Black, Once An Ugly Word, Is Now The Big Thing!

Almost ever night, Black, in most cases, has become an acceptable and honorable word. Not too far back, just a few years ago, Black was an ugly word, a word that was seldom used. Policemen used it to show their disgust for Negroes, but it meant a fight, when one Negro called another Negro Black.

Negroes in America had accepted the term Blacks as it was used to describe Africans, but very rarely had they heard themselves described in this manner.

But, now, it is the thing to be called Black. Many Negroes adore the term, but there are some not quite ready to accept it.

Not only are Negroes referring to themselves as Blacks, the Black Community, the Black Church, Black Businesses, Black Leaders and the like, the white-controlled news media (newspapers, radio and television), white speakers and white ministers are using the term very freely.

At a board meeting in a predominantly Negro church in Memphis the other night, the minister made reference to the Black Community and a lady attending the meeting spoke up and asked "What do you mean by Black Community?"

A slight grumble, very slight, is heard now and then from some Negroes in Memphis who don't like the term Black.

The Memphis World this week asked some of its readers for their views on Black.

Said Mrs. Ernestine Bell of Orleans Street: "I think the Negro Community sounds better, but the term Black Community gets you to the point faster. When one says White Community I know what is meant and when they say Black Community there is no question."

Clyde Thomas of Cleaborn Homes said he preferred being called Colored but agreed that the term Black Community "fits better."

Mrs. Annie Mae Hughes, former Memphian residing in Mound Bayou, Miss., said: "Certainly Colored is the best description of our race. Black is a misnomer because the race is too mixed up."

Said Miss M. C. of Memphis: "I prefer to be called Negro. I just don't like all that other."

Bishop P. L. Johnson of 607 Linden said: "I am Black all the way. It does me good to hear my identity. I notice how proud the white people feel about their community and I feel likewise about my Black Community."

Mrs. Maxine A. Smith, executive secretary of the local NAACP, offered a strong defense for the term Black. She said: "White people have taught us to hate and reject everything that is Black, so I agree 100 percent with the statement that Black is beautiful. I am delighted in finding my fellowman taking pride in being Black for too long our sense of beauty has been based on the white man's ideals of skin color, hair texture, mouth size and nose shape."

Channel 10 Will Feature 'Trumpets Of The Lord'

"Trumpets of the Lord," the internationally acclaimed Negro musical, will be given its television premiere on WKNO-TV, Channel 10, at 8:30 p. m. Friday, June 21. It will be repeated on the same station at 3 p. m. Sunday, June 22.

It is a National Education Television (NET) production.

Co-starring in the 90-minute (color) special are four distinguished Negro artists: Jabe White (currently star of the successful off-Broadway production "Tiphinella in Aulic"); the stage, screen and television star James Earle Jones; veteran actor Les Monro, and well-known singer and recording artist Theresa Merritt.

When the original New York production of "Trumpets of the Lord" opened in 1963, The New York Times reported that it "has a built-in impact that is stimulating, inspiring and contagiously exciting," and Edith Oliver of The

Theresa Merritt
New Yorker Magazine wrote: "ment on the tiny stage where 'Trumpets of the Lord' is playing than there is in almost any other place I can think of in town."

"There is more beauty and excitement. The production, which represented the American theater at the 1967 Theatre des Nations Festival in Paris, is an adaptation for the musical stage from "God's Trombones," a collection of seven sermons in free verse from the American Negro folklore by the late poet and civil rights spokesman James Weldon Johnson.

The musical is set in the backwoods churches of the deep South and is a blend of traditional music (spirituals) with the impassioned poetry of the sermons.

"Trumpets of the Lord" is a National Educational Television production in association with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. It is produced by Theodore Mann, Howard Schwartz, and Will B. Sandler, with Amherst Productions.

Musical Director is Howard Roberts.

Willis To Face Taylor

Young Atty. J. O. Patterson Jr., a City Councilman and State Representative, will have smooth sailing between now and the Aug. 1 primaries in his bid for a seat in the State Senate from District 29.

Mr. Patterson, a Democrat, will have no competition in the heavy Negro district. He was the only Democrat to file. No Republicans are seeking the post either.

The general election is scheduled for Nov. 5.

