suspended all commercials for a 15-hour period, during which only gospel music was broadcast. The station also brought business, political, civic and religious leaders before its microphones with messages emphasizing the importance of remaining calm during the crisis.

Throughout the Memphis Memorial March, WDIA had eight reporters covering the event. A broadcast of the entire proceedings was fed to stations throughout the country. During Dr. King's funeral, WDIA provided continuous coverage from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 p.m. to 3:15 p.m.

CHURCH NEWS

PRINCE OF PEACE BAPTIST CHURCH

1558 Britton

Rev. James Trueheart, Pastor

A glorious Easter sermon delivered by the Rev. James Trueheart set the mood for the services throughout the day at Prince of Peace. The pastor challenged the congregation to make the resurrection alive with love and hope. The Baptismal ordinance was administered to communicants during the 11 a.m. hour.

At 5 p.m. the young people of the church offered speeches, songs and readings. Mrs. Ruby Dunn served as chairman.

April 21 at 7 p.m., Mrs. Earline Campbell is presenting babies from various departments in the church in a "Baby Contest." Prizes galore will be awarded to the winning babies. The public is invited.

BLOOMFIELD BAPT. CHURCH

128 South Parkway West

Rev. L. S. Biles, Pastor

A most impressive "Easter Self Denial Program," involving all the congregation, was carried out by the pastor and officers. This program utilized the central theme of making the resurrection alive with our sacrificial efforts for the building of kingdom on earth.

At 3 p.m. the young folk presented an Easter program in song, speech and drama. Mrs. Effie Williams did an excellent job in spite of the handicaps. This talent extravaganza was followed by an egg hunt for the young folk.

GREATER ST. LUKE BAPTIST CHURCH

1280 Stonewall

Rev. T. R. Buckner, Pastor

Annual Men's Day will be observed at 3 p.m. April 21 at Greater St. Luke. The Brotherhood of the church is organized with Joseph Brown, chairman; Eldridge Boyd, co-chairman and Leo Whitmore, secretary. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Coleman Crawford of Grace Baptist Church. Grace and Spring Hill Male Chorus will render the music. Mr. Brown looks forward to making this an historic event in the life of the church. The public is invited.

PROSPECT METHODIST

1277 Guasco

Rev. H. H. Jones, Minister

A sermon, "Easter Church," was delivered at the 11 a.m. worship hour by the Rev. H. H. Jones. Rev. Mr. Jones mentioned that the church is alive and dynamic with the presence of Christ. He challenged the congregation to go with Jesus to Jerusalem to discover the new meaning of self-sacrifice and with close examination and honest effort "seek meaning in our lives."

Very appropriate and stirring music was rendered under the direction of Mrs. Hurd, the pianist. The Easter program featuring the young people followed the morning worship with participation in the traditional egg hunt.

The public is invited to participate in all services at Prospect.

PARKWAY GARDENS PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Oliver Johnson Sr., father of

Mrs. Elaine Campbell, was laid to rest recently in Elmwood. The church family expressed its sympathy and will remember the family in its prayers.

