2 High School Girls Attacked SENSATIONAL RAPE CASE AIRED!

Rats 'Big As Cats' Roam Beale St. Area!

Residents of the 600 block of famous Beale Street this week said rats were a problem long before the recent garbage strike.

One resident said rats in the area are big enough to scare off cats and even "big enough to whip dogs."

A city official, who said the rat problem is alarming, made it known that federal funds are being sought to keep the rodents from really taking over.

The 600 block of Beale Street is in the area eliminated temporarily from the Beale Street Urban Renewal Project.

In an interview with some of the mothers in the 600 block of Beale, where they said the garbage was picked up for the first time last Wednesday since the strike ended, declared they wanted a chance to speak out against reports that the piled up garbage was the cause of rats in the area.

Mrs. Victoria Moore, 611 Beale (rear), said "I have lived here for years and I keep my house as clean as possible. We sweep and clean the yard with a broom, but still there are rats, big rats, big and brown, that are not afraid of people.

"At night, they find their way into my kitchen by way of tunnels and rat holes. Last week, they pulled my pot off the stove. I have a garbage can with a lid on it. The rats push and pull the can across the room, even though I leave no garbage in it. They sometimes run when I turn the lights on at night. When the lights are turned off, they come back out again."

Mrs. Irene Morris, 613 Beale (rear), said: "After the garbage was picked up this week, we saw holes in the ground and I know rat holes when I see them, for I have been seeing them for 14 years in and around this house. About five of us ladies decided to chase the rats out of the holes while the garbage trucks were here. After we dug them out, the garbage men helped us kill them. We counted between 55 and 60. The men threw some of them on their trucks, and we buried the others.

"That didn't help much, for there are some old rats that have been here for years. They go from one house to the other whenever they get ready. If you close up one hole, they open up another. I have traps I have kept in my house every since I have been here, trying to protect my three children."

Mrs. Morris also said "There are spiders in this house also, as big as a quarter. The landlord stays around just long enough to collect the rent. If we miss one month, he is ready to put us out."

Mrs. Glendora Price, mother of two children, and secretary of Map South Block Clubs Nos. 1 and 2, said: "My house is clean because I mop it at least seven days a week. I have two children, and I shall never forget one night last year when I woke up to see what I thought was a cat, but was a large rat staring at my two children as they slept. The next day I contacted Map South to see if they could get the Health Department to do something about this entire neighborhood.

"I've been here about all my days and the rats have been just as bad. We had a cat, but after seeing him just staring at the rats, we decided he was of no use. Then we got a dog, but the rats whipped the dog."

Here Are Negro History Textbooks; NAACP Wants In Local Classrooms

The Memphis NAACP this week pressed its demand that local school boards require the teaching of Negro history and the use of multi-racial textbooks throughout the city and county systems beginning with the fall terms.

Mrs. Maxine Smith, executive secretary of the NAACP branch, said the civil rights unit expects immediate replies from the two boards of education.

She pointed out that "this necessary change in books will not involve burdensome expenses as federal funds are available under Title I and Title II of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act to supplement local school budgets for purchasing classroom, supplementary books and library books."

The NAACP went so far as to suggest a list of textbooks that tell the story of the Negro.

In the American history category, the NAACP recommended these textbooks:

DISCOVERING AMERICAN HISTORY (for grades 5 and 6)

CAN NEGRO (for upper elementary and junior high schools) by Earl Schenick Miers.

One Defendant Is Freed; Another Given Ten Years

The rape of two Booker T. Washington High School students, Sept. 22, on lonely Presidents Island, was a hot issue all last week in Judge Ben L. Hooks' division of Criminal Court.

The two 21-year-old men charged with the crime decided to take the big gamble and stand trial. The State, represented by Assistant Attorneys General Clyde Mason and Terry Lafferty, had offered both defendants 35-year prison term not to go on trial.

Chief witness for Flemming was his pretty, 19-year-old wife, Justina, a late night-shift Harlem House waitress. She and Mr. Flemming are parents of an 11-month-old son, Rufus Flemming, III.

Mrs. Flemming said her husband was at home during the time the two teenage girls were forced into an automobile by two men at McLemore and Fourth and carried to Presidents Island where they were raped twice by each man. The girls were waiting for a bus to go to a football game between Booker T. Washington and Catholic High when they were kidnapped.

Mrs. Flemming's testimony to the jury was convincing but it did nothing to flatter her husband. She said he came home at 8 o'clock the night of the reported crime, although she had expected him at 5. "I was very angry with him," she said, "because he had been drinking."

The other defendant, stock Joe Wilbert Stevenson, of 86 West McLemore, didn't do as well as Flemming. Stevenson, who did not take the witness stand, drew a 10-year sentence in the State Penitentiary. His court-appointed attorney, Walker Gwinn, said he would ask for a new trial and June 10 was set as the date for the motion to be heard.

She said she argued with her husband about drinking and coming home late. She claimed he left and went to a sundry around 8:15 but was back home at 8:30. She said he had been drinking and sat down and watched television until 10 when he left again.

Flemming, a small young man of 1633 South Orleans, testified in his own defense. He was attired in neat street clothes throughout the long trial. Stevenson, who had been unable to make bond, wore prison clothes.

Mrs. Flemming said she left her baby with her mother-in-law and went to the Harlem House on South Fourth where she was due at 11 p.m. When she returned home the next morning, she said she found her husband on the floor, drunk and she said she got friends to help her.

The State had demanded the electric chair for both men.

ROBERT DAVIDSON JR.

Bob Davidson Jr. Looks At Job Opportunities

Robert Davidson Jr., of Memphis and a graduate of Morehouse College in Atlanta, was featured recently in the Chicago Daily News. The feature dealt with job opportunities for Negro college graduates.

Mr. Davidson, 32, now a business major in the University of Chicago's graduate school of business.

Young Mr. Davidson is president of the University of Chicago's Business Club.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davidson Sr., are the longtime operators of Davidson's Grill.

In the feature article, the junior Davidson expresses his feelings about job opportunities for college-trained Negroes. "My offers have not been any higher than my white colleagues at the University of Chicago," he said.

The apparent reason for the confusion, he said, is that the Negroes get many job offers because of their relative scarcity.

In the article, Davidson complains that Negroes holding Master's degrees are hired as trainees while whites, with equivalent qualifications, are hired as managers.

Civil Rights Commission Looks At Political Parties

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights today recommended that the national political parties require their State party organizations to afford Negroes full and equal participation in every aspect of party affairs as a condition to the seating of delegations at the national conventions this summer.

This was one of several recommendations the Commission made in a report of a study of participation by Negroes in the electoral and political processes in 10 Southern States since the passage of the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

The report Political Participation concluded that despite significant progress in voters registration and political activity by Negroes since passage of the Voting Rights Act many problems remain in securing to the Negroes of the South the opportunity to participate equally with white citizens in voting and political activity.

William L. Taylor, Staff Director of the Commission described the Political Participation report as the first comprehensive description and analysis of the effects of the Voting Rights Act of 1965

Poor People's Marchers Move Into Houses

By LOUIE CASSELS

WASHINGTON UPI—The Poor People's March began moving Tuesday into its home, a prefabricated plywood and plastic city of a frames and letan-tos at the foot of the Lincoln Memorial where Martin Luther King Jr. told the nation in 1963 that "I have a dream."

The marchers, their ranks to be swelled Thursday by as many as 2,000 poor people in caravans from the south, midwest and east, occupied the first 200 shelters their leaders hoped to have built by nightfall. Each of the A-frames can house eight persons. And the lean to's, a family of four.

There are about 600 marchers in town now, most of them from Mississippi. They spent Monday night in church basements, recreation halls and private homes, and moved to the site of "Resurrection City" as the accommodations were completed.

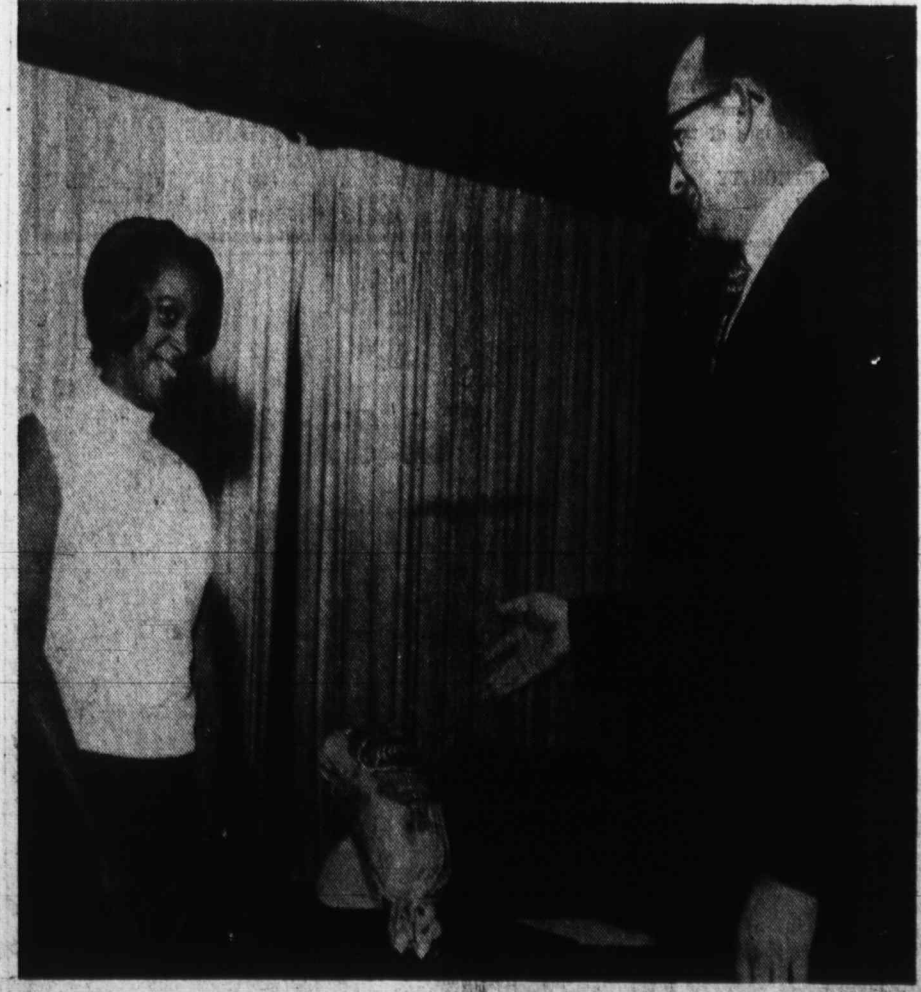

15 ACRE TRACT

The hut city is on the southern bank of the reflecting pool in a 15-acre tract between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. It was on the steps of the Memorial in August, 1963, during the 100,000 person civil rights march on Washington, that King spoke of his dream of equality.

