GUNS THROWN AT 2 SPOTS ON HERNANDO STREET

Carver And Lester Suspended!

Small firearms were thrown through the windows of the Carver High School in the Negro community of South Memphis late Tuesday night. Three persons were wounded in the attack. Police are searching for the group of youngsters who threw the fireworks into the school building.

The attack, which occurred about 11:00 p.m., took place at the same time the school was closed. The firemen were called to the scene and the police were notified. They arrived at the scene and found the body of the victim lying on the ground.

The body was identified as a 15-year-old boy who had been attending the school. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. J. F. Martin, the school's principal.

The police are investigating the matter and have set up a reward for anyone who can provide information leading to the arrest of the persons responsible for the attack.

TODAY IN TRAINING — Mid Fifteens Are Drinks

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The mid fifteens are a popular style of hair dressing in Nashville. The trend is gaining popularity among young women who want a chic and modern look.

The mid fifteens are characterized by creating a look that is between a bob and a pixie cut. The hair is cut all around the head, but the back and sides are kept longer than the front. The style is simple and versatile, and can be dressed up or down depending on the occasion.

The trend is being embraced by many women in Nashville, who are seeking a fresh and modern look. The style is also popular among women who want a low-maintenance hairstyle, as it requires less time and effort to maintain.

The mid fifteens are being showcased in the latest issue of a local fashion magazine, where the trend is highlighted and praised for its versatility and chicness.

Femininity Is Intact Following Operation

By LUCY CRANE

NEW YORK - (Guardian Unemployment

At the time of the accident, Miss Crane was working on a project for the University of Chicago's Institute of Social Research. The project was to study the relationship between unemployment and mental health. She was doing this research with her colleague, Dr. Charles Alston, who is also a professor at the university.

On the day of the accident, Miss Crane was at her desk working on her project. She was wearing a dress that she had bought just last week. She was also wearing her usual pair of glasses, which she always has on when she is working. Suddenly, there was a loud bang and the window in her office shattered. She had a shock injury to her head and was taken to the hospital.

Dr. Alston, who was in his office next door, heard the explosion. He rushed over to Miss Crane's office and found her lying on the floor, unconscious. He immediately called an ambulance and took her to the hospital.

At the hospital, Miss Crane was placed in a coma. The doctors worked hard to save her life, but unfortunately, they were not successful. Miss Crane died later that day. Her death was a great loss to the University of Chicago and to the field of social research.

The cause of Miss Crane's accident is still under investigation. The university has promised to conduct a thorough investigation and to make sure that steps are taken to prevent such accidents in the future.

IRRITATED EYELIDS

Irritated eyelids can be caused by a variety of factors, including eye allergies, dryness, and irritation from contact lenses. Here are some tips to help relieve irritated eyelids:

1. Avoid touching your eyes: Touching your eyes can irritate them further and spread any bacteria that may be present.

2. Use artificial tears: Artificial tears can help moisturize the eyes and relieve dryness.

3. Apply warm compresses: Warm compresses can help relax the lids and relieve any fatigue.

4. Wear hypoallergenic contact lenses: If you wear contact lenses, consider switching to hypoallergenic lenses to avoid allergic reactions.

5. Consult a doctor: If your irritated eyelids persist or become severe, consult a doctor for further evaluation and treatment.

6. Stay hydrated: Drinking plenty of water can help keep your eyes moisturized and reduce irritation.

7. Avoid irritants: Keep your eyes away from irritants such as smoke, pollen, and dust.

8. Use over-the-counter treatments: OTC medications such as artificial tears and eye drops can help relieve irritation.

9. Take breaks: If you spend a lot of time on your computer or phone, take regular breaks to help relieve eye strain.

10. Get enough sleep: Getting enough sleep can help reduce eye fatigue and irritation.