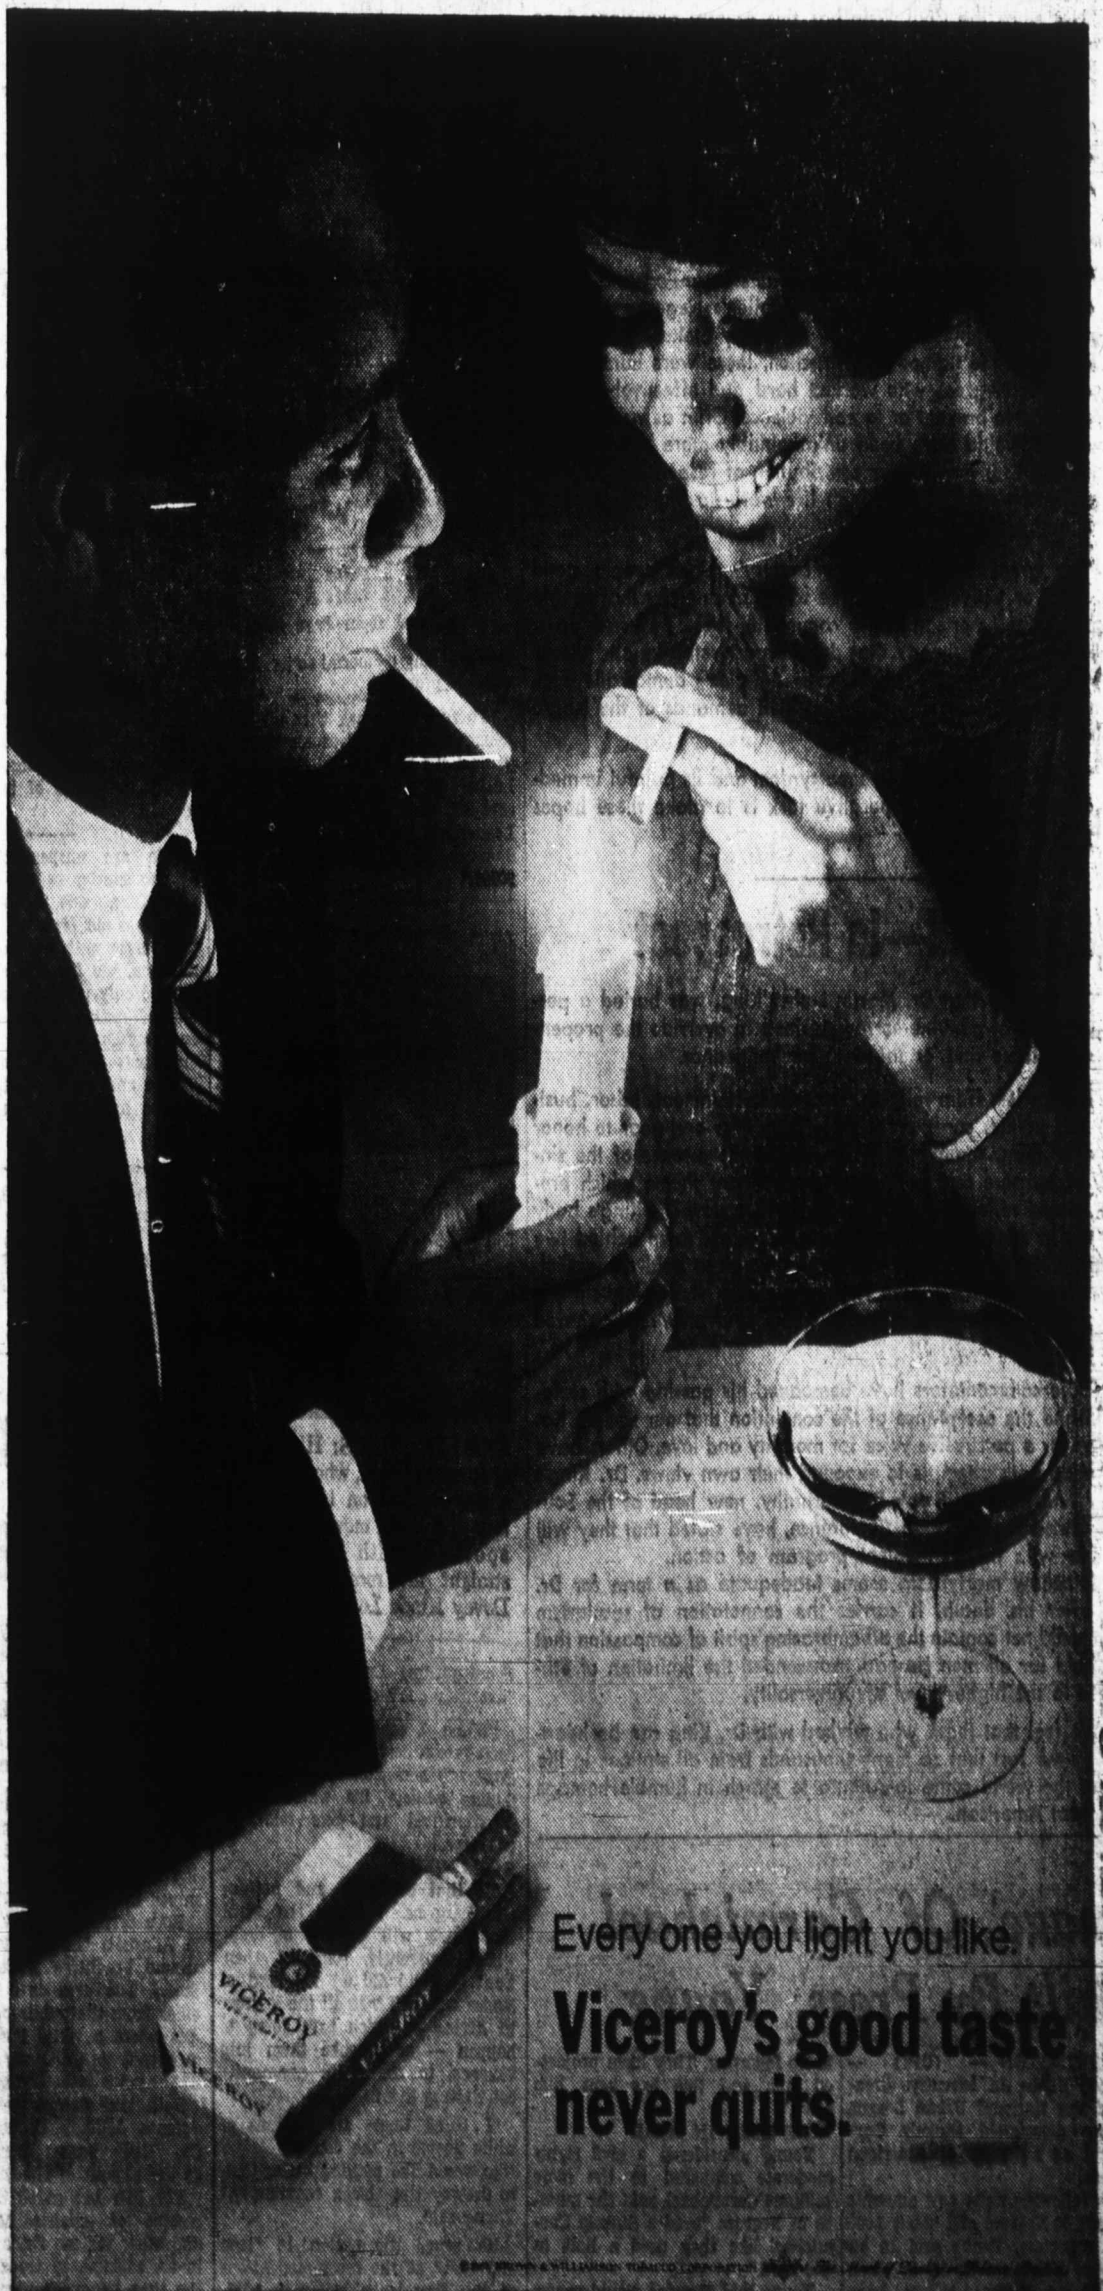

The membership was asked to observe a day of fasting and prayer and self-denial in preparation for Easter services. The Sacrament of Baptism was observed. Elders on duty were Dr. Vasco Smith, Thomas Hamilton and Thomas Willis.