Water and sewer connections were installed Tuesday. Temporary electricity power lines were in place and pay telephone booths were working. Large tents were put up as dining halls.

Eventually, it is estimated as many as 3,000 marchers are expected in Washington exactly the number authorized in a federal permit for the camp-in.

So far, there have been none

NOW WITH HART'S BREAD — Miss Shirley Hicks, 1965 graduate of Douglass High School and a two-year sociology major at LeMoyne College, is being congratulated by Tom Ratliff, office manager for Hart's Bread, where she is now employed as a comptometer operator. ### Inside Memphis

HISTORY IS BEING made here this week at Centenary on East McLemore where Negroes of the Methodist Church are conducting their last segregated conference. The Tennessee-Kentucky Conference is going out of business along with its parent body, the all-Negro Central Jurisdiction of the Methodist Church, which means that Centenary and other Negro Methodist churches in the area will be absorbed by the formerly all-white Memphis Conference.

Centenary is host to this "bowing out" Conference. There are nearly 300 delegates in town and they are making their headquarters at Hotel Claridge.

The Rev. James M. Lawson Jr., the host pastor, has been busy spiking rumors which insist he plans pulling up stakes here to accept a larger assignment in the Midwest or in the East.

JEWEL GENTRY HULBERT

"YOUR COLUMNIST" accepted an invitation for the weekend in St. Louis over the week and mostly because I hated staying home on Mother's Day as house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snyder (she the former Wilma Whitfield who was secretary to Mr. Frank Sweeney, former president of LeMoyne College and she later taught sociology at the college). The Whitfields shared a joining apartment with us directly in front of LeMoyne when mother and I lived with Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Woods, my deceased God-parents.

It was also Wilma who talked me into leaving Tennessee State after two quarters (along with my mother) and going to LeMoyne... and it was she who influenced me to go to the University of Chicago School of Social Service Administration rather than the University where I had been admitted. She later got me a position at Provident Hospital in Medical Social Work where she was working. I remained there six summers and spent three summers in social work at Cook County Public Welfare in Illinois. Our times in Chicago were indeed enjoyable ones... and there we shared many of the same friends.

Upon my arrival in St. Louis, I had mixed emotions as I still have two uncles and an aunt on the Gentry side... and it was there that my late grandmother lived after I was 12 years old. So in early childhood, I was shipped off to Little Rock or to St. Louis after a few weeks in the country (right out Lamar).

Wilma is now working in social work for the St. Louis School system in the Banneker System under Dr. Sam Shepherd who has made a terrific record in the field of education. After chatting with her and her stately mother, Mrs. Whitfield (well known in Memphis), her hand accountant husband, Frank and a sister, Nancy, we went across to the street to see an old friend, Margaret Sims who is gravely ill... Many Memphians are close to Margaret who is the immediate past president of the Jack and Jill, Inc. of America.

We took time out early Sunday morning to see my relatives... After church, Fulton Culkins, a long time friend and president and owner of the Ellis Funeral Home, picked me up to see his new Funeral Home... and the Union Avenue Funeral Home is a show place... It is tremendous. I have never seen such appointments... nor a more beautiful business. To say that the place is fine, is being mild with praise.

Mr. Culkins and Mrs. Taylor Hayes of the T. H. Hayes Funeral Home in Memphis have been close friends throughout the years.

MR. CULKINS Mr. Culkins has made an outstanding record in business... He really sets the pace in St. Louis... and we could say that he is a pace setter all over. They showed us records where they had 524 funerals for 1967... and said that it requires one-thousand dollars a day to open up the Union Avenue Branch.

To mention the exterior, one could never give it justice. The foyer is simply beautiful with Japanese chandelier. There is a huge modern chapel that stands in their front... with four or five huge slumber rooms with exquisite couches and colorful chairs that are beyond describing. There are two elevators (slick shiny ones) in the building... and the Rolling Stock with its fleet of Cadillac cars are as pretty as anything pertaining to a funeral could be. This was one of the businesses. Mr. Culkins still runs Ellis on Stoddard Street. The new fabulous place with much parking space is on the fabulous Union Avenue.

Mr. Culkins is really a native of Vicksburg, Miss. He became a licensed embalmer in 1940. His first job (he says was with Robert's Funeral Home as a part time embalmer). He was promoted to manager of the Ellis Funeral Home on Stoddard. It was after the death of Mr. Ellis and his widow that Culkins came into his own. He has stuck close to "Bibi" Miller, Chicago Funeral Home owner who has served as a main strength to Mr. Culkins.

Mr. Culkins has served as a lecturer for the National Funeral Director's and Morticians Association at conventions throughout the nation... As president of the Missouri State Funeral Directors' Journal... and served as president of Epsilon Nu Delta Mortuary Fraternity. In St. Louis, he was once named "Citizen of the Week" by a local radio station for work in saving the Perrier Harris Home for the Aged from foreclosure... and was named "Man of Achievement" by the St. Louis Argus, St. Louis' oldest Negro newspaper.

He is active with many organizations... Among them are the NAACP... the Perrier Harris Home for the Aged for which he serves as president of the board. He is on the Board of Managers of the Page-Park YM-OA... on the Mayor's Committee... the Board of Directors...

tors of the Gateway National Bank... on the St. Louis Urban League... the Steering Committee for the first Negro State Senator, Ted D. McNeal... and many others. His business donates Christmas baskets to needy families... sponsors the Ellis Strikers, Men's Bowling Team... girl's softball teams... donated funds and limousines for the 7th and 8th grade boys and girls of the Banneker District, St. Louis Public School in the project "Operation Dine-Out." In 1966, Mr. Culkins underwrote an Awards Banquet for two-hundred Boy Scouts and has assisted with the Bridget's Catholic Parish and his on church, the Prince of Peace Baptist Church. Many Memphians know Mr. Culkins... He often visits the Lacey Kennedys at Marianna, Ark. and the U. S. Bonds at Madison. He also spends much time with my relatives, the Jarretts who are Little Rock morticians. Last Week, Mr. Sweet, publisher of the St. Louis American carried a recent picture and story on Mr. Culkins with Governor Warren E. Hearnes who gave St. Louis another "first" when he appointed Fulton Culkins to the State Board of Embalmers and Funeral Directors for a term ending April 1, 1973.

After the tour, one of the Ellis drivers dropped me off at the beautiful Clayton Road residence of Dr. and Mrs. Parker Word (an Intern at Provident Hospital, Chicago when I went there is so social work... and frequent visitors to Memphis. Meeting me at the door of the lovely Colonial mansion (that features huge white columns), was their pretty young daughter, Leslie, a student at Boston University who was house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Maceo Walker and their young son, Tony two months ago. We had cocktails in a gay sun room that overlooks a back swimming pool and cabana... and later gumbo made by Dee whose family (I learned) hailed from New Orleans before moving to Chicago. Leslie and her younger sister drove me back to Wilmas in her father's new Eldorado. The words will spend the last week of this month as guests of the Runners at the Chicagoans. Incidentally both Parker and I were in the Runner wedding at the University of Chicago 22 years ago.

NEW YORK — Protesters the arrest of 100 students demonstrated against police patrol of elementary and secondary schools in South Bend, Indiana, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today called for prompt removal of the police from the school buildings and for the dropping of the charges against the students.

In a telegram to Charles Holt, superintendent of South Bend schools, Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive director, said that the Association "is shocked and outraged" to learn of the use of armed police to patrol the interior of the schools.

The text of Mr. Wilkins' telegram follows:

"National Association for Advancement of Colored People is shocked an outraged to report that you have called in police to patrol the corridors of elementary and secondary schools in South Bend. The show of armed force will enhance the image of neither the police nor the school system in the minds of pupils and community. Instead, it can only increase their hostility and distrust.

We firmly support the protest of our Branch and our Youth Council against this police invasion.

"We call upon you to drop the charges against the 100 arrested school children and to withdraw the police. Surely there are more effective ways of maintaining discipline and order within the South Bend schools."

Nixon Gains New Stature In Presidential Race

While the political horizon is gaining new impetus as the days drag along, it is certain that former vice president Nixon is gaining new stature. The former vice president was especially trained for this occasion by one of the ablest statesmen of this century, General Dwight Eisenhower, who steered the country through one of its gravest crisis.

Nixon went on to describe some of these "bridges." He asserted that "bridges" to human dignity would help the poor. In his speech he blasted the artificial plans that finally helped nobody.