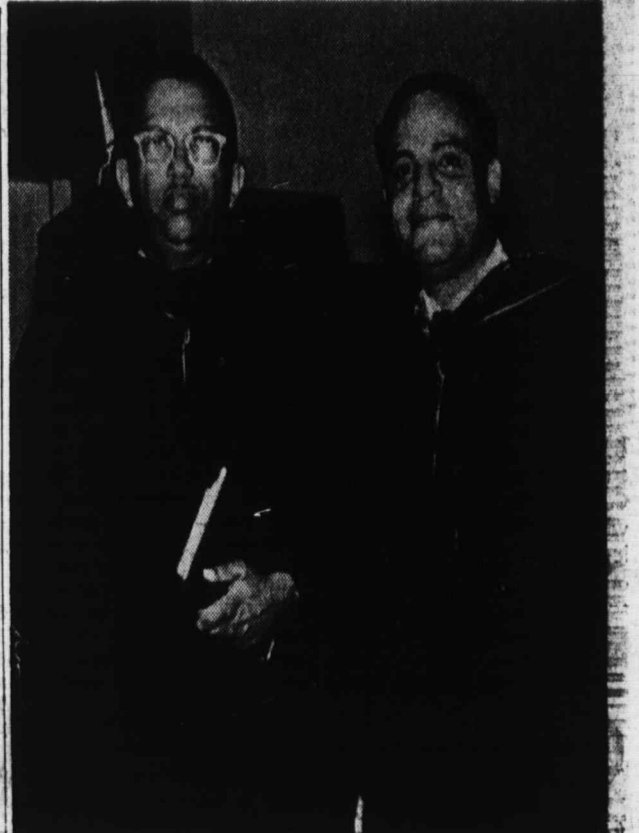

Incumbent A. W. Willis Jr. is running, too, for his seat in the State Legislature from District 5. At one time it was thought he would oppose Attorney Patterson for the District 29 State Senate Seat.

James I. Taylor, who made an unsuccessful bid for City Council, will run against Attorney Willis for the District 5 House seat.

State Representative Russell B. Sugarman Jr. will be opposed in his re-election bid from District 11 by Alvin M. King.

It looks as though Atty. I. H. Murphy, unopposed for the State House from District 6, will be permitted to run. At the last minute it was discovered that he had moved to an address just across the street from the District 6 boundary line. Commission Chairman Joe Forbis said Murphy might still run from District 6 if he moves into that district by Aug. 5. Forbis cited an election law which says a candidate is required to live in his district only 90 days before certification as winner of a general election.

Qualifying for Shelby County Democratic Executive Committee are the Rev. E. W. Williamson (District 5) and Walter L. Bailey Jr. (District 14).

FEATURED AT OWEN'S LAST COMMENCEMENT — Dr. Charles L. Dinkins, left, and Judge Ben L. Hooks were in the featured roles as Owen College conducted its final commencement last week. 62 Owen Grads Hear Judge Hooks Cameras from Channels 3 and 5 recorded a history-making event Monday evening of last week at St. John Baptist Church. It was the 13th and final commencement for 14-year-old Owen Junior College which is merging with 98-year-old LeMoyné College in the fall.

St. John was packed for the occasion which presented 62 graduates, the largest number in the history of the Baptist-supported institution.

It was a colorful program, featuring a dramatic "commencement statement" by Dr. Charles L. Dinkins, president of Owen; a challenging address by popular Judge Ben L. Hooks, and singing by the college choir of "I Have A Dream," the last words of the late Dr. Martin Luther King set to music by the Owen choir director, Mrs. Mildred D. Green.

Seven were graduated with honors: Lillie Booker Bowers, Lonnie Cooper, Coleman Crawford, Catherine Griffin, Uelicious Purdy, Gladys Greer Seifert and Addie Bee Williams.

Others receiving degrees were: Allie Bernard Bonds Jr., Joyce Marie Branch, Marian Fletcher Brown, Louise Burks, Shirley Jean Cummins, Ruthie Mae Cunningham, Dorothy Dillon, Davis, Augusta Dennis, Gloria Jean Dickerson, James Bell Echols, Julia Ann Edwards, Doris Jean Evans, Bobbie Ann Flynn, Bobbie Muriel Gray, Rolene Harding, Minnie Harris, Barbara Hightower, Rose Lee Hinds, Elsie Mae Hodge, Helen Elizabeth Holmes, Jacquelyn Denson Jones, Lee Vernon Jones, Loreen Electa Jones, James Nathaniel Letcher, Steve Arthur Lott, Ernest Love, Bernice LaVerne Luellen, Lawson Dobbin McGhee, J. C. McLin.

Activity will continue at Owen during the summer months, while administrative officers and staff members move records and class.

Rights Conflab Raps Prejudice

"This whole business of prejudice must be wiped out before there can be human justice for all," Dr. Daniel Jordan declared at a Friday night banquet sponsored by the Memphis Bahai' Office for Human Rights.

The banquet, which attracted nearly 100, was the opening session of a two-day Regional Conference on Prejudice and Human Rights. The conference was held in the Student Center of LeMoyné College.