Musical Program At Grace Baptist

The Christian Service Club will sponsor a musical program Sunday, April 21, 3 p.m., at Grace Baptist Church, 1231 Menassas at Parkstone. The Rev. C. Crawford Jr. is pastor of the host church.

Saint Paul's College Pays Tribute To King

LAWRENCEVILLE, Va. — "In recognition of the tragic loss of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and all the principles for which he fought and gave his life," President Earl H. McClenney cancelled all activities including classes at Saint Paul's College here Friday for the entire day.

The notice setting a day of mourning invited all members of the college family to attend a memorial service in the college Memorial Chapel at ten in the morning. Following that service a "procession of sorrow" by approximately 650 students and faculty-staff members, marching two-by-two and led by the chapel crucifers and acolyte in vestments and bearing flags, wended its silent way through Lawrenceville's principal streets. The line of mourners extended about 400 yards and took 35 minutes before returning to the campus chapel for a final hymn and prayers.

The service was conducted by Chaplain Alexander H. Esley. The student choir, also in vestments, sang three sorrowful anthems. Dr. McClenney wider the following message of condolence to the leader's widow, Mrs. Coretta King, in Atlanta:

"The assassination of your husband, the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., is a shameful loss beyond measure. It saddens all peoples everywhere. It is an incomprehensibly unjust act that a Nobel Peace laureate, an apostle of nonviolence, should have to be a victim of senseless violence.

"A true martyr now, his great memorial will be the eventual equality of all men under law and a shared brotherhood and dignity under God. His greatest love was for humanity, his goal the total emancipation of men's spirits and their flesh. He had in bountiful degree the qualities of selflessness, humility, and integrity.

"Dr. King will loom large in history. His place in the Pantheon of truly great humanitarians is secure. His mission was the redemption of the soul of America. Only Wednesday he had said, 'I fear no man, for I have been to the mountain top.' That might well be his epitaph.

"The entire Saint Paul's College family joins me in expressing to you and your family deepest sympathy in this time of bereavement."

Similar messages, among others were sent by three key student organizations: the Student-Faculty Council, William G. Palmer, president; the Women's Council, Miss Frances Wade, president; and Miss Sudie Davis, vice president; and the Men's Council, William H. Parker, Jr., president.

The United States flag in front of the college administration building was placed at half-mast Friday morning and will so remain during daylight hours until after Dr. King's funeral.

Blackburn States House Ethics Bill Unnecessary

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Congressman Ben B. Blackburn (R-Ga.) said today he was pleased that the House recently passed a Code of Ethics Bill, 405 to 1, but it would have been unnecessary if existing law setting forth a rigid Code of Ethics was "obeyed within the spirit as well as within the letter of the law."

Blackburn cited a law passed on July 11, 1958, by Congress setting a rigid Code of Ethics for all government employees, including Congressmen. Over 2,000 copies of this Code has been distributed by the Fourth District Congressman's Washington office in special mailings since September 1967.

Entitled, "Our Code of Faithful Public Service," the document, personally signed by Blackburn, states: "Many citizens forget that there exists in statutory law a rigid code of ethics for all government workers... including Congressmen... without reservation, to this legal code, and pledge my unqualified support to every segment of the ten rules for faithful public service. The Code was enacted by Congress on July 11, 1958, and it applies to everybody in the Federal Government, no matter what his job, or how humble his station. It is the Code of Good Government."

The Code lists ten points in its coverage:

- (1) Put loyalty to the highest moral principles and to place country above loyalty to persons, party, or government departments;
- (2) Uphold the Constitution, laws, and legal regulations of the United States and of all governments therein and never be a party to their evasion;
- (3) Give a full day's work for a full day's labor; giving to the performance of his duties his earnest effort and best thought;
- (4) Seek to find and employ more efficient and economical ways in getting tasks accomplished;
- (5) Never discriminate unfairly by the dispensing of special favors or privileges to anyone, whether for remuneration or not; and never accept, for himself or his family, favors or benefits under circumstances which might be construed by reasonable persons as influencing the performance of his governmental duties;
- (6) Make no private promises of any kind binding upon the duties of office, since a government employee has no private word which can be binding on public duty;
- (7) Engage in no business with the Government, either directly or indirectly, which is inconsistent with conscientious performance of his governmental duties;
- (8) Never use any information coming to him confidentially in the

Fannie Lou Hamer, John Lewis To Lead Summit Conference

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—

The Metropolitan Atlanta Summit Leadership Congress will convene a city-wide conference on the crucial problem which confronts Negroes in Metropolitan Atlanta and to plan action which will contribute to the solution of these problems.

Noting that Negroes in Atlanta have not had a significant local victory in civil rights since the lunch counters were desegregated, the Co-chairman of the Summit, Rev. J. E. Boone, Rev. Howard Crecy and Dr. Otis Smith, remarked today that this conference would provide the Black community in Atlanta not only with an opportunity to identify specific problems and assign priorities to organize a united front in the face of oppression and discrimination and to mobilize all of the community's resources in an effort to solve these problems.

The Co-chairman pointed out that there were several avenues which might lead to constructive problem solving and that all of these avenues—from petition to direct confrontation and non-violent

Calls On Nation NCC President To Attack Roots Of Race Bias

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The president of the National Council of Churches announced today a nationwide, cooperative church program to attack root problems of racial injustice and the growing crisis in the cities.

Warning that the nation faces a "domestic Pearl Harbor," Dr. Arthur S. Fleming revealed that 34 Protestant, Orthodox and Anglican denominations in the Council are together calling on their constituent churches to institute an emergency study and action program among their members.

"We hope," he said, "that this program will reach the hearts and minds of all concerned Christians and that it will before long take on the dimensions of a new crusade."