He said: "The economic crisis confronting America today is so acute that it rules out a massive transfusion now of additional federal funds into the nation's cities. Rather than spending more, the federal budget must be cut by some $8 billion if the fiscal crisis is to be averted and the dollar itself preserved."

"But I also stated that a lack of available federal funds ought not to stifle our ingenuity. I spoke of bridges that can and should be built between the developed and the under-developed parts of our society — between rich and poor, white and black — human bridges, economic bridges, bridges of understanding and to help.

"I would like to describe some of the bridges," said Nixon.

"These programs represent a beginning, they illustrate the new direction that our efforts to reconcile the races and to secure the poor ought to be taking."

"They will not by themselves eliminate poverty now, or even in the next decade. They will not guarantee complete racial harmony. But they will point the way toward our becoming at least one nation and one people. For they aim at breaking, the dismal cycles of despair and dependency, which have created a welfare class catered to by a welfare bureaucracy."

What the country needs most just now are those vigorous approaches to such questions as are affecting our home front. He has shown conclusively that we cannot effect peace and comfort abroad with the home front being devastated.

He made a broad stroke at the welfare class created by bureaucracy.

Senator Brooke Makes A Good Impression

U. S. Senator Edward Brooke arrived here Saturday afternoon and was properly welcomed at the airport by officials of the Delta Sorority and members of the press.

Later that evening Senator Brooke, a Republican from Massachusetts, and the first member of our race to be elected by the people of a state to the high office of U. S. Senator since the Reconstruction Period, held a press conference and addressed a dinner meeting of the Sorority.

At all these appearances Senator Brooke gave a good account of himself and he also made a very good impression.

At the dinner Vice Mayor Sam Massell gave brief words of welcome to the distinguished visitor and presented him a token in behalf of Atlanta.

In his speech the Massachusetts senator dealt mostly with the findings of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders of which he was a member. The senator dealt mostly with the problems of education, employment, housing and the welfare system. The speaker thought the federal government should do what is necessary to see that youth are given an education and a job. He thinks Congress should broaden the power of the Equal Opportunity Commission to "insure that discrimination is completely eliminated in employment by federal, state and local governments." The senator said he has introduced a bill which attempts to do just that.

On the question of welfare, Senator Brooke quoted the Commission's findings which said the present system is "designed to save money instead of people, and tragically ends up doing neither." He said, "Welfare systems must be re-oriented with incentives for individuals to become self-sufficient."

He also correctly concluded that rioting and violence are self-destructive and progress can only be made through intelligent and constructive action.

We are proud to have Senator Brooke visit us and we congratulate the Delta Sorority for bringing him here. We hope he will come again.

"N.I.A. Week" Observance

Member Companies of the National Insurance Association are observing "N.I.A. Week" May 13-18. Seven insurance companies operating locally are members of the Association.

The promotion is designed to expand the business of the 46 member companies. This will be the thirty-fourth annual observance and it should be made the best.

No insurance companies provide as much bottom-to-top involvement and participation as do the member companies of the National Insurance Association. This is something for which our group and N.I.A. member companies should feel proud.

There is room for pride in participation and in involvement. One can take pride in something in which he can see himself functioning, performing various economic tasks, and competing, even where the competition is tough, often unequal, and always unrelenting.

These N.I.A. companies have earned our support, whether we give it to them or not. They appreciate our support and plough it back into opportunities, programs for our advancement and service for our benefit. The least we can do is to continue our support and help to bring to them new customers.

Young Democrats Elect Negro As State President

By RODNEY MEEKS
A precedence in politics came about during the annual State Convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of Georgia, held on May 10th and 11th, at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel.

Waymon Scott Wright, a 28-year-old Negro Staff Representative in the Public Relations Department of The Coca-Cola Company was elected President for the first time in the history of the Georgia Young Democrats.

Mr. Wright, born in Denmark, South Carolina is the oldest of three children of a funeral director and a school teacher. He was the public relation director for the Atlanta Falcons and received a B. A. degree from Morehouse College, majoring in Psychology and currently is listed in the 1968 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

According to Wright, he earlier decided to run, but didn't know how his constituents would react to his decision, until he formally announced his intentions during the convention in which he gained support drawing 20 of the 33 votes cast.

In a statement of policy and

goals of the Young Democratic Clubs of Georgia, Wright stated: "In the true historic tradition of the Democratic Party — respecting the past and looking with hope to the future — the Young Democrats of Georgia gave birth to a new force in Georgia."

I humbly ask you today to let it be known far and wide that I, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Georgia, now serve notice that a new generation is on the horizon and I am willing to accept the challenge that I have inherited."

"While creating healthy working relationships with all facets of the party, we will attempt to call to attention the influx of the new generation. This generation, our generation has the greatest stake in the future because we will be forced to live with it."

When asked of his immediate plans and goals, Wright submitted a seven point program and stated — "This dynamic young group of progressive thinking, forward-looking democratic-thinking Democrats are committed to working toward the following goals:

"1. Between now and August 15, we want to activate all chartered clubs that are not functioning, and organize new county clubs and college clubs.

"2. Develop promotional programs that will create greater interest in the party among young Georgians.

"3. Improve the communications in the organization and between our organization and the Senior Party.

"4. Establish a strong public relations program to keep the public informed of our programs and of issues involving total community.

"5. Establish a speakers bureau in addition to program formats can be adopted by any club depending its local requirements.

"6. Strengthen our voter education programs.

"7. Establish strong Get-out-the-vote programs to elect every true Democratic candidate that offers for an office."

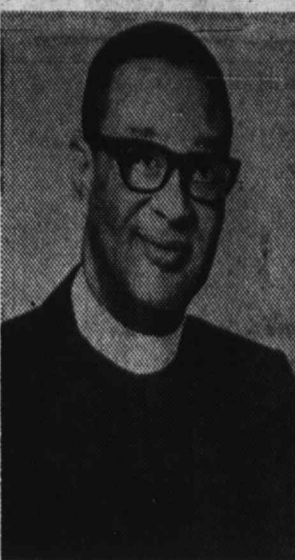

He went on to say — "I would like to paraphrase the immortal words of our late President John F. Kennedy, and say that let it be known that the torch has been passed on to a new generation, and we accept it with our mind and soul. We want to keep our organization in this State moving forward in these crucial times, and increase our value and assistance in creating a strong party in Georgia."

A. M. E.'s Choose Two New Bishops

By REV. JOHN L. DAVIS
(World News Staff)

In the 38th Quadrennial Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church in session at Philadelphia, Penn., from May 1 through May 15.

From a field of 46 nominees for the office of Bishop of the church two were elected. The newly elected prelate are: Henry W. Murph, Pastor of Grant A. M. E. Church of Los Angeles, Calif., and G. Dewey Robinson of Washington, D. C. also a Pastor.

Stiff competition was offered by Dr. J. Benedict Mason, of West Africa, who came in a close third in choice. The spirited voting for the high Religion Office lasted for more than 72 hours.

For the first in more than forty years, the electorate was stymied to the extent of actually delaying the scheduled "Consecration" ceremonies which were due on Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Murph was at one time an Instructor at Morris Brown College, and is well remembered in the Atlanta area. A reliable source informs this writer that former Bishop D. Ward Nichols has been fully restored and in a sense may be regarded as a new Bishop of the church.

Two Atlanta Ministers, Rev. J. R. Hurley, Pastor of the Cosmopolitan A.M.E. church, and Rev. M. L. Hood, Pastor of St. Marks A.M.E. church were candidates for the Secretaryship of the Missions and Evangelism, respectively, neither received enough votes to attain office.

Rev. W. D. Johnson of the Macon, Ga., district was involved in a heated fracas during the voting sub-ordinate offices.

In a last minute vote, the Methodist Board defeated the request for a transfer of all Bishops, and returned most to their respective districts.

Dr. H. C. Carswell, Bishopric Candidate from Georgia failed to garner enough votes to cause a race in the fight of the Bishopric vacancy.

At this writing, The Rt. Rev. Ernest L. Hickman, is still prelate for the 6th Episcopal District of the Methodist church.

Grimes Holds Office In Medical Society Unit At Wake Forest

ATLANTA, Ga. — (S.N.S.) — William T. Grimes Jr., the first Negro student at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest University, has been elected secretary of the Bowman Gray Student Medical Society.

A first year medical student, he is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. William T. Grimes of Rocky Mount North Carolina.

On the basis of interviews with many of what he calls the nation's blue chip firms, Davidson has concluded: "Most companies do not have opportunities (for Negroes) to move to the top."

The youth's father, a Hall of Fame star who was the first Negro to break into major league baseball, said at the time of his son's arrest, "I guess I had more of an effect on other people's kids than I had on my own." Robinson said his son picked up the use of narcotics in Vietnam.

The Republican National Committee has not adopted any resolutions or guidelines, although it has provided assistance to candidates and party officials seeking to encourage Negro participation in party affairs.

MY WEEKLY SERMON

By
REV. BLAIR T. HUNT,
PASTOR,
MISSISSIPPI RVD. CHRISTIAN CHURCH
MEMPHIS, TENN.

SUBJECT: "FRET NOT THYSELF"

Text: (Read Psalms 37-1-8)

"Fret not thyself." Don't get dangerously hot about things. When you get hot you lose your head, you lose your battle.

Keep cool. We are God's greatest machine. A most intricate machine. Fretting gets our bearings hot. Don't have a hot-box. When the axles on the wheels of a locomotive get hot there is danger. Fretting is the heating of the axles of our life. Sometimes we say, "didn't he get hot over it?" Yes, it is the dangerous heat of the axles.