Dr. Jordan proved himself as expert on the subject as he told of cases of prejudice and then proposed remedies. He is director of the Institute for Research in Human Behavior at Indiana State University.

Saturday speakers were Dr. Hollis F. Price, president of LeMoyné, and City Councilman Fred L. Davis. Dr. William Tucker of Asheville, N. C. was conference chairman.

Dr. Jordan proposed a pilot program aimed at eliminating racial prejudice. He said such a program would have to be citywide and would require the full cooperation of all groups.

Final Tribute Is Paid Mrs. Owen

All of those who came to pay tribute to Mrs. Mary Jane Wood Owen lost Monday afternoon agreed that she was "a faithful and diligent worker in the church, a master teacher and one who shunned the spotlight."

Hundreds packed Metropolitan Baptist Church for her funeral and then followed the remains to a final resting place in Elmwood Cemetery.

In an eloquent gesture, her husband of many years, Dr. S. A. Owen, had the last words at the touching rites. The tall and beloved minister, who became pastor of Metropolitan in 1923, stood before the mourners and thanked them for the many kind deeds and acts rendered in behalf of his late wife.

There were no flowers, except those that graced the casket. The family had requested that flowers be omitted, that memorials be sent.

Chamber Of Commerce Salute High School Grads

This year's crop of graduates from Memphis and Shelby County high schools is being saluted by the Memphis Area Chamber of Commerce in a full-page newspaper advertisement in which the graduates are encouraged to "take the high road" by continuing their education.

The message, sponsored by the Chamber's Education Committee, urges "those of you who are not college-bound to take a serious look at one or more of the many vocational and technical training courses and facilities available to you" in Memphis.

"These programs are geared to the needs of business and industry, and successful completion of course work in fields in which you are

The advertisement lists course work available at the new State Technical Institute at Memphis, the new Memphis Area Vocational-Technical School, adult vocational evening classes sponsored by the Memphis and Shelby County Boards of Education, the two branches of the Adult Education Center, and scores of private business, technical and trade schools.

William S. Pollard Jr., chairman of the Education Committee of the Chamber, said studies indicate that about 50 per cent of Memphis and Shelby County high school graduates will go on to college.

"That's fine," Mr. Pollard said. "We urge that they do, and commend them for it."

"But it is important for those who are going to college and those

Congress Passes Bill To Guard Candidates

WASHINGTON—UPI—Acting within hours of the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy from an assassin's bullets, both Houses of congress Thursday rushed through legislation to put Secret Service guards around major contenders for the presidency.

Sent to the White House for President Johnson's certain approval, the measure would cover major contenders for their parties' nominations for the presidency and the ultimate tickets selected by the parties at their conventions.

The Senate Appropriations Committee made it clear that former Alabama Gov. George Wallace, seeking the presidency as a third party candidate would be covered.

CONTENDERS PROTECTED

President Johnson who sought the legislation hours after Kennedy was shot Wednesday morning in Los Angeles, has already extended protection to all of the contenders for the Democrats and Republican nominations including Harold Stassen who seeks the Republican presidential nomination. All have accepted.

Under the legislation the Treasury Secretary after consultation with a bipartisan congressional advisory committee established by the measure, would decide who qualifies for protection. A candidate could decline protection if he chose to.

The legislation legalized Johnson's action in sending Secret Service agents to current contenders and provided $400,000 to finance protection of candidates through June 30. Next week, a bill was expected to be passed providing $1 million for the next fiscal year.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., told the Senate that while the Secret Service might not have been enormously increased.

SPECIAL TRAINING

He noted that Kennedy was killed in a kitchen corridor in the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles and he said he was sure the government guards, with their special training, would have had "surveillance on that particular point."

The Senate, acting first, attached the legislation to a House appropriations bill and sent the bill to the House for concurrence in the amendment. But the House adopted a separate but similar resolution, which was accepted by the Senate and sent to the White House.

Presently, there are 375 trained Secret Service agents on the payroll of the Treasury Department. In addition to protecting the President and Vice President, they are assigned to enforce laws against counterfeiting and forgery of government checks and bonds.

The present law provided Secret Service protection for the President, the Vice President, the president-elect and vice president-elect after elections, their families, and

Orders Ray Held Without Bail

By SCOTT B. BURNS

LONDON—UPI—A phalanx of guards swept James Earl Ray into a packed courtroom Monday where the judge ordered him held without bail for another hearing June 18 on charges he entered Britain with a pistol and a forged passport.

The accused killer of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. was sullen and scowled.

The hearing on the British charges in Bow Street Magistrate's Court lasted one minute and 22 seconds. Ray was immediately hustled off to Brixton Prison.