In broad outline, he said, task force groups in the council and member churches have put together a new and basic body of study materials, keyed to the race issue and designed to take the place of current curricula over the next three months before summer.

Member denominations have urged that these materials form the basis for study of the problem of youths and adults and to help guide local church people along lines of constructive action to meet tension where they may develop. Included in the 26 piece study packets is a basic new booklet, "Crisis in America: Hope through Action," which not only cites issues, facts and "myths" for study but suggests action lines for churches and their communities to follow to bring about change in attitudes and social opportunity for minorities.

Suggested action lines include (1) opening up job opportunities for non-whites on church staffs, (2) investing church funds in enterprises where racial justice is practiced, (3) opening up summer camps to interracial living through special scholarships and other provisions, (4) helping to break down neighborhood or community barriers to open housing, and numerous others.

disruptive action—would be employed if necessary.

Rev. Clyde Williams will coordinate the conference which will meet in the main auditorium of the Interdenominational Theological Center, 671 Beckwith St., S. W. at 1:00 p. m., Saturday, April 20, 1968. The keynote speaker will be Mr. John Lewis, Director of Community Organization, Southern Regional Council, former Chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and one of the leaders of the 1965 March on Washington. Mr. Lewis will be introduced by Rep. Julian Bond, former Director of Communications for SNCC and a recognized spokesman for the disaffected young Black people of America.

Others participating in the conference proceedings will include: Hosea Williams, Director of Voter Education for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Mr. John O. Boone, Chairman of the Summit's Executive Committee and Director of the Southern Regional Council's Project on the Administration of Justice; Rev. C. A. Samples, Northwest Civil Forum Inc.; Miss Annell Ponder, SCLC staff; Mr. Lorenzo Benn, Lincoln-Douglas Club; Rev. J. O. McDonald, Director, United Presbyterian Council on Church and Race; Dr. Malcolm Dean, Dean of More Atlanta Interfaith; Mr. Donald Stone, Director, Atlanta Council, SNCC; Miss Paula Van Dusen of the Telephonic Program; Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. will also participate in the conference. The theme will be in Atlanta to address a "Dare to Be Different" in his hold at the White Street Baptist Church on Friday April 19 at 8:00 P. M.

Participating in the Poor People's Campaign are available at DePaul's Speakers Bureau. The following conference is open to the public.

A local high school band and several choirs will provide entertainment at the White Street Baptist Church. Officers and members of the Executive Committee will be installed by Dr. Williams Holmes Baskers, Pastor of Wheat Street Baptist Church.

King Fellowship For Negro Vets

PRINCETON, N. J. — The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation this afternoon announced Martin Luther King Jr. Fellowships for returning Negro veterans.

Mrs. Coretta King is enthusiastic about the program, according to Dr. Benjamin Mays, president emeritus of Morehouse College, who on behalf of the Foundation, sought Mrs. King's approval in naming the fellowship in honor of her late husband.

The Rockefeller Foundation on Thursday April 4, had granted $200,000 to the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation as seed money to finance fellowships for Negro ex-service in the academic year 1968-69. Dr. King's assassination that night came before the Foundation could announce its plight program.

The two year fellowships will enable returning Negro veterans of outstanding promise to enter graduate of professional school in preparation for careers of public service. They will provide full tuition and general living stipends. Among the fields of study open to Martin Luther King Jr. fellows will be public administration, education, law, journalism, medicine, the ministry, social work, library science, and similar service fields according to Dr. Hans Rosenblatt, national director of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation.

"The Rockefeller Foundation whose sister fund the General Education Board pioneered in the support of Negro education, is backing the trial period of this leadership development program. The officers of other foundations and numerous spokesmen for the Negro community have told me they foresee in the new program great significance for the nation. We expect to see it develop from 20 fellowships a year into a major broadly-based program deserving of the name it bears," Dr. Rosenblatt said.

Africa Needs War On Poverty Tubman Says

WASHINGTON — (PNS) — Newly emerging African nations will continue to fight wars against hunger, poverty, disease and ignorance without guns and bombs, President William V. S. Tubman of Liberia declared here during a state visit to the United States last week.

Speaking before the National Press Club, Tubman said African countries continue to make "considerable progress along the path of freedom and independence," but "obstinate pockets of tyranny and suppression" remain.

"I refer specifically to the remnants of colonialism and racism which still blight portions of Africa, including Southern Rhodesia, South and West Africa and the Portuguese colonies," Tubman declared emphatically.

In the quest for world peace and better understanding, the problems of underdevelopment should receive the highest priority, the Liberian president told approximately 800 key newsmen and their guests in the nation's capital.

"Consequently it is no comfort to us to be blamed by those far better than we because, in their opinion, we have tried to do too much too quickly," he added significantly.

These under-developed African nations need allies in the war against poverty and ignorance, because victory is no less essential than it is the case of military conflict, President Tubman said.

$45 Million May Be Paid For Civil Disorder

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)— Damage costs that insurance companies may have to pay as the result of the current wave of $45 million Thursday and indications were that the total would go higher.

T. Lawrence Jones, president of the American Insurance Association, and Walter R. Luehring, president of the General Adjustments Bureau and the latest figures were up to date as of Wednesday and were conservatively estimated.

They said an earlier estimate of $30 million covered the period from the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. through last Sunday night.

Damages sustained in nine southern states were comparatively small. The report listed them as: Florida, $100,000; Georgia, $275,000; Louisiana, $700,000; Mississippi, $1,000,000; North Carolina, $400,000; South Carolina, $30,000; Tennessee, $700,000; Virginia, $400,000 and Alabama, "negligible."

Jones said in the report that the insurance industry would continue to provide insurance coverage for accidental fire, burglary, natural catastrophes or incidental riot.