When the axles of the wheel get hot it is because of needless friction. When we get fretful it is because of needless friction. Then, it is, we have not got the saving oil of salvation.

When we fret, something has gotten into our bearings. Some disappointment, some ingratitude, some impatience, some falsehood. There is friction (another word for "fret"). Heat is begotten and with this heat a perilous situation is formed.

Fretfulness leads to the green-eyed monster, jealousy. Be zealous but don't be jealous. One is fervor, the other is fever. Fretfulness begets envy and anger. Men and women fret themselves because of evil-doers and the end thereof is that they become evil-doers themselves. Fretfulness is a disease, a cancerous disease.

Is there a cure? Yes, there is a cure. Fretfulness is earthly. The cure is heavenly. Here is the prescription:

I. "Trust in the Lord" Believe in God's fidelity. Cast your cares upon God. Remember, even though things may seem to be against you, God is working with you.

II. "Delight thyself also in the Lord." A beautiful expression! Another translation is "seek for the delicacies in the Lord." Too often we eat the crumbs from the Lord's table, and don't take time to eat the delicacies from the Lord's Table. You haven't as yet eaten of God's best. When we eat of God's best, fretfulness will suffocate.

III. "Commit thy way unto the Lord." What does the Psalmist mean by "The Way?" Any road we have to travel, any holy purpose, any noble aspiration, any worthy duty, commit them to God. Don't walk the road alone. If you do, fretfulness will over take you. But if you walk in the company of God's only Begotten Son, Jesus, The Christ, you then will have a peace that passeth understanding.

get him to a hospital where he was treated and returned to his home.

Mrs. Flemming said police officers came to their house later in the day, "forced their way into the house," and carried her husband to jail.

The two rape victims identified Flemming and Stevenson in a police line-up and at the trial. One of the girls jotted down the license number of the car in which they were driven to the island.

Police spotted the car, a stolen vehicle, several hours after the rape took place, and gave chase. The chase came to an end when the car crashed into a telephone pole on Latham near McLeMORE. Testimony showed Stevenson had stolen the car and was driving it when it crashed into the pole.

Flemming and his brother, Curtis were passengers in the crashed car. Testimony showed that Stevenson, the driver, and Flemming fled after the crash.

When on the stand testifying in his own defense, Flemming said he tried to get Stevenson to stop the car when the police car siren sounded. He quoted Stevenson as saying "I can't stop. The car's stolen."

Flemming contended he and his brother met Stevenson after he (Flemming) left his home at 10 p.m.

Attorney Bailey argued that the State's case against his client, Rufus Flemming, rested partly on the fact that he was a passenger, several hours after the crime, in an automobile linked with the assault. Bailey accused the State with trying to prove "guilty association."

Lawyers for both defendants argued "mistaken identification."

Several character witnesses appeared for Flemming, declaring him a well-mannered and hard-working young man.

One piece of evidence that helped convict Stevenson was a faded gold crepe paper pom-pom which police said they found in the stolen car. One of the assaulted girls said the pom-pom belonged to her and that she was carrying it on the football game when the kidnapping took place.

Neither Flemming nor Stevenson showed any emotion when the verdict was read. Also sitting quietly in the courtroom as the verdict was read were Flemming's wife, mother and brother, Curtis. Flemming walked out of the courthouse with his family, and Stevenson was returned to his cell in the County Jail.

The jury got the case at 10:40 Saturday morning and reached a verdict at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The verdict was read by Judge Hooks when attorneys in the case arrived at 8:11 p.m.

Judge Motley Named A Trustee Of NYC

Judge Constance Baker Motley of the United States District Court for Southern New York, a graduate of New York University's Washington Square College, has been elected a member of the University's Board of Trustees.

George A. Murphy, chairman of the board said that Judge Motley will join the 38-member board at its May 27 meeting.

"New York University is proud of Judge Motley's distinguished contributions to society as a civil rights lawyer, elected official and Federal judge," said President Jas. M. Hester. "We are pleased that she has consented to serve her alma mater as a member of the Board of Trustees."

FIRST NEGRO

Judge Motley is the first Negro to be elected a trustee of NYU, the latest in a series of "firsts" that have marked her career. In 1944 she was the first Negro woman to be elected to the New York State Senate. The following year, with her election as borough president of Manhattan, she became the first woman to hold a borough presidency and to sit on the city's Board of Estimate. She is also the first Negro woman to have been named to the P-1 level bench.

Born Sept. 14, 1921, in New Haven, Conn., where her father worked as a chef at Yale University. She was graduated from New Haven High School in 1939 with little prospect of obtaining a college education. A year-and-a-half after her vigorous statement on civil rights in a community house meeting brought her to the attention of the late Clarence Blakeslee, a white business man who was interested in Negro welfare and education and who financed her education.

ACTIVITIES

She studied for more than a year at Fisk University before coming to New York University, where she earned a degree in economics in 1943. She received her law degree from Columbia University in 1946 and was married the same year to Joel Motley, an insurance and real estate broker. She was admitted to the New York Bar in 1948.

Judge Motley went to work as a clerk to Thurgood Marshall in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's Federal Defense and Educational Fund while still attending Columbia. She was a member of the legal staff of the NAACP for 20 years and participated in every phase of the integration struggle, including the desegregation of schools, housing and transportation facilities.

Judge Motley was a member of the New York State Advisory Council on Employment and Unemployment Insurance from 1956 to 1964. She is a member of the board of directors of the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing and is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York and the American Association of University Women.

The Motleys have one son, Joel Jr., and live at 875 West End Ave.

VATICAN CITY — (UPI)

Pope Paul VI Saturday received Maximus Bakim, the Melchite patriarch of the Eastern Orthodox Church for Alexandria, Antioch and Jerusalem. Sources said they discussed the Arab-Israeli situation and Eastern churches.

In the sixth case, the Hearing Committee set social probation for the remainder of this year and disciplinary probation until the end of the first semester of the 1968-69 term.

These six cases were the first group of 54 students brought before the Hearing Committee set up to determine disciplinary action because of student unrest which led to the temporary closing of the Institute in April.

In the three appeals made to the President, the decision of the Hearing Committee was specifically affirmed. In the other three cases the Hearing Committee action was automatically affirmed by the President when no appeal was made.

Additional cases are now being heard and others are scheduled.

Head Of Bar Association Speaks At Michigan Univ.

EAST LANSING, MICH. — The president of The American Bar Association and a researcher for the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders will speak at a national conference, May 19-24, at Michigan State University.

They will join with some 40 other specialists from law enforcement, education, government and other agencies and organizations to lead the sessions at the 14th annual National Institute on Police and Community Relations.

A total of 326 people from a record 35 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, Sweden, Norway and England will travel to The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education for the event.

Participants will work as police-citizen teams, to encourage more partnership between the two groups in the cause of crime prevention.

All of the speakers this year will attempt to "Accentuate the Positive in Police and Community Relations," the general institute theme, beginning with keynote Major General George M. Gleson, adjutant general for the State of Maryland.

General session speakers include Herman Goldstein, associate professor of criminal justice administration, University of Wisconsin Law School, Robert Shellow, assistant deputy director for research, The National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, and Earl F. Morris, president, The American Bar Association.

Others are John F. O'Connor, chief of police, Syracuse, N. Y., and Dr. George M. Johnson, MSU professor of administration and higher education, former president of Howard University and a member of the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Among the topics for discussion are the role of the police in today's society, perspectives on civil disorders, the police-judicial process and police and the social revolution.

Two special panels will explore some of the more positive programs in police-community relations. Optional special-interest conferences will discuss youth and the police, politics and police-community relations, civil disobedience and the police, police handling of the mentally afflicted, police-press relations and related topics.

Sponsoring the institute are MSU's National Center on police and community relations and the School of Police Administration and Public Safety, in cooperation with the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Endorsing the program are the International Association of Chiefs of Police, International City Managers Association, Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, Michigan Department of Corrections, Michigan Association of Intergroup Relations Officials, National Council on Crime and Delinquency, National Sheriffs Association and United States Conference of Mayors.

Evers Files Suit To End Bias On Draft Boards

JACKSON, Miss. — A suit to require Gov. John Bell Williams to nominate Negroes to local and appeals boards of the Selective Service System in Mississippi has been filed in the United States District Court here on behalf of Charles Evers, NAACP state field director; the Rev. Charles Joseph, Roosevelt Rucker, Wallace J. Fuqua and "all other persons similarly situated."

The class action seeks to enjoin the systematic refusal of the Governor to nominate Negroes for appointment to draft boards. Consequently no Negroes serve on any of the boards although Mississippi youth are regularly drafted for service in the Armed Forces.

Appointments to the draft board are made by the President. However, under law he can only appoint from a list of nominees submitted to him by the Governor of the state.

Commenting on the suit, Mr. Evers said: "Negroes are tired of having their sons and husbands sent off to Vietnam by all-white boards. What white mother in this state would sit still while an all-black draft board told her son to go to Vietnam and denied him a deferment to support her and his six brothers and sisters."

"We will fight for our country," he continued, "but we will insist on an equal say in how it is run and who is to go and why. Negroes are qualified to take part in government and are going to do so, with or without the cooperation of Gov. Williams."

Representing the plaintiffs in the suit are Attorneys William E. Miller, II, Lawrence Aschenbrenner and Martha M. Wood.

Vets To Get Increase On Mortgage Home Loans

Administrator of Veterans Affairs William Driver said recently that the increase in the Veterans Administration's maximum guarantee on G. I. home loans from $7,500 to $12,500 makes G. I. mortgages a "gilt-edge investment."