U. S. efforts to extradite Ray may come this week. He faces murder charges in Tennessee for the King slaying March 4 and Missouri has a warrant for his arrest as an escapee from the state penitentiary.

FORMAL REQUEST

The State Department announced in Washington Monday a formal request for Ray's extradition would be made through the U. S. Embassy in London "within the next few days."

Authoritative London sources said the U. S. government has asked Britain for a provisional extradition warrant in the Ray case.

tradition warrant in the Ray case. The sources said a formal U. S. request to have Ray returned to Memphis for the King killing would be made in Bow Street Court Thursday.

Ray, 40, wore a blue checked sports coat, an open neck dark blue sports shirt and dark slacks as he was led into the famous old courtroom on Bow Street Monday. He scowled and jered his head to one side as a team of burly Scotland Yard men half dragged him at one point to the dock. He shuffled into the prisoner's box.

With head partially lowered, Ray spoke only twice and both times his voice was barely audible. He had one word to say each time — "No." The judge asked if Ray objected to restrictions on news coverage of the hearing and if he had a statement of his own to make.

By JEWEL GENTRY HULBERT

MY COLUMN comes to you this week from Chicago where I am house guest of close and long time friends, Dr. and Mrs. T. R. M. Howard and of relatives, Dr. and Mrs. William M. Jones.

Even though I came up to have my eyes dilated and checked, I spent the first evening at the Links' Cotillion in the Ball Room of the Palmer House. As usual the party was beautiful and stood out with dignity and class. It was really an elaborate cocktail-dinner party that preceded the presentation of 28 pretty debutantes. Dinner music (with violins) was played in the first part of the evening.

Helen and I went down at 8 in the evening. Her spouse was unable to attend because of an office full of patients. Guests at the Howard table were Dr. and Mrs. Leo C. Lindo, Dr. and Mrs. Chauncey Moten, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Patterson (he scout for the Chicago Bears and she a charming beautiful person).

Other friends that I ran into were, Mrs. Ann Tyson, Social Editor of the Bulletin, who had my picture taken for the paper, Dr. and Mrs. Emerson Lights, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hawes, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Claiborne, Mr. & Mrs. Howard Doods, (long time friend who was Assistant at one time to Carl Rowan at USIS and once Editor of the St. Louis Argus), Dr. and Mrs. Albert Spaulding whose beautiful daughter was presented, Dr. and Mrs. Gede Cox (former Memphisian who now live beautifully in Gary, and with the Claibornes was Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Malund's niece from up state Illinois).

Friday and Saturday found my relatives up to their Michigan home to see up in Massachusetts. Another surprise was an invitation to a Cocktail-Dinner Party in the Boulevard Room of the Palmer House given by the Gary Links. There was also a floor show with a full course dinner following. The occasion was the induction of new members. Helen and I were guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. W. of Michigan City, and also received courtesies from Atty. and Mrs. Ben Wilson (she president of the Gary Chapter).

On Sunday we attended an unusually pretty shower given commemorating the young Dr. DONNA JOHNSON at a 1968 Medical graduate of Howard University and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ellis Johnson (the a Chicago Psychiatrist whom I have known through Howard for many years. Donna was graduated from Howard Medical School this year, and so was her fiance. Both will intern at Westley Memorial in Chicago. She was a graduate of Fisk U. and is well known at the Kappa House, and the affair was given by Women of the Medical Auxiliary, after which we spent time with Dr. and Mrs. Chauncey Moten at their modern new home and I talked with Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Gleason and Miss Veva Young, a close friend through the years in Memphis and now a Chicago Lawyer, and the Earl Gentrys.

After seeing the Eye Specialists (my relatives) on Monday, we had invitations to spend Monday evening with Atty. and Mrs. Quinton Goodwin, with my aunt, Mrs. Birdie Pennington and her granddaughters, but actually I will not be able to get around to see all of them nor to accept the hospitalities offered.

DR. HOWARD GOES TO AFRICA ON SAFARI

Dr. T. R. M. Howard (whom most of you know well) and his 13 year old son Barry will leave the States for Africa after the family has moved into an elaborate suburban home on June 27th. The trip will be a Safari for Dr. Howard and Barry. They will go first to Mozambique, south of the Zambeze river here they will hunt for 30 days. On to Kenya for six days and hunting in the jungles of Congo will also be exciting. There they will be guests of the Minister of the Interior, Mr. Alfred Saffi, and will not return to the States until September 2nd. A photographer for a national and top magazine has plans to follow the prominent Chicago physician and surgeon. To say that the Howard's new home is swell picture of the front but it is simply too long with its winding driveway.