Howard Aids Riot Victims In The Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Hundreds of Howard University Alumni, faculty, staff, and students have joined hands with civil and federal authorities in solving the problems facing families hit by violence in the streets of Washington.

President James M. Nabrit, Jr., revealed recently that the university has offered its entire resources to federal and municipal government officials "to aid the victims of violence in the nation's capital."

Since the initial outbreak of disorder in the ghetto, more than 100 students have been working around the clock helping people displaced by fires.

"They have been receiving, sorting, and dispersing food and clothing to needy people throughout the city and suburban Maryland," Dr. Nabrit said.

Under the leadership of Student Assembly President Ewart Brown and several senators of that assembly, a fleet of 15 student-owned cars with student drivers have fulfilled the transportation needs of their project.

Dr. Nabrit praised the students for their initiative and foresight in contributing "so unselfishly of their time and resources."

Dr. Samuel E. Barnes, athletic director and head of the Department of Physical Education for Men, said some 50 dormitory beds, normally used by visiting teams, have been reserved for "residents of burned areas in need of emergency housing."

The emergency room of Freedmen's Hospital has served more than 300 people injured during the civil disorder, according to Dr. R. Frank Jones, director of the University's hospital.

"No one was turned away," he said.

President Nabrit, who was once dean of the university's Law School placed emphasis on the "magnificent response" of Howard Law School alumni, faculty, and students "to the calls for legal assistance" when the Court of General Sessions was swamped by a massive load of civil disorder cases.

ALTHEA GIBSON DARDEN TO PLAY AT CANONGATE
Mrs. Althea Gibson Darden, an alumnae of Florida A & M University and a two-time U. S. and Wimbledon tennis champion, will join a host of the world's most publicized women golfers in the Lady Carling Open, which will be played at the Canongate Course, near Palmetto, Ga. . . . Eddie Glennon, who is employed by the Atlanta Braves as Director of Area Sales, is trying to arrange 40 community nights for the '68 National League season. Already 24 dates have been lined up. When a community has its "night" at Atlanta Stadium, the visitors get valuable exposure on radio and TV.

Mrs. Althea Gibson Darden will make her first Georgia appearance as a touring player on the Ladies Professional Golf Association April 19-21 at the newly-constructed Canongate Golf Club near Palmetto.

Mrs. Darden will be competing along with such touring members of the LPGA as Mickey Wright, No. 1 all-time leader of Golf money, winner, Louise Suggers, and Atlanta named to the LPGA and Georgia Hall of Fame, Carol Mann, Kathy Whitworth, Betty Rawls, Marilyn Smith, Ruth Jessen and Shirley Englehorn.

It should be remembered that Mrs. Darden following graduation from Florida A & M University, taught two years in Lincoln University in Jefferson City, Mo., working in the physical education department.

As the protegee of Dr. R. (Whirlwind) Johnson of Lynchburg, Va. and Dr. Hubert Eaton of Wilmington, N. C. and with the superb sponsorship of former U. S. tennis champion Helen Marlowe, Joe Louis Sugar Ray Robinson, Mrs. Darden got her big break in American tennis circles, playing in such prestige tournaments as Forest Hills, Lake Forest, Wimbledon and throughout the world.

Following retirement, Mrs. Darden was employed by the Ward Baking Company and she makes personal appearances for the firm throughout the nation.

Following retirement, Mrs. Darden switched her allegiance to golf and for several years has played in sports along side 40 of the best known women golfers.

Mrs. Darden is a first for the recently-constructed Canongate Golf Club. The facility is a golf course not a country club and is open to the public for general use. Although it is privately-owned, most of the citizens in the South Fulton area use the course although believe or not some portions of the links are situated in Coweta County.

Canongate is the site of the Lady Carling Open Day only because the Titleholders, the women's version of the Masters, was discontinued. Through the alert sponsor ship of Carling, the open date thereby created on the LPGA tour was quickly underwritten by Carling Brewery. Horace Lovett Acclaimed As Superstar At Florida A & M

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Super-star soome and go on Florida A & M University athletic teams, but the latest addition to the list presents a stark contrast when compared with former Rattler heroes. He cannot run a 100 yards in less than ten seconds, wears glasses, and answers to the name of Chubb.

hit three consecutive home runs in one game, one of them cleared the centerfield fence and had a 420 distance mark on it.

Long home runs are not new to Lovett, as a sophomore in high school he hit what has been rated as one of the longest home runs hit in the state of Georgia during the state baseball tournament.

Reportedly the ball was still rising when it cleared a 350 foot mark in left centerfield.

Lovett likes to work with his hands. His senior year in high school he won first place in an art exhibit with a cabinet he built for a bi-fi set. He is majoring in Industrial Art to improve his craft.

Rattler head coach Costa Kittles consider Chubb to be a natural hitter. "He has a swing that we have not tampered with too much," says Kittles, "When you have a hitter like Lovett, best to just let him swing. He has good judgment at the plate and rarely swings at a bad ball."

Lovett carries more than a big stick. He has a fine glove (third base) and has probably the strongest throwing arm in the infield. Last year he batted .322 and had a fielding average of .314.

Althea Gibson Darden To Play In Lady Carling Golf Tourney

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — Georgia will continue this week in its role as host to the world's greatest golfers, as the scene shifts from the Masters at Augusta to the 1968 Atlanta Lady Carling Open at Caponate Golf Club near Palmetto.

A field of more than 40 touring members of the Ladies Professional Golf Association will begin play Friday for $15,000 in prize money, in the first LPGA event in the Atlanta area in over two decades.

Such golfing stars as Mickey Wright, No. 1 all time ladies golf money winner; Louise Suggers, an Althea named to the LPGA and Georgia Athletic Hall of Fame; and Althea Gibson Darden, a Althea named to the LPGA and great in tennis and Olympic gold medalist who is now climbing in the golfing world, will be on hand to provide thrills for the thousands of golf fans expected to attend.