The two-thirds increase in the amount of the maximum VA guarantee went into effect May 7, 1968 with the signing of Public Law 90-301 by President Johnson.

What this means to nearly 125 million veterans and servicemen now eligible for G. I. home loans, Driver said is that they can go to any lender and say, in effect, that in addition to having the house as security for a mortgage, the lender also has the guarantee of the U. S. A. for up to 60 per cent or $12,500 of the mortgage.

This really makes G. I. home loans virtually riskless for lenders, Driver declared.

According to the VA's top official, the new guarantee maximum replacing the $7,500 ceiling which had been in effect since 1959, will provide up to the authorized 60 per cent coverage on loans as high as $20,833, and 50 per cent on $25,000 mortgages.

The Administrator pointed out that P.L. 90-301 signed by the President May 7 also contains two other provisions important to veterans in addition to the loan guaranty hike and the widely reported interest rate increase.

One provision would permit a veteran to pay more for a home than the VA appraised reasonable value. However, the amount of the loan obtained by the veteran cannot exceed the VA appraisal. And the veteran must pay in cash the difference between the VA "reasonable value" appraisal and the actual sales price of the home.

Another provision would permit VA for the first time to pay or reimburse a veteran for the cost of repairs required to make a new home, which had been inspected during construction by the VA or FHA, structurally sound, durable and livable. This applies only to loans made after May 7, 1963.

Driver said that of the 125 million veterans and servicemen currently eligible for G. I. loans, approximately 44 million are post-Korean veterans, 32 million Korean Conflict veterans, 32 million World War II veterans, and 19 million servicemen with at least two years of active duty. This total is being swelled by nearly 70,000 Vietnam era veterans returning to civilian life each month.

Since the beginning of the VA loan program under the World War II G. I. Bill, VA has guaranteed 72 million loans amounting to more than $70 billion. It has also made more than 234,000 direct loans valued at $2.6 billion, the Administrator of Veterans Affairs said.

Jackson Negroes In Drive To Stop Racial Bias

JACKSON, Miss. — The elimination of racial discrimination in employment, both public and private; in participation in governmental affairs; in recreation, and in housing is the goal of a massive campaign launched here by a coalition of concerned citizens headed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People under leadership of Charles Evers, the Association's field director for Mississippi.

In support of the demand for more and better jobs, the group has instituted a withholding of patronage campaign against the local outlet of Sears, Roebuck and Company. The drive, which Mr. Evers reports is highly effective, was instituted after local officials refused to alter the company's discriminatory hiring practices.

The coalition program was placed before Mayor Allen C. Thompson and the City Council at a regular Council meeting last month. Among demands made upon the City fathers were:

1. Reopening of all parks and swimming pools, closed since desegregation was ordered.
2. Establishment of a bi-racial civilian police complaint review board.
3. Employment by the police and fire departments of at least 30 per cent Negroes.
4. Minimum wage payments for all sanitation workers and promotion on the basis of merit.
5. Initiation of an Urban Renewal program with Negro participation in the planning.
6. Appointment of Negroes to all public commissions and boards.
7. Creation of a multi-racial commission on human rights.
8. Availability of funds of summer employment of drop-outs and the hard-core unemployed.
9. Use by the mayor and other municipal officials of their influence to persuade all downtown stores to employ Negro sales personnel.

The council promptly acceded to a demand for appointment of Negro juvenile officers to work with the Juvenile Court, disclaimed any influence on the employment practices of privately-owned stores, rejected the request for a civilian police complaint review board, and agreed to seek Urban Renewal funds and to take some other demands under consideration. It was also indicated that a Negro would be appointed to the Urban Renewal Board.

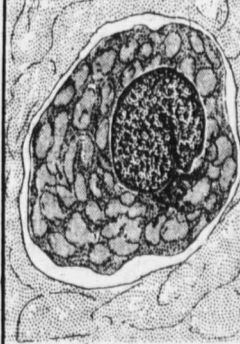

Meanwhile, the campaign gained support from segments of the white community including a group of 250 women, some 200 of the city's leading business and professional men, and some students.

Little Known 1950 Law Could Jail 'Dissenters,' Says Clark

SCLC Executive:

Rev. Young Named Chairman Of Delta Ministry Program

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The Rev. Andrew J. Young of Atlanta, Ga., executive vice president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, has been named chairman of the National Council of Churches' Delta Ministry, it was announced simultaneously in New York and at Delta Ministry headquarters in Greenville, Miss.

Young, who left the staff of the National Council in 1961 to work for Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., will preside over 35-member commission which governs the Delta Ministry program, primarily in 15 counties of the Mississippi Delta area. He succeeds the Rev. Paul O. Madsen of Valley Forge, Pa., associate executive of the American Baptist Home Mission Society.

The incoming Delta Ministry chairman served as associate executive director of the NCC Department of Youth Work from 1957-61. He was formerly pastor of the Bethany Congregational Christian Church in Thomasville, Ga., and Evergreen Congregational Christian Church of Bethlehem, Ga.

He attended Harvard and Howard Universities, graduating in 1951 and received the B. D. degree from Hartford Seminary Foundation in 1956. He was a participant in the Austrian Work Camp sponsored by the Brethren Volunteer Service in 1953 and was a faculty member of United Christian Youth Movement training conferences.

As SCLC executive vice president, Young is the chief administrator of a major civil and human rights organization structured under a loose federation of nationwide affiliates that adhere to the moral imperatives of a philosophy of non-violence deeply rooted in the thinking of Jesus, Henry Thoreau and Mahatma Gandhi. He was a close and influential aide to SCLC's president, the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The Delta Ministry was established in 1964 by the NCC as a long term project for relief and community development and reconciliation.

Its major current projects include economic development, citizenship education, welfare and relief, and education.

The staff team of 32 is directed by Owen Brooks, associate director, with offices in Greenville, Miss.

Besides support from major denominations in the United States, the Delta Ministry has received numerous grants from overseas churches, including recent grants from Dutch and Danish churches as a memorial to Dr. King.

Edgewood Faculty Slated To Teach In Negro Schools

Three members of the Edgewood College science faculty will be spending their summer vacations teaching in all-Negro colleges in the South, according to an announcement from the president's office.

Sisters Elaine, John Venard, and Winifred, all Dominican nuns, have volunteered a summer of teaching without reimbursement to a developing Negro institution of higher learning as members of a program called Cope, sponsored by the National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice.

Their participation in the project will free the professors of these institutions who normally teach summer session courses so that they will have the opportunity and available funds to improve their own education during these months.

Sisters Elaine and John Venard will begin instructing June 11th at Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tennessee, a private, non-denominational school; while Sister Winifred will be at Albany State College in Albany, Georgia. Sister Elaine will teach a course in "Introductory Biology." Sister John Venard in "Organic Chemistry," and Sister Winifred in "General Chemistry."

The Sisters believe that this program offers Edgewood College an opportunity to help the Negro in a very real and practical sense, as not only the students and professors of the two Southern colleges will benefit from the program; but every person who receives the care of the future doctors has been reached in a small but genuine

Two students were placed on social and disciplinary probation until their undergraduate careers are concluded, one of whom is a candidate for graduation this year.

Should every woman be a blonde?

Blonde hair is beautiful for those women whose natural coloring it flatters. But not everyone should be a blonde.

Expert beauticians know that complexion and hair color must complement each other to glamorize and bring out all the natural beauty that was meant to be. They also know that very coarse and dark hair often is resistant to drastic color changes. However, there's no doubt about slightly lighter hair adding excitement to a woman's appearance. And hairdressers know there is no better product to add a whole new appeal to every woman's look than Miss Clairol® haircoloring—extra rich Creme Formula or new extra easy Shampoo Formula.

Both Miss Clairol products lighten and color at once, combining vibrant new color with the natural pigment of the hair. So even those shades that look blonde on white hair (as shown on most color selection charts) give a variety of flattering red-to-golden brown shades on women whose hair was black to begin with.

Beauty salons are equipped to answer questions and help with hair color selection. Depend on your hairdresser to have the professional skills and the total family of fine Clairol products to make every woman's experience with haircoloring completely personal and glamorous. Should you be a blonde? If you don't really know, ask your expert hairdresser.

At 3 p.m. the climax was the grand inspiration of the program committee. The challenging, inspiring message was brought by the Rev. W. Herbert Brewster, who had his congregation, East Trigg Church accompanying him. Rev. Brewster challenged the leadership at Mt. Moriah to make themselves influential forces in the community and the church world by meeting the challenge of the changing role. The congregation from the Centennial Baptist Church, Clarksdale, Miss., also pastored by the Rev. West, was guest. Orchids to Bro. Charles Hunt for an effective job.

This was a most interesting and well planned affair. Activities go under way May 12 with a Fellowship Breakfast at 7:30 a.m. The 11 a.m. worship hour followed with the sermon brought by the Rev. West. Appropriate music by the choir.

For Ester Saverson, Negro Politician
BELLEVILLE, Ill. — (UPI) — Burial services were held Saturday for Ester Saverson, a pioneering Negro politician whose death raised a final issue — segregated cemeteries.

