GARBAGEMEN HAPPY END OF STRIKE IS CHEERED

Garbagemen Happy

The end of the strike is a welcome relief to the garbagemen who have been working for several weeks without pay. The strike ended yesterday, and the garbagemen are now back on the job.

The strike began when the garbagemen demanded a raise in wages. The company refused to give them the raise, and the garbagemen went on strike. The strike lasted for several weeks, and the garbagemen were without pay.

The garbagemen have been working hard, and they are glad to have their jobs back. They are looking forward to a return to normal working conditions.

Women Are Prejudiced Against Women, Study Finds

DECEMBER 20, 1965

The findings of a major study of sex discrimination in the workplace were released today. The study, conducted by the American Institute of Research, found that women are systematically discriminated against in the workplace.

The study, which surveyed 1,000 employees in a variety of industries, found that women were paid less than men for the same work, were given fewer opportunities for advancement, and were more likely to be denied promotions.

"The findings are alarming," said Dr. Jane Smith, head of the study. "Women are being systematically discriminated against in the workplace. It's time we addressed this issue and took steps to ensure equal pay and opportunities for all workers, regardless of gender."

Dr. M. L. King, Jr.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., who was assassinated at 25, 225 Huron Ave. at 4:46 p.m. Thursday, April 4, 1968, was a leader of the civil rights movement and a Nobel Peace Prize laureate. He was also known as "The King," a prominent figure in the civil rights movement.

He was born on 21 January 1929 in Atlanta, Georgia, and grew up in the city's West Side neighborhood. He was the eldest of five children of influential Baptist leaders Rev. Martin Luther King Sr. and Mrs. Alberta Williams King. His parents were both active in the civil rights movement, and he was exposed to its principles from a young age.

King was a graduate of Morehouse College in 1948 and received his master's degree from Boston University in 1951. He was awarded his Ph.D. from Boston University in 1955.

King was a pastor at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta from 1954 to 1960, and later served as pastor of Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery, Alabama. In 1963, King was arrested during the Montgomery bus boycott and spent a night in jail, which became a turning point in his career. He later became the pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery, Alabama.

King was a deeply spiritual man, and his speeches and sermons were based on his Christian faith and values. He believed in nonviolent resistance and was committed to the ideal of equality for all people, regardless of race, religion, or gender.

In 1964, King was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his efforts to end racial discrimination and achieve civil rights for African Americans through nonviolent direct action. He was assassinated on April 4, 1968, in Memphis, Tennessee, and his death brought widespread outrage and grief across the country.

His legacy continues to inspire people around the world, and he remains one of the most influential figures in American history. His contributions to the civil rights movement have had a lasting impact, and his influence continues to be felt today.

Saint Paul’s College Pays Tribute To King

LAFAYETTE, D.C.—The press conference on the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. this week at St. Paul’s College was to be a tribute to Dr. King. But the tributes that were later delivered were more in the nature of a public service announcement. The school, which was closed for the day, held a moment of silence and a prayer for the late civil rights leader. The school also announced that it would keep the flag at half-mast for 24 hours. The school also said that it would offer counseling services to students and faculty who may be affected by the loss. The school also said that it would keep the flag at half-mast for 24 hours.

Calls On Nation: NCC President To Attack Roots Of Race Bias

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The president of the National Council of Churches announced today that he would lead a national campaign to attack the roots of race bias. The campaign, which will be called “The Call of Faith,” will be launched in September and will run for two years. The campaign will be led by Bishop John Daniels, who is the president of the National Council of Churches.

“The nation is facing a crisis,” Bishop Daniels said in a statement. “We have a responsibility to address this crisis and to work together to find solutions. This campaign will be a call to action for all of us.”

Bishop Daniels said that the campaign will focus on educating people about the causes of race bias and on encouraging them to take action to address these issues. The campaign will include a series of events, including a national prayer service, a series of workshops, and a national conference.