54 Dropouts Get Diplomas At Graduation Dinner

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—

Monday night Paschal's Motor Hotel was the scene of the climax of a program that reopened a door for 54 young dropouts that once seemed to have been closed.

The dropouts all had different reasons for dropping out of school, some were pregnant, some were just frustrated, and others were unable to say why even today.

Monday all of these were considered as special all of them had diplomas or the equivalent which they earned either by going back to school or through correspondence courses while they were employed by the Fulton County Neighborhood Youth Corps.

The majority of them showed up at Paschal's Motor Hotel Monday for a banquet honoring them, most of them were girls with their hair freshly styled, and some of them even had on new dresses.

During the last two years the Neighborhood Youth Corps which is a part of Economic Opportunity Atlanta enrolled the students in a job experience program for 30 hours a week. In addition to working the students returned to school in the evenings, and now all of them will be placed in permanent jobs.

One young mother said that it was not easy. She had to get up early in the morning to go to work and her two babies would start crying, and she would want to go back to bed. She said now that she's glad that she didn't go back to bed, that now she can take care of her babies and herself.

They were not left with the belief that a high school diploma would open magic doors for them, but it will open doors that would not have been opened without it.

Charlotte McClellan, class salutatorian, of Howard High School put it this way in her speech before the group: "Opportunities present themselves to us at every moment. But we must do more than just listen, more than dream, and more than believe. Let us get with it and do our own thinking. Let's walk through some of the doors leading to a fulltime job, to further education, to economic independence, which can lead to self-respect and self-fulfillment."

"Maybe other doors will never open until we shove our strength against them and push a little. Our diplomas didn't just happen to come our way and we must not think that we have all our problems solved with its coming. The lines at the employment office are still long, but some day they come to an open door.

The doors of economic independence and self-respect swing on the hinges of hard work and determination. Will you step out into this mad world and help change it?"

The main speaker for the evening was John W. Cox, director of the Atlanta Youth Council, he told them that their high school diploma opens their account, but puts very little in it.

Death On Our Highways

About this time of the year when spring is at its best and good roads beckon the tourist and weekend vacationist, it is meet that something be said about the reckless driving, the hogging of the road and other infractions which contribute to the high rate of casualties needed in our society.

It cannot be said that little chats, reminding the drivers of the perils on the highway and the observance on the part of all drivers of the regulations around getting over the country, will not pay off.

The fine weather is luring; it makes one get that nostalgic feeling that reaches out for the farm home, the little country town where one grew up and the wide parks and golf links.

America is a pleasure loving land; its people spend over half their earnings in traveling facilities.

No pleasure and all work makes Jack a dull boy.

So get out on the weekends and spend your holidays where good recreation and wholesome repair may be had.

In so doing, observe the rules of the road. Drive for the other fellow and in swimming be sure you are fortified with full protection before going into the water.

Our highest casualty list runs from the automobile and the highways.

Let's be cautious this season and save lives. One might be your own.

Chamber Of Commerce

who are not to remember that the commencement they've recently experienced was a well-named happening. Education and the learning processes do not end with high school, they just begin. There is no longer any such thing as "terminal" education, not even as it relates to vocational and technical training, and the man or woman who is content to stop learning at any stage in life sets forth then under what can be a costly self-imposed handicap.

Mr. Pollard said his committee knows of several students at the new State Technical Institute at Memphis who have master's degrees.

"They've gone back to school to improve their already excellent chances to take their rightful place in the economic mainstream," the Chamber leader said. "There's not a successful physician, or dentist, or pharmacist, or attorney, engineer, home economist, or teacher who hasn't returned repeatedly to books since final graduation."

"The most important thing ahead for our high school graduates is for them to apply themselves toward still more learning. Only in this way may they properly prepare for jobs and careers that can provide the good and abundant life that everyone wants and deserves. The alternative is to go to work without skills that will likely deprive them of the place to which they aspire in an affluent society."

"It will cost many of them more than that; it will cost them many of the amenities of life that make living meaningful and rewarding."

Mr. Pollard added that "there is nothing more potentially disastrous than an elementary or high school dropout unless it's a post-high school dropout." High-school education equips graduates to learn, he said, "but in many instances it has not equipped them with saleable skills."

"The burden of our appeal, then, is that our 1966 graduates who are not college bound investigate and enroll in one of our vocational-technical programs. The scope and quality of such programs available here is outstanding. The opportunities are here for those who are prepared educationally and environmentally to take advantage of them."