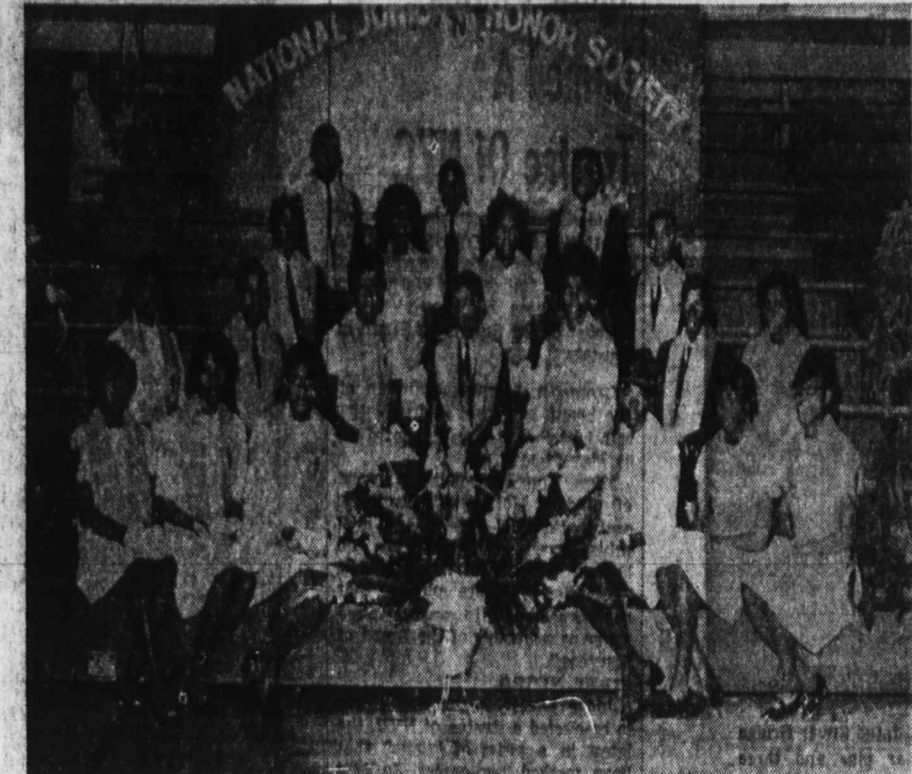

Saverson, first Negro to be elected city councilman in East St. Louis, was buried in a Centerville, Ill. cemetery while officers of nearby Valhalla Gardens Cemetery in Belleville considered how to respond to the inquiry of State Auditor Michael J. Howlett.

Saverson died Monday. Marion E. Officer, an East St. Louis, Ill., undertaker said he called Valhalla for burial arrangements and was told "we only bury Caucasians."

Officer then filed a complaint against Valhalla with the State human relations commission.

Howlett is the administrator of the Illinois Cemetery Care Act. His telegram to Mrs. Freda Asbill, president of Valhalla, read: "It is illegal and against public policy of the state government of Illinois to discriminate for race or color."

Howlett asked Mrs. Asbill to submit a statement describing her cemetery's policy and the facts of the Saverson matter.

U. S. SEN. BROOKE

Senate Brooke came to Atlanta to address the annual May Week celebration of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority at the Regency hotel Saturday evening, immediately following the press conference.

On the Vietnam conference Brooke held in Paris, Senator Brooke stated that he was hopeful that it would bear fruit and move toward peace and was sincere and not using the conference to lighten the war.

However he thought that it was moving in the right direction but he thought it was too early to say what will come out of the negotiations.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDACY
As to Republican Candidates for president of the United States, the senator stated that he had already made it known Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York is his preference. He thinks the Rockefeller would be the right person to bring the nation together and the best one to lead the country, during these perilous times, to bring peace and could bring labor and management together and pursue a sound fiscal policy as well as bring about good race relations between whites and Negroes as well as other minorities, and to bring the rich and poor together.

When asked whether he would campaign, he stated that he would go across the country and go where he was asked. He is scheduled to speak in Delaware for the Rockefeller candidacy.

As to Rockefeller's running mate and when asked about California's Gov. Ronald Reagan, he stated that it was too early to say and he does not really know but would not rule out anyone.

ON BEING A CABINET MEMBER
Questioned on becoming a cabinet member, Senator Brooke stated that he would much rather be a junior senator because he could make a better contribution as a senator. He had heard much talk about it. He denied that he was interested in becoming Rockefeller's running mate. But he did admit there has been talk about it.

About the forthcoming marriage of his daughter, he stated that marriage was a personal thing for people who are in love and that marriage laws should be opposed to segregation. He was not for separation but for integration. He would hope that miscegenation laws should be done away with. He stated that he thinks in terms of "one" nation not one half white and one half black.

The senator said that he was opposed to racial segregation in every form because individuals should be just on their merits.

COMMITTEE FINDINGS
As to the findings by the Committee on the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights he was proud to be a member and thought that it made a good reasonable report. He sees the need of a tax increase if we are to support the war and improve urban life. He favored a tax increase and was hopeful that it would be accomplished. "I voted for the increase and I will do so again whenever it comes up. We are spending $2.5 billion a month on the Vietnam war."

"I welcome the Poor People's March to Washington, D. C. said Senator Brooke. He said "I think the Poor People's march will be conducted in a peaceful and non-violent way. I think the participants have every right to bring their grievances to their government. I hope Congress and other

Senate Probers Told:

Organized Crime Uses Loansharks

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Senate investigators were told Tuesday organized crime was using loanshark operations to take over legitimate businesses. One witness said the racket was "happily" tolerated by local government business and labor leaders.

Chairman George Smathers, D-Fla., of the Senate Small Business Committee, got into an argument at one point with a former Presidential Crime Commission member about public apathy to local criminal activities.

Henry S. Ruth Jr., deputy director of the President's Commission on Law Enforcement, estimated the Cosa Nostra "earned billions annually from loaning money at interest rates ranging from 100 to 2,000 per cent a year."

Ruth described the Cosa Nostra as having a membership of 6,000 Italian-Americans engaging in all forms of racketeering. But he said income from illegal loans — some exceeding $100,000 — was second only to gambling operations.

Ruth and Ralph F. Salerno of the National Council on Crime testified many businessmen who borrowed from loansharks often lost their establishments to "the mob."

"The original owner, unable to pay his debt, finds himself operating a front for racket operations at a nominal salary," Ruth said. "Loansharks have taken over businesses ranging from optical stores to night clubs to brick companies. Sometimes, the new owner loots the business and files a bankruptcy petition."

"While most Americans 'happily tolerate' the rackets, Ruth said mayors and governors want to avoid crackdowns against crime. 'Although they are not directly connected with crime, they just figure they stand more to lose by fighting it than' ignoring it."

Negro Players Boycott Kansas Football Drills

LA WHEATON, Kan. — UPI Negro football players at the University of Kansas have boycotted a final spring practice in an apparent protest over the selection of next season's pom-pom girls.

Athletic director Wade Stinson said 15 Negro players, including first string tailback Dimple Shanklin and defensive end Vernon Votey, did not show up for the final spring session.

The boycott coincided with an announcement from the Kansas University human relations committee that plans had been formulated to select a Negro pom-pom girl.

Two weeks ago eight regular and four alternate pom-pom girls were chosen for the fall season. All were white.

Head coach Pepper Rodgers said he was unaware of the boycott until practice time. "I'm not sure whether they quit" he said. "Nobody told me directly why they are boycotting or quitting the football team." Rodgers added "I'd be disappointed if they quit. We have some very fine individuals."

Rogers who had not had an opportunity to talk to Stinson said he had heard rumors about the walkout but was primarily disturbed because none of the Negro players told him of their plans.

Stinson spent the afternoon conferring with Chancellor W. Clark Wescoe.

The athletic director said "the discrimination aspect has been discounted." He added that he was under the assumption that the walkout would not have any effect on the annual spring games scheduled for Saturday.

Rodgers said he plans to speak to the athletes who boycotted the practice.

Florida A&M Captures SIAC Track Championship

ALBANY, Ga. — (SNS) — Florida A. and M. pounded out 71 points Saturday afternoon to capture the 31st Annual SIAC track and field championship meet held at Cheney Stadium.

Dominating track events and half-controlling the field, the Rattlers added another trophy to their list of SIAC crowns, only Morehouse sneaking in to break the Rattlers' winning streak in recent years.

In the famous 100 Yard Dash, the Rattlers finished 1-2-3, on a 9.9 timing. All three, Eugene Milton, Nathaniel James and Major Hazelton, are members of the Rattlers' noted 440 Relay team.

This same threesome of speed, joined teammate James Ashcroft and posted a 41.2 in the 440 Relay. They set a new record in the Penn Relay of 40.1.

Larry Schofield of Florida was awarded the Cleve Abbott and B. T. Harvey awards for the Most Outstanding Performer. The Abbott award is standard and the Harvey award was kicked-off this season.

Schofield captured first place in the 120 high hurdles on 14.9 timing, first in the 440 hurdles on a 54.9 mark and ran a leg on the mile relay team.

Melvin Skinner was another point-getter for Florida. He won the triple jump on a 47-8 leap and the broad jump on a 23-1.

S. C. State captured two first places in running events on James Simmons runs in the 880 yard dash.

On the local level, Morehouse won first place in the one mile run; Morris Brown third in the 220 dash and Clark won fourth in the 440 relay.

Morehouse captured second place in the meet with 20 points. Alabama A. and M. 17, S. C. State 16 and Fort Valley 15 to round out the top five.

Computer-Driven Message Board For Atlanta Classic

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — As another step toward providing spectators at the Atlanta Golf Classic with every possible accommodation, a computer-driven message board will furnish up to the minute information on each golfer's hole-by-hole progress.

This service, consisting of the message board and two IBM computers, housed in a 40-foot-long van positioned near the 18th green, is provided by IBM Sports Information Service-Golf. The U. S. Open and the world famous Alkan tournaments are among those providing spectators with this service.

In announcing the availability of this service at the U. S. Open, Joseph C. Dey, Jr., executive director of the USGA said: "This is a far cry from the day when the only way you knew what was occupying of the course was through rumor."

