Rats 'Big As Cats' Room Beale St. Area!

Residents of the 600 block of Sonoma Street Street were at a loss for words last week when they discovered that the neighborhood was being invaded by rats. The area is known for its low-lying buildings and narrow streets, making it a prime location for rats to congregate. The residents were shocked to find that the rats had grown to be "as big as cats," and were causing chaos by entering homes and businesses uninvited. The situation was further complicated by the presence of several nearby construction sites, which were attracting more rats to the area. Residents are calling on city officials to take immediate action to control the rat population.

Here Are Negro History Textbooks; NAACP Wants In Local Classrooms

The Memphis NAACP this week pressed its demand that local school boards require the teaching of Negro history and the use of multicolored textbooks throughout the city and county systems beginning with the fall term. The NAACP, in a letter to the mayor of Memphis, declared that "Negroes have been left out of the textbooks and history courses at St. Paul, St. Louis and other schools" and that "Negroes have been left out of the textbooks and history courses at St. Paul, St. Louis and other schools" and that "Negroes have been left out of the textbooks and history courses at St. Paul, St. Louis and other schools."

Civil Rights Commission Looks At Political Parties

The civil rights commission has embarked on a new project to examine the political parties in the city. The commission is seeking to understand the role that political parties play in the city's democratic process and to identify any areas where they may be failing to serve the needs of the community. The project is funded by a grant from the National Endowment for Democracy and is expected to take several months to complete.

Poor People's Marchers Move Into Houses

In the shadow of the city's poverty, hundreds of poor people's marchers have taken up residence in the city's houses of worship. The marchers, many of whom are homeless or living in poverty, have been living in the city's churches and synagogues for several weeks, seeking protection and shelter from the elements. The marchers have been supported by local community groups and have received assistance from the city's social services department.

Nixon Gains New Status In Presidential Race

While the political landscape is yielding new images to the regular scenes, it is evident that former president Richard M. Nixon is taking on a new and unique status in American political history. Nixon, who served as the 37th President of the United States from 1969 to 1974, has been a subject of intense scrutiny and controversy ever since his resignation over the Watergate scandal. His legacy remains as a pivotal figure in shaping the course of American politics.

The 1972 presidential election was a turning point in Nixon's career. While he lost to his Democratic opponent, Minnesota senator Hubert Humphrey, Nixon ran as an independent candidate and received over 35 million votes. This made him the first third-party candidate to win a majority of the popular vote since 1912, when Theodore Roosevelt ran on the Progressive Party ticket.

In the years following his presidency, Nixon was a prominent figure in the Republican Party, serving as a key advisor to future presidents. Despite facing multiple legal challenges and health issues, Nixon continued to be an influential figure in American politics, even after leaving office.

As the political landscape evolves, Nixon remains a symbol of the complex and often turbulent nature of American politics, and his legacy continues to be a subject of debate and discussion.

Son's Death By Lighting Sparks Article To Help Others By Doctor

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - A 20-year-old Negro boy, who died of burns and smoke inhalation following the accidental discharge of a .38 caliber revolver that killed him, was the subject of an article in the Kansas City Star on Friday. The article, written by Dr. R. C. Davis, was entitled "Son's Death By Lightning Sparks Article To Help Others By Doctor".

The author, Dr. R. C. Davis, is a prominent Kansas City physician and is well known for his work in the field of medicine. He has written extensively on the subject of lightning, and this is his first article on the subject.

The article begins with the following quote from the Kansas City Star: "Son's Death By Lightning Sparks Article To Help Others By Doctor." The article goes on to describe the incident that took place in the home of the victim, a 20-year-old Negro boy.

The boy was shot by lightning while he was playing with a revolver that he was holding in his hand. The revolver was discharged, killing the boy instantly. The boy's father, a prominent doctor in the area, has written an article on the incident to help others understand the dangers of playing with firearms.

The article concludes with the following quote from the Kansas City Star: "Son's Death By Lightning Sparks Article To Help Others By Doctor." The article ends with the following: "The boy's father, a prominent doctor in the area, has written an article on the incident to help others understand the dangers of playing with firearms."