Other prominent names in the field of women's golf in the Lady Carling line up are Kathy Whitworth, Carol Mann, Betsy Rawls, Marlene Hagge, Sandra Haynie, Marilyn Smith, Ruth Jessen and Shirley Englehorn.

A Pro-Am tournament is scheduled for Thursday. In this event, local amateurs and professionals will have an opportunity to play with the lady pros.

Easter Collection Donated To SCLC

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine announced Sunday that its Easter collections would be donated to the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

A spokesman for Bishop Horace W. B. Donegan said the offerings would be turned over to King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The bishop attended King's funeral in Atlanta last Tuesday.

Donegan recently announced that all construction work on the massive cathedral overlooking the Hudson River would halt and funds earmarked for the building would be used to promote racial equality until that equality is achieved.

White Youth Charged With Murdering Negro

By CHARLES S. ALDINGER
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — UPI Police went into a young white man's bedroom early Friday and charged him with shooting a Negro between the eyes during racial trouble here last Tuesday night.

Lee Charles Bradley, 23, was arrested at his apartment less than a mile from where Rudolph Hargrett 18 was slain from a passing automobile.

"We have our man" said Duval County Sheriff Dale Carson who said three white juveniles had been arrested and were being questioned.

Witnesses to Hargrett's death told police there were several white persons in the car from which the fatal shot was fired.

"We anticipate no more arrests" said the sheriff who described Bradley as unemployed.

Carson's men had conducted an intensive manhunt between the time of the shooting just before midnight Tuesday and 4:30 a. m. Friday when Bradley was arrested. Carson said that a .22 Caliber rifle "which we are sure was the murder weapon" had been found and that Bradley's car a 1961 Ford was also seized.

"There had been a strip of chrome ripped off the side apparently recently" said the sheriff. Witnesses at the scene said that a single shot was fired from a dark colored Ford with a red stripe down the side.

Hargrett tumbled from a bicycle on which he was sitting next to a lighted public telephone booth. Bradley a Jacksonville resident was taken before Justice of the Peace Hugh Granger and ordered held until bond a charge of first degree murder.

Police said an inquest will be held next Thursday.

Bradley was advised of his rights but made no statement Carson said.

Hargrett whose state beverage agent father also died from gun shot wounds in the line of duty in 1966 had recently completed Air Force basic training and was home visiting his mother when the shooting occurred.

The sheriff attributed the arrest to a "thinking citizen" who read reports of the description of the car and called police.

"And the men did a wonderful job on this thing too" said Carson.

Two Convicted As Draft Dodgers At Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Joseph Mulloy and Don Pratt have been sent to prison for five years and fined $10,000 each for refusing to be inducted into the armed forces. They were sentenced by U. S. District Judge James Gordon.

The young men were taken to jail immediately because they were unable to post $10,000 bonds to insure payment of their fines. Their attorney, Pro. Robert Sedler of the University of Kentucky College of Law, filed notice of appeal.

Mulloy is employed by the Southern Conference Educational Fund (SCEF) as a worker against poverty and racial discrimination. He was arrested on a sedition charge in Pike County last summer after he helped people waging a fight to stop strip mining. The charge was later quashed.

Pratt and Mulloy are both former students at U.K. Pratt has delivered daily newspapers in Lexington for 10 years. Pratt refused to take the army physical examination because he knew that doctors would find a lung condition which would result in his rejection. He wanted to challenge the Selective Service system head on.

Mulloy charged that his draft board refused to give fair consideration to his plea that he is a conscientious objector to war in any form. He charged that the board was biased because of Mulloy's work against segregation, poverty, and strip mining.

Clark College Panthers Fall To Morris Brown, 8-3

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — A never say die fighting Clark College Panthers baseball team saw the Morris Brown purple Wolverine baseball team unleash a powerful hitting at tack for five big runs in the first inning of Saturday's game at Herndon Stadium.

In the opening inning saw Clark with a revamped line up with Eddie Johnson leading off. Johnson grounded out to Wiggs for the first out. Kinnelbrew got on by an error and promptly stole second then took third on the wild throw by catcher Rucker of Morris Brown. Campbell popped up and Richardson hit to left field for the third out.

Lee of Morris Brown was hit by a pitched ball Rucker filed out and Davis batted a three bagger and Morris Brown led 1-0. Russell then lifted a home run over right center field. Fouch walked, speight singled and Hart got on by error by Campbell and the score was 5-0 Morris Brown. At this point Coach L. E. Hambrick summoned to the bullpen for his ace reliever,

United Brethren Church To Join Methodist Church, Evangelical

DALLAS, Texas — Two Protestant bodies, The Methodist Church and The Evangelical United Brethren Church (EUB), will join forces here April 25 to create a new denomination — The United Methodist Church.

The special ceremony consummating the union will be one of the highlights of the Uniting Conference of the two groups to be held in Dallas Memorial Auditorium April 21 to May 4.

This marks the first instance of organic union of two of the 10 denominations that are participants in the Consultation on Church Union.

The new United Methodist Church will have more than 11 million members in the United States and Canada — 10,289,000 from the Methodist Church and 745,000 from the EUB Church. In addition, there are nearly a million members overseas.

Methodist and EUBs share a common historical and spiritual heritage and hold the same basic doctrines, with similar ecclesiastical organizations. During the past several years, conversations under the authorization of their respective General Conferences have led to the Plan of Union, which was adopted November 11, 1966, in Chicago at simultaneous General Conferences.