Serving on the Chamber's Education Committee with Mr. Pollard, partner in charge of the Memphis office of Harland Bartholomew and Associates, are Dr. David Alexander, Southwestern At Memphis; George Barnes, Shelby County Board of Education; A. E. Boettcher, International Harvester Co.; Sam Britt, First National Bank; Dr. Ronald Carrier, Memphis State University; Dr. Charles L. Dinkins, LeMoine - Owen College; Robert Fletcher, Quaker Oats Co.; Brother Luke M. Grande, Christian Brothers College; Dan C. Hallford, Plough, Inc.; Dr. C. C. Humphreys, Memphis State University; F. A. Mackenzie, Shulton, Inc.; Dr. Hollis Priebe, LeMoine-Owen College; Charles E. Rauscher, Union Planters National Bank; E. C. Stimbart, Memphis Board of Education; and Dr. A. Maceo Walker Sr., Universal Life Insurance Co. Ralph Thomas of the Chamber staff is secretary to the committee.

The advertisement signed by the committee is appearing this week and next week in The Commercial Appeal, Memphis Press-Scimitar, the Tri-State Defender and the Memphis World.

Academy at New London, Conn. Before the commencement, Cadet Stevenson led his company through a rigid drill and inspection under the watchful eyes of senior Coast Guard officers.

The intercompany drill competition is an annual event during June Week activities at the Coast Guard Academy. Concerts, dances and sporting events also serve as an important part of the pageantry at the New England school.

Culminating the week's activities was an address by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey at the 82nd commencement. The Vice President presented Stevenson and his fellow graduates with their commissions in the U. S. Coast Guard.

Mothers, future wives and girl friends were remembered at the ceremony's end. They placed the new ensign's shoulder boards on the gleaming white uniforms of their favorite Coast Guard officer.

to LeMoine-Owen College.

One impressive scene was the appearance of 30 members of the Baptist Women's City Union No. 1 who sat in a body. They were white out of respect to Mrs. Owen who had been one of their associates.

The commanding voice of Mrs. Selma Smith highlighted the funeral as she sang "Death Is Only A Dream."

The Metropolitan Choir rendered three very touching numbers: "When We All Get To Heaven," "Lead Me To Calvary" and "The King of Love My Shepherd Is."

Some of the city's leading ministers are on program. The Rev. John Charles Mickle, pastor of Second Congregational Church and Elder Blair T. Hunt, minister of Mississippi Boulevard Christian Church, read the scriptures; the Rev. W. L. Varnado, retired Baptist minister, offered prayer, followed by reading of another passage of scripture by the Rev. W. W. Norsworthy, pastor of Mt. Moriah Baptist Church.

Brief expressions were given by the Rev. I. A. Watson representing the church; the Rev. C. H. Fitzgerald, who represented the State Convention and Dr. Charles L. Dinkins, on behalf of Owen College.

The eulogy was given by the Rev. W. C. Holmes. The Rev. A. McEwen Williams, president of the Tennessee Baptist Missionary and Educational Convention, presided.

Honorary pallbearers were officials of Metropolitan and the Missionary Society. Active pallbearers were LeRoy Appin, Eddie Horne, Charles H. Ryans, Jesse H. Turner, W. T. Gurney, S. B. Bowen, Lewis H. Twigg and M. S. Romby.

The funeral as directed by T. H. Hayes and Sons.

Mrs. Owen, who died June 5 at the 761 Walker Avenue residence after a lingering illness, was the mother of Samuel A. Owen Jr. of Memphis sister of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Wood of Alexandria, Va.; grandmother of Jacquellin, Arelene and Crystal Daranne Owen; aunt of Mrs. Crozet Johnson, William D. Wood, Mrs. Adelaide Tilton, Allen and William Gaines, Miss Ruth Gaines and Mrs. Jacquellin Keys all of Alexandria; sister-in-law of Miss F. A. Owen and mother-in-law of Mrs. Nina Louise Oen.

Mrs. Owen was born in Alexandria, attended high school in Washington, D. C. and entered Hartsboro College in Richmond, Va., which was later merged with Virginia Union University, from which she was graduated in 1914.

She accepted a teaching position at Florida Memorial College at Live Oak. In 1916 she was married to Dr. Owen who then as pastoring in Florida.

When Dr. Owen became president of Roger Williams University in Nashville, Tenn., a post he held for three years, Mrs. Owen returned to the classroom and taught Latin and French at Roger Williams. Also during this period, she studied at Hampton Institute in Virginia.

In 1923 when Dr. Owen accepted the pastorate of Metropolitan Baptist Church in Memphis, Mrs. Owen was induced by the late Dr. and Mrs. T. O. Fuller to teach with them at old Hoe Memorial College in Memphis.