The service will be a novelty to spectators in this area. Not even the Masters Tournament has come around to using it as yet. It is, in fact, restricted to only a few tournaments, because of the time, equipment and personnel involved, IBM officials say.

"We are happy to announce this IBM service," said Atlanta Golf Classic chairman Jim Clay. "We will not be satisfied until our tournament provides the best speaker accommodations of any tournament anywhere."

Golfers are served by the 30-foot-long computer-controlled message board on which important scoring information and timely news about the progress of

GARDEN TIME

BY M. E. GARDNER
Dept. of Horticultural Science
N. C. State University

While strolling with a friend through his well planned and managed nursery, we wandered into the woods adjoining a large planting of Japanese Holly (Ilex crenata convexa). There we found a rather unusual scale insect attached to the stem of a wild azalea ("honeysuckle").

I brought a specimen to the office and gave it to one of our co-workers in Entomology who identified it as mining scale, Howardia biclavus. Frankly, I had not seen this type before.

Mining is a good word for this one because the insect seems to mine into the tissues causing little shallow craters to develop. These craters are caused, apparently, by the cambium healing around the rim of the crater as the insect penetrates the tissues.

This insect attacks a large plant species, including azaleas, camellias and tung in Florida. It is nothing to be alarmed about because it should not be too difficult to control with a systemic such as Jygion.

I had a telephone call from a former student who told me that a friend of his was very much concerned about her husband spraying pear and apple trees, and grapevines with Chlordane.

He evidently did not READ THE LABEL. Chlordane is used as a soil application for the control of ants, grubs and wire worms.

There are special home spray formulations for apples, pears and grapes which combine both insecticides and fungicides. These should be used for home fruits and will give satisfactory control of insects and diseases if properly applied. Follow instructions on the label.

The spring weather has been most satisfactory as no freeze damage occurred of any consequence. Them, too, pollination of flowers was about as complete as in any year for a long time.

I usually have a large number of flowers killed on my Burford hollies. This year they are literally weeping with berries.

Panthers, Indians, Eagles Still Unbeaten In Branch Rickey Loop

Three clubs — the Atlanta Panthers, College Park Indians and Marietta Eagles — are still unbeaten in the Branch Rickey Baseball League pennant race.

In doubleheaders played Sunday, the Atlanta Panthers defeated the Joyland Colts, 6-1 and 14-0, at Hull Stadium; while the Marietta Eagles shutout Atlanta Tech, 14-0 and 11-0.

The College Park Indians whipped the Jonesboro White Sox, 11-0, and 4-2; and the Hapeville Hawks and Edgewood Bears split a twinnail, at Hapeville.

The Hawks took the opener, 6-4; and the Bears bounced back and won the nightcap, 5-0 behind the effective hurling of Dodson Shockley, who struck out 10.

The Southeastern Braves dropped their doubleheader with the Lithonia Pirates, falling 14-0 in the first game and bowing, 6-2 in the second contest.

FORTSON, INGRAM SLAM HOME RUNS

At Hull Stadium, Sunday, Willie Fortson slammed a home run for the Panthers in the opener and Charles Ingram duplicated his feat in the nightcap. Sharing batting laurels for the Panthers were Edward Clemons and John Brown, III with two hits apiece; and William Clemons collected one hit.

Most of the Panthers found their batting eyes in the nightcap; routing the Colts with a barrage of hits. Marvin Stephens captured top laurels with two hits.

John Brown, III was the winning pitcher in the first game; and Theodore Stallworth, picked-up the

ROBERT FLANAGAN SEES HOPE IN BATTLE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — Robert B. Flanagan, executive director of the Atlanta Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, sees hope in the Negroes' persistent battle for civil rights.

The brilliant ex-Air Force officer expressed this view Sunday as he delivered the vesper message at St. Paul AME Church, where the Rev. A. Richard Smith is pastor.

The occasion was the re-activation of the talented Saint Cecilia Children's Choir, and Atlanta Citizens turned out in large numbers to demonstrate their esteem for the late Dr. Richard Albert Billings, who organized the choir and sponsored the monthly Vesper Series for 27 years.

Mr. Flanagan, who was invited by the late Dr. Billings last Dec. to speak at the annual Vesper Hour, delivered a great message, and the musical program, arranged by Dr. E. A. Starling was loaded with surprises.

"THE DOOR IS OPEN"
"The door is open and all the Negro needs to do is to keep pushing," the NAACP executive said as he explained "we have just about all the legislation we need on the law books," and added, "all we have to do now is to insist on having the laws enforced."

Using the public schools for an example, he reminded the audience that the Atlanta Board of Education is under orders to desegregate all schools and said the NAACP is encouraging parents to request transfers for their children to enter all-white schools.

He said he is convinced that the Negro teacher is as competent as the white teacher, then explained that over-crowded classrooms make the Negro teacher a "glorified baby-sitter."

Mr. Flanagan, who served in the United States Air Force 15 years, observed: "I saw the walls of segregation tumble in the armed forces by executive proclamation and the transition was smooth."

Vice President Humphrey Says He's A Soul Brother

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says he, too is a "Soul Brother." Speaking before the 38th Quadrennial Session of the AME Church in Philadelphia, the Vice President, in stressing racial unity, commented: "All of us are soul brothers — in the brotherhood of man."

He explained: "The same God who gave you a soul also gave me a soul. So, that makes us all soul brothers. And let no one divide us."

'Laugh-In' Really Socked It to Ol' George

By MEL MEINER

FOR THE last few months George Schlatter was busy, many nights until 1 a.m., producing, directing, cutting, editing and worrying over the Rowan-Martin "Laugh-In" TV show — and, he says, nobody was more astonished than he, when he finally emerged into the open air, started going around the country ... and found the program's catch-phrases were the rage of the young.

"Sock it to me, George!" the high school and college kids told him, or "Very interesting, very interesting," not to mention "Here come de judge!" Out of context, these may not seem much, but sprinkled all through "Laugh-In," like the running gags in the old Pete Smith movie shorts, they bring on the belly laughs.

"I was floored," says the easy-going, hard-working Schlatter, who teetted on TV by producing the Dinah Shore and Judy Garland shows a few seasons back, "even though I spent two or three years trying to put this program together because I believed in it so much. I thought it'd be successful — but nothing like this. You know, we only had been on the air five or six weeks ('Laugh-In' started in January), when we got eight Emmy nominations!"

George's partner, Ed Friendly, was involved in the late, witty program, "TW 3," and there are overtones of that show in the Rowan-Martin one. "Except," Schlatter says, "we're less bitter. We make a little social comment here and there, but we're not a protest show; we don't shoot out venom."

From the beginning, Schlatter had the idea of a genuine crazy program — its early working titles were "Cockamammy" and then "Put-On" — but he had to overcome network opposition to such an out-and-out nonsensical idea. "You can't carry it on comedy alone," they said. "You have to have guest stars. Remember, the viewer's mentality is twelve." And so on.

Doggiedly, George stuck to his guns and today he has a great hit. "Or, sub-titled, a playpen for monkeys," he says wryly. "All our performers are nuts. It was fun working with them for the 14 shows this late in the season, but next year I may break down under a full program of tapings."

"It's a wild thing," he says, "when you come to work each day and wonder what'll happen. Everyone involved, especially the writers, is a renegade or cuckoo. Take Digby Wolfe, one of our writers." George shakes his head. "He'll be put away one day."

Rowan and Martin, who are bonkers enough to begin with, act as the liaison officers between the younger and older generations, George says. "They bridge the gap," he explains, "although sometimes I think they're just as daffy as the rest."

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

The performers involved in the "Laugh-In" screwiness are the lively, exuberant, cockeyed kind of brash young people who used to be found in bright Broadway revues. The revue is almost a dead art form now, however, and aside from this show, you only can catch up with this irreverent species by dropping into some of the sophisticated supper clubs, such as Downstairs at the Upstairs.

Mr. Schlatter looks forward a little hesitantly to next fall's new season. "Arte Johnson, our resident genius, wants to do bird calls—his specialty is cawing like a crow—and we also have plans to pay red-carpeted, brass-band homage to Barbara Eden's navel, which NBC kept off the air for so long on 'I Dream of Jeannie,'" he says. He shrugs. "If it all doesn't kill me, it should be an absorbing season."

WALL STREET Notebook

BY ROBERT B. JOHNSON, Research Director
PAINE, WEBBER, JACKSON & CURTIS

Member New York Stock Exchange

Peace is Bullish

NEW YORK (ED)—After President Johnson's dramatic move to de-escalate the Vietnam war, the stock market reflected the unqualified enthusiasm with which all Americans greeted the prospect of peace.

Record-breaking numbers of shares were traded, prices rose, excitement was genuine—proving more concretely than with mere words—that peace is bullish.

Even if peace is not achieved in the next few months, I believe we may have seen the end of the major threat—the fear which has been on everyone's mind and which has been holding down the stock market for many months—the threat of further escalation. This now seems to have all but disappeared. It's only reasonable to anticipate disappointments—on the road to peace. And the market will react to such disappointments. However, I doubt that we'll see more than minor corrections and "retacements."

I think that peace in Vietnam will permit resolution of most of the major economic problems facing the U.S. It will be constructive toward a reduction in our Federal budget deficit ... and certainly most constructive toward achieving a balance in our international payments account. It will reduce the pace of the inflationary spiral ... and consequently reduce the need for economic restraints. The first such restraint we probably could forget about is any prospect of wage and price controls. Second, William McC. Martin Jr., at the Federal Reserve Board, could relax a bit with respect to tightened monetary policy (and this should permit interest rates at least to level out—and possibly decline moderately.) Third, peace in Vietnam would reduce the pressures for fiscal restraint ... but the need will not disappear.