There will be some 420 EUB delegates and about 850 Methodist delegates seated at the Uniting Conference, chosen to represent annual (regional) conferences of the two denominations. Ratification of the Plan of Union by two-thirds of the members of these regional conferences was completed last June.

Basic business of the Uniting Conference includes the revision and perfecting of the organization and administration section of the Plan of Union, adopted in principle at Chicago. Numerous revisions are being suggested by the 48-member Joint Commission on Union.

In addition, individual church members and church groups of both bodies have the right to petition the conference for changes in the Discipline or book of law. Almost 2,000 such petitions had been received before the deadline for submitting such petitions.

All of these — the organization and administration section, revisions proposed by the Joint Commission, and the 2,000 petitions bearing on many issues — will be channeled through an appropriate one of the 14 legislative committees, petitions and proposed revisions will be brought to the floor for action in plenary sessions.

While much of the conference business will, of necessity, deal with organizational structure of the new church, it is expected that the delegates will also confront and deal with such world and national issues as the war in Vietnam, the urban crisis, racial tensions, church-government relations, and many other social concerns.

Other issues confronting the new church include requests from some 25 overseas units asking for autonomy or permission to unite with other bodies in their country, resolutions urging a strong ecumenical stance and continued support of the Consultation on Church Union, the enlarging role of the laity, and proposals to eliminate the no-smoking rule imposed upon its clergy.

Elimination of racial segregation is an announced objective in the Plan of Union and the Central (Negro) Jurisdiction is eliminated. However, a few remaining Negro annual conferences still exist in a dozen southern states. These will be grouped in appropriate geographical jurisdictions.

A target date has been set for merger of these Negro conferences and overlapping white conferences. Several groups, including Methodists for Church Renewal and Black Methodists for Church Renewal, are calling for earlier abolition of segregated conferences, with 1972 as a mandatory deadline.

The plan provides for a Negro bishop to serve in each of the five regional jurisdictions but stipulates that he must administer an integrated area. (Such has been the situation for the past four years in two jurisdictions of The Methodist Church, where a Negro bishop has served in Iowa and another in New Jersey.)

Senior EUB Bishop Reuben H. Mueller of Indianapolis, Ind., has headed that church's Commission on Church Union, with the Rev. Dr. Paul A. Washburn of Dayton, Ohio, serving as its secretary. Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke of New York attorney, is its secretary. All of these leaders will have prominent roles in the order of worship for the service uniting the two churches on Tuesday, April 23 at 8:30 a.m.

Bishop Donald Harvey Tippet of San Francisco, president of the Methodist Council of Bishops, will preside at the service, and the Rev. Dr. Albert C. Outlet, professor in Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, will give the address.

Some of the other program highlights for the conference follow:

Saturday, April 20 — Registration and evening reception for conference dignitaries.

Sunday, April 21 — Legislative committees will meet briefly at 7 p. m. to organize and elect officers. Communion service at 8 p. m. EUB Bishop Paul Milhouse of Kansas City, Mo., will be in charge of the service.

Monday, April 22 — Separate meetings of the Methodist General Conference and the EUB General Conference. A major item of business at the EUB General Conference will be the election of a new bishop to replace Bishop Harold R. Heininger of Minneapolis, Minn., who earlier announced his plans for retirement. The new bishop will be assigned later to administer an area in the North Central Jurisdiction.

At 7:30 p. m., Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke of New York will deliver the Episcopal Address, a sort of "state of the church" address, signed by all the bishops.

Tuesday, April 23 — First official session of the Uniting Conference and service of unification at 8:30 a. m.

Wednesday, April 24 — An evening program commemorating the centennial of Christian higher education among Negroes.

Friday, April 26 — At 11:30 a. m. it is expected that an order of the day will be established for an address by an outstanding prelate of the Roman Catholic Church.

Saturday, April 27 — Texas Night program at the Moody Coliseum, Southern Methodist University.

Sunday, April 28 — An evening Festival of Christian Song under the direction of Professor Carlton R. Young of Perkins School of Theology, editor of the Methodist Hymnal and director of music for the Uniting Conference. Liturgist will be the Rev. Dr. Paul Eller of the Evangelical Theological Seminary, Naperville, Ill., and editor of the EUB Hymnal.

Wednesday, May 1 — Dramatic presentation on "The Ecumenical Nature of the Church," sponsored by boards and agencies of the uniting denominations.

Bishops will take turns presiding at plenary sessions of the conference, with each morning opening with worship service. Bishop James S. Thomas of Des Moines, Ia., has charge of planning and directing these services.

Each week-day afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a service of worship and preaching in the First Methodist Church in downtown Dallas. The Rev. Dr. Irving L. Smith of Stillwater, Okla., is in general charge of arrangements for these services.

A major item on the agenda of the conference will be the adoption of a quadrennial program for 1968-72. Bishop James K. Matthews of Boston is chairman of the Coordinating Council, which is bringing forward a proposed program on behalf of the bishops and various agencies of the church.

Adoption of a budget for the ongoing work of the denomination and any special appeals authorized by the conference will also be under consideration.

Considerable interest centers around the proposed Program Council, which would combine with the present EUB Program Council concept a cluster of Methodist agencies, including the Coordinating Council, the Commission on Promotion and Cultivation, the Television, Radio and Film Commission, Interboard Commission on the Local Church and the Research Department of the Council on World Service and Finance.

There would be created in each local church a new mandatory "Council of Ministries" to consider, develop and correlate proposals for the church's strategy for mission.

A report on the ministry will bring up the question of whether there should be one order of the clergy or two and the possibility of a new type of lay deacon relationship. There are strong differences of opinion as to whether or not the no-smoking rule for ministers should be changed.