At her funeral, Mrs. Owen was described as "a faithful, helpful

MY WEEKLY SERMON

by
REV. BLAIR T. HUNT,

PASTOR,
MISSISSIPPI BVD. CHRISTIAN CHURCH
MEMPHIS, TENN.

SUBJECT: "FATHER AND THE CHURCH"

Text: "And Ye Fathers, Provoke Not Your Children To Wrath; But Nurture Them In The Chastening And Admonition Of The Lord.—EPL. 6:4."

Mother is in the church; the children are in the church. But where is daddy? Each Sunday Mothers out number fathers in the church. Father is absent. Not all fathers, but too many are absent.

How can fathers nurture their children in admonition of the Lord and be marked Sunday after Sunday absent from the church?

It is not enough to feed and clothe his children. The child that God has given father is a living soul. The child's soul is to be nurtured and developed. Who is to do this? Too often it is looked upon as the sole duty of the mother. Father should not shift his responsibility to any one else. Too many fathers make the common excuse, "I leave church-going to my wife. She sends the children to Sunday school, I am too busy."

Think of father meeting every Sunday morning to study the word of God. What a great object lesson to the growing boy. What an opportunity for a father to set an example to his son.

It is easy to make excuses for not going to church. One familiar one is, "When I was a boy, my parents made me go until I became tired of it." Shame on you — Big, lazy, no account man to blame your neglect upon your Godly christian parents. Your parents made you wash your face and neck and back of your ears when you were a boy. Did not these things make you tired? then why do you wash your face and neck and back of your ears now?

No true father would want to rear his child in a community where there is no church. But father, what are you doing to build up the church in your community?

It would be a very poor, good-for-nothing father who would sit and do nothing while others feed, clothe his children. Is it not worse for father to expect some one else to bring up his children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, while father loaf on the job of real fatherhood? Your child is a gift from God. Take your child to Sunday school, to church.

The church is the spiritual power — house where a man becomes charged to carry home the electric current of Christ — likeness to his children. It is impossible to convey spiritual life to your children if you have none yourself.

What can a father expect of his son, when he himself spends Sunday away from the church? What will the son think of soul values if the day of oration is used for joy riding, picnics, ball games, loafing, etc?

Another foolish excuse that some fathers give for not attending church is, "I am better than the worst is to make a lame excuse. Why not compare yourself with the best? Why cry out there are hypocrites in the church. May be there are. But there are far more on the outside."

What is the greatest inheritance a father can leave his children? Is it wealth? This they can destroy. Is it fame? This they can mar. Is it opportunity? This they can ignore. Is it a good name? This they can disgrace. The greatest inheritance father can leave is training in righteousness.

Let us thank God for the great and ever increasing number of fathers who are interested in the things pertaining to spiritual life. The fathers who are in attendance at church, the fathers who are meeting every Sunday morning to study God's word are truly nurturing the present and coming generation in the chastening and admonition of our Lord and savior Jesus Christ who so loved us that he gave his life for us and who has gone to prepare a place for us.

of newsmen expected to invade Memphis.

The trial is expected to be set for the September term and more than likely will be held in Judge Perry H. Sellers' Division I courtroom, the largest of the five criminal courts. Judge Sellers is also the senior judge.

Judge Ben L. Hooks has been eliminated as a trial judge in the Ray case because he was a close friend of Dr. Martin Luther King, the man Ray is accused of killing. Judge Hooks is also a board member of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which Dr. King founded.

Even though the case may be set for the September term it may be a long time coming up for trial. Lawyers are expected to ask for additional time to prepare their cases and the defense may even request "psychiatric" examinations which will take considerable time.

Ray, captured in London, is not expected to be returned to the States until late June.

Dr. Phillip Blaiberg Suffers Relapse, Fluids Around Heart

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — (UP) — Dr. Phillip Blaiberg, who has lived for 160 days with a transplanted heart, Tuesday developed hepatitis and fluid around the heart in what doctors termed "a setback."

Medical bulletin from Groote Schuur Hospital said Blaiberg's condition was "causing doctors some concern." Officials said the world's third heart transplant patient was receiving "emergency treatment" and a specialist had been called in to see him.

In London, Dr. Christian Bernard, the surgeon who pioneered heart transplant surgery and performed the operation on Blaiberg, had hepatitis-inflammation of the liver. Bernard said, however, Blaiberg's "condition is not critical."

FLUID DEVELOPS

Medical sources at the hospital said Blaiberg, 58, had also developed "pericardial effusion" or fluid around the heart.

Barnard, who flew back to Cape Town Tuesday night, said the hepatitis was probably caused by drugs or blood Blaiberg had been given. The surgeon said "there is still very good hope for Mr. Blaiberg."