In my opinion if Federal spending is reduced dramatically (as a result of the end of the Vietnam war)—and the economy appears to move downward from its position of full employment—we can expect pressure for a tax cut.

Thus, it seems to me that all the news is good ... and we're at long last able to hope for a reasonably early end to the biggest problem which has confronted Americans in many years. A resolution of which will do much to correct the imbalances and distortions created in the national economy by the Vietnam war. I repeat, this is the most bullish news that we could have anticipated. 4/68

Negroes Here To Stay, Says NAACP's Wilkins

PHILADELPHIA -- Negroes are not going back to Africa or establishing any separate nation because "this is our country and we'll stay right here where we belong and fight for what's ours." Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told 3,000 cheering delegates at a session of the 38th quadrennial conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church here, Monday, May 6.

Turning to the report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, of which he was a member, Mr. Wilkins said the church is well qualified to help implement the Commission's recommendation for "the creation of new attitudes, new understanding, and a new will" to rid the nation of racism.

"The church," he said "has the dedication, belief and history to undertake that task. But this is no new message to you. All that that report did was to vindicate what you started out to do in 1967 when Richard Allen and Absalom Jones founded the AME Church."

The same week, on May 10, Mr. Wilkins was the human relations night speaker at the quadrennial conference of the AME Zion Church in Detroit.

The branch will also elect delegates to the national convention set for June 24-29 in Atlantic City, N. J.

The DeKalb branch of NAACP is seeking 10,000 members. Dr. Price and M. L. Ashley are serving as co-chairmen for this year's membership drive.

Head Start To Get Help From Pediatrics Soon

EVANSTON, ILL. -- The American Academy of Pediatrics has selected approximately 525 physician consultants from its membership and from other leaders in the field of child health to evaluate the medical aspects of Head Start programs in nearly 2,000 communities throughout the United States.

The AAP has appointed the consultants to implement at the state and local level the Academy's national Head Start Medical Consultation Service initiated recently in cooperation with the U. S. Office Economic Opportunity.

Each medical consultant selected will work with the medical director and other health professionals in local Head Start projects.

He will review the medical aspects of Head Start applications submitted by a community; meet with local planning committees to map out Head Start medical programs; maintain contact with program medical directors; follow-up and evaluate programs; and maintain liaison with OEO regional and national offices.

Consultants will work with the Office of Economic Opportunity representatives responsible for funding and evaluating Head Start health programs, helping them interpret the needs of the children, the resources of the community, and the success of the Head Start programs. The consultant will supplement, rather than replace, the medical and administrative skills available in each community.

The American Academy of Pediatrics is administering the Head Start Medical Consultation Service under a contract signed with OEO.

The contract represents a new type of relationship between an agency of the Federal Government and a voluntary professional organization. In effect, the American Academy of Pediatrics has accepted a major responsibility for ensuring that the health services provided to Head Start children adequately meet the health needs of these children, their families, and the community in which they live.

The Academy represents more than 10,000 pediatricians in the U. S., Canada, and Latin America.

AN ODE TO DR. M. L. KING, JR.
(April 10, 1968)
REST IN PEACE

Rest in Peace Martin, for you are tired.
The work you were doing, kept you tired.
In this immoral world, society is sick.
Problems are numerous and hate is thick.
Where peace, rest and tranquility so very demure.
Rest in Peace, Martin, your heart is pure.

Rest in Peace Martin, for you are true.
And all the prizes and awards could not redeem you.
For a tremendous job so diligently undertaken.
The threats and mistakes left you unshaken.
You can rest in Peace with God Above.

Son's Death By Lightning Sparks Article To Help Others By Doctor

KANSAS CITY, MO. -- A Carbondale, Pa., doctor whose son was killed by lightning while playing golf is the author of a scientific article on "death by lightning" in the May issue of GP, scientific publication of the American Academy of General Practice. The article, timely because most lightning deaths occur in spring and summer, is designed to aid family doctors to help prevent lightning accidents and care for victims.

Dr. Thomas H. Coleman, as Academy member and head of the Department of Electrocardiology at St. Joseph's hospital, Carbondale, was the father of 21-year-old Thomas H. Coleman, Jr., killed last July at Crystal Lake, Pa. According to Dr. Coleman, his was walking with an iron on his shoulder after teasing off with a foursome. The bolt struck literally "from the blue," according to witnesses who said the sun was out and the sky blue.

Though a physician was in the group, and immediate attempts at closed chest cardiac massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation were made, the younger Coleman never regained consciousness and died about two hours later.

Dr. Coleman opens the article with an explanation of the physics of lightning, noting that a stroke of lightning carries a jolt of from 12,000 to 20,000 amperes as compared with the less than one ampere of current in a 100-watt light bulb. He adds that some 150 persons die from lightning injuries in an average year, most of them male and most outdoors on the farm, the golf course or in recreational areas.

He notes also that the cause of death in lightning fatalities usually is sudden cardiac arrest or ventricular fibrillation (loss of rhythm) associated with severe injury to the central nervous system.

The author states that central nervous system damage is similar to that from severe head injury, and includes hemorrhage, cortical tears and subdural hematoma. In those not fatally injured, most have paralysis of the legs and burning or prickling sensations in the arms which last for varying periods of time. Coma may last for several days to several weeks, but return to normal or near-normal is virtually assured. Interestingly, Dr. Coleman notes, intelligence and mental capacity do not appear to be impaired.

He lists other effects, including cataracts, ruptured ear drums, loss of taste, dizziness, burns (usually occurring when the victim is carrying a metal object), and rarely, psychotic reactions, leukemia and myocardial infarction (rupture of the heart muscle).

He adds that the degree of injury depends on the power of the bolt, duration of its effect, position and grounding of the victim, site of entrance into the body of the charge, its disposition in the body and the point of exit from the body. Death, Dr. Coleman says, invariably will occur immediately or within several hours; if the victim survives 24 hours he can expect to recover.

The author recounts several important preventive measures, warning that everyone should beware of the hot, humid day with thunder-showers in the area. The sun overhead when such conditions apply should not rule out precautionary measures, he says, noting that if anything the sun may actually intensify the electromagnetic field that is present before the lightning discharge. He points out that a good test of the presence of this

Sunday School Lesson

WHAT IS MAN'S DUTY TO GOD?

International Sunday School Lesson for May 19, 1968

MEMORY SELECTION: "Fear God, and keep His commandments, for this is the whole duty of man." — (Ecclesiastes 12:13)

LESSON TEXT: Ecclesiastes 5:12.

The message contained in our Lesson today is that insincere worship is an offense to God. He sees into our hearts, so we do not deceive Him if we are hypocritical. We must not go into His house simply because it is the "thing to do" ... an acceptable custom. We must go, rather, fully aware of where we are going, and what our attendance implies. This attitude on our part is the only way to be receptive to the renewal we can derive from our church attendance — the renewal of spirit that everyone needs in life ... the ability to hear, to remember, and use. For a clear, uncluttered mind, divested of everyday cares and business worries, is a receptive mind.

The philosophy contained in the Book of Ecclesiastes is especially applicable to our day and time. Ecclesiastes is concerned with spiritual riches, as opposed to worldly riches. Today, unfortunately, money — and what money can buy — has become the yardstick of modern American living. We need to heed the voice of Ecclesiastes ... "He who loves money will not be satisfied with money; nor he who loves wealth, with gain; this also is vanity."

If we will but pause and reflect we will realize that money cannot satisfy our spiritual needs; on the contrary, it can blunt our sensitivities, our concern, our love for our fellowmen ... all of which was the basic teaching of Jesus Christ while He was on earth, among men. And while we acknowledge that there is, of necessity, no virtue in poverty, we CAN take heart in the knowledge that there IS an advantage in being unencumbered by possessions!

Tranquility of spirit is hard to come by, embroiled as we are in the hectic pace of our twentieth century world; yet is one of mankind's greatest riches. For, while knowledge and progress have brought mankind many benefits, they have also exacted their toll — mentally, emotionally, and physically. It becomes increasingly harder to set aside a time for quiet reflection, for communion with one's inner self, and with God. Indeed, there are many among us who actually fear solitude, so conditioned are we to the pace of today!

It is noteworthy that communion with God, throughout the Bible, has always taken place in quiet, lonely places. God chose His leaders from among the people, and — without exception — they were men who, by occupation, were forced to live apart from the companionship and the distractions of cities and commerce! Would it be too much to suppose that such men were therefore given to analyzing themselves inwardly, without the distraction of people, places and things? Would it be unreasonable to pre-suppose that their spirits were more understanding, more tolerant towards the preoccupations, and foibles of others; their ears sharper, their eyes keener than those of the cities, surrounded as they were by the noises, the demands, the distractions of commerce and politics?

Man is not great by virtue of his worldly possessions; rather, he attains greatness by reason of his inner strengths, his inner beliefs ... and these are nurtured by communion with God.

The writer of Ecclesiastes had lived fully, experimenting with this life, and had come to the conclusion — by trial and error — that the fundamental values of life were not contained in worldly things, but — rather — in the spiritual values. That he was (in later years) able to reduce his life to the fundamental truths, is to our everlasting benefit, and we will be wise if we heed this printed word. We can learn the hard way ... by our own mistakes; we will, however, be wiser if we learn by the experiences of others.

By virtue of the writings of Ecclesiastes, let us resolve to set aside a few minutes each day, in the wilderness of our beings, to commune with God, to seek His guidance, and to dedicate ourselves anew to His service.