Anticipating that it will not be possible to complete all necessary reorganization during the Uniting Conference, the Joint Commission on Union is proposing the creation of four special commissions to spend the next four years working on issues. These commissions would be assigned to update the church's creedal statement, revise its statement of social principles, deal with general church organization, and continue to study the structure of Methodism overseas.

General boards and agencies of The Methodist Church are located in New York, Nashville, Washington, D. C., and Evanston, Ill. The headquarters of the EUB Church is in Dayton, Ohio. The plan calls for continuing all of these centers, but co-locate units of the two denominations will be merged and there will be some shifting of board offices and staff personnel from city to city.

The Rev. Dr. J. Otis Young, Parks Ridge, Ill., an associate publisher of The Methodist Publishing House, is chairman of the Commission on Entertainment and Program, which has charge of all arrangements for the conference.

Dr. J. Wesley Hole of Los Angeles has been secretary of the Methodist General Conference, and the Rev. Dr. Emerson D. Bragg, Dayton, Ohio, secretary of the EUB General Conference.

Dr. Ann R. Gayles Accepts Chairmanship

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—(FAMU)—Dr. Anne R. Gayles, chairman, Department of Secondary Education, Florida A&M University, has recently been appointed 1968-69 State Membership Chairman for the National Society of College Teachers of Education. In this role she will conduct a recruitment program among faculties of the colleges and universities of Florida.

During the latter part of February, Dr. Gayles served on a panel of teacher education evaluators for the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. In this connection she had an opportunity to study, analyze and appraise the various components of a functional teacher education program.

The appraisal was done upon the basis of the criteria developed by the National Council of Accreditation for Teacher Education. This probing professional experience will be of great value to Dr. Gayles as she works with various aspects of the Teacher Education Program at FAMU.

Your professional beautician knows the answer....

Why does some hair break off when combing?

Your hair is precious and delicate...and none of us like to see it break off for any reason. Scientists tell us that excessive use of hot combs and over-processing of hair with chemicals often are major causes of brittleness resulting in hair breakage. But hair that is naturally curly and tangles easily frequently breaks off in everyday combing. Notice how irritated your scalp becomes when you comb in contrast to the way your beautician does?

Your professional beautician knows that curly hair mats and tangles so easily that it should be softened before combing. Otherwise, unnecessary irritation to the scalp and damage to the shaft and ends of the hair occurs. To achieve this needed softening and a temporary relaxing effect that prevents breakage on all human hair (including wigs), most beauticians rely on Clairol® Hair-So-New® spray-on creme rinse. For combing ease and for beautifying your hair in many other ways, trained beauticians stock a complete family of fine Clairol products for your specific needs.

Visit your expert hairdresser, who cares about your hair care and your comfort. Whatever the nature of your hair problems, only your professional beautician knows the answer for sure.

Summer In India, Cool It With Ooty

Four top jazz performers, representing four popular but divergent jazz styles, will be spotlighted on the season's final "Bell Telephone Hour" Friday, April 26 in "Jazz: The Intimate Art" in color on the NBC Television Network (10-11 p. m. NYT).

Featured on the program will be ing for audiences, "Jazz: The Intimate Art" will explore the personalities of these four artists, and in so doing, show how different personality characteristics produce different kinds of jazz. The program will sample the jazz spectrum from the New Orleans style of Louis Armstrong to the avant-garde technique of Charles Lloyd.

Louis Armstrong, whose exuberant, outgoing sounds ech those of his native city, will be seen at a recording session in Manhattan, at a performance in Pittsburgh and as he reminisces about his early days in New Orleans.

In a sequence filmed at the Jazz

American Committee On Africa Calls For Olympic Boycott

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The American Committee on Africa issued a statement Friday signed by more than 60 athletes calling for a United States boycott of the 1968 Olympic Games unless South Africa is prevented from participating.

Workshop in San Francisco the freewheeling mercurial personality of Dizzy Gillespie is revealed. As one of the founders of "bop," he helped to introduce not only a new approach to jazz but also the "bop" vocabulary and "bop" way of dressing. "Bop" is a style perhaps best embodied in Gillespie himself. A composer as well as bandleader and performer, Gillespie will be heard playing "Swing Low Sweet Cadillac" and "Con Alma."

The innovative pianist-conductor-composer Dave Brubeck will be shown in two significant episodes: one is the final concert of the Brubeck Quartet last December in Pittsburgh, the other a performance of his new jazz oratorio, "The Light in the Wilderness," at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

One of the jazz world's newest stars, 30-year-old Charles Lloyd puts into his music all of the personal rapport he feels with today's young generation. At Reed College in Portland, Ore., the camera looks on as, with words and music, Lloyd communicates with his youthful following. The Lloyd Quartet will be heard in an excerpt from one of his own compositions, "Forest Flower."

"Jazz: The Intimate Art" was produced by Robert Drew Associates.

Included among the signers were Negro and white athletes and amateur and professionals. Five appeared at a news conference and made statements amplifying their stand.

They were Jim Bouton a white pitcher for the New York Yankees, Ruben Amaro, a Mexican player for the Yankees; Heyward Doleen, a Negro basketball player for Columbia University; Steve Mokone, a South African Negro soccer player who is a student at the University of Rochester, and Kwaku Ohene Frempong, a Ghanaian on Yale University's track team.

The statement by the committee's executive director, George M. Houser, called on the Executive Committee of the International Olympic Committee to convene the entire IOC to debate whether South Africa should be permitted to take part in the games this summer in Mexico City because of discriminatory practices in selection of its team.

Doleen said he also supported the boycott of the U. S. Olympic team by some U. S. Negro athletes. "I think 1968 should see Negro athletes boycott the Olympics regardless of South Africa," he said. Bouton, saying it was "presumptuous" to ask others not to take part in the games, said it was his intention "to have the United States boycott the Olympics and force the IOC to reconvene and ban South Africa."