Medical sources said there were signs last week that Blaiberg's body was rejecting his new heart and anti-rejection drugs were stepped up. The sources said large doses of these drugs carry the danger of liver damage.

Barnard said Blaiberg started to run a temperature last week while he was back in the hospital for routine medical examinations.

THIRD OPERATION

Blaiberg was given the heart of Clive Haupt, 24, a colored South African who died of a brain hemorrhage, in an operation Jan. 9. It was the third such operation in the world and the second performed by Barnard.

Blaiberg, a retired dentist, had several small setbacks in the post-operative recuperation and doctors twice had to delay his going home from the hospital. He finally went home March 18 and has since driven his car, played catch, eaten normally and gone for long walks.

He reentered the hospital June 1 for routine medical tests. Although scheduled to return home on June 7, doctors kept him in the hospital because his wife Eileen had a cold and the doctors did not want him exposed to infection.

Cleveland Sellers Denied Bail By U.S. Court Third Time

Cleveland Louis Sellers, the convicted Civil Rights leader, was denied bail for a third time, on draft evasion charges. He was denied bail for the third time since last April when a U. S. District Court found him guilty.

U. S. District Judge Newell Endenfield said that the court could not find any conditions of release that would reasonably assure against the defendants further acts to the danger of the community of his fleeing the sentence presently imposed should the conviction stand.

Sellers has appealed the conviction and a five year prison sentence to the U. S. Court of Appeals. At the time of his sentence Judge Endenfield order said, Sellers told the court that it could not sentence him, because he was a black man, and the court was racist and for the white folk, and that he believed that every institution in the country is racist and that the court falls into the same category, and that the only people that could sentence him were black people and that he saw none of them present.

Sellers also, the order said ignored travel restrictions placed on him earlier and was "virtually living in South Carolina for a substantial period of time in violation of a condition that he remain in the district unless given permission to leave by a court order."

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Can your hair be damaged from brushing, alone?

All hair becomes damaged from exposure to sun and natural elements. Certain greasy compounds and many chemicals, improperly used, also take their toll...not to mention simple attempts at beautifying the hair with any brush not made of natural bristles. The results are brittleness, breakage, dry and dull looking hair.

Your professional beautician knows how artificial bristles actually brush away a great deal of the "lubricants" of the hair that give it body, lustre and protection. And trained beauticians claim that nothing beats Clairol® condition* Beauty Pack Treatment for overcoming brittleness, dryness and breakage...leaving hair lively and easy to manage. condition* is an easy-to-work-with creme which can even be applied during a chemical straightening retouch to prevent drying of hair that has been previously relaxed. condition* is the ultimate in repairing deep-down damage. And, when time is a factor for their customers, hairdressers turn to new Clairol® Hair Dew—the lotion conditioner that penetrates so fast many think of it as an instant conditioner. When applied regularly by your beautician, Clairol Hair Dew adds body, softens and gives a glowing new look to your hair that many friends will notice and admire.

Damage comes from using brushes with artificial bristles. But damage to every woman's hair comes from so many other causes that all human hair (including wigs) needs to be re-vitalized periodically. Visit your professional beautician and ask this expert to check the condition of your hair.

Only your professional beautician knows the answer for sure.

American churches are beginning to invest substantial amount of their own cash in the effort to relieve poverty, unemployment and bad housing in urban ghettos.

This is a noteworthy change in approach. Previously, the churches' contribution to the urban crisis had consisted mainly of demopng that the government and private industry do something.

Their new determination to "put their money where their mouth is" can be seen in such recent developments as these:

The Episcopal Church set aside $1 million of its reserve funds for investment in "venture capital corporations" which will provide seed money and management advance to new ghetto-based business enterprises that will create jobs for minority groups.

The United Presbyterian Church asked all its agencies to invest 30 per cent of their unrestricted funds in housing and business projects in poverty areas.

The United Church of Christ asked its 7,000 congregations to contribute from one to five per cent of their local budgets each year to support housing and employment projects and to help train leaders and develop community organizations in big city slum areas.

The United Methodist Church pledged $20 million over the next four to inner city air programs.

The Lutheran Church in America said its pension board is supplying mortgage funds for private housing projects which "will serve ghetto residents."

The National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice revealed that 120 different religious bodies in 12 states are now cooperating in its "Project Equality," an interdenominational program through which churches direct all of their purchasing and construction business to firms which employ minority groups on a basis of complete equality.

Enrollment in Roman Catholic elementary schools has declined about 10 per cent during the past four years largely because financial pressures have caused dioceses to close some of their parochial schools.

And the trend seems to be continuing.

"We receive announcements of school closings or curtailments just about every day," says Rev. James C. Donohue, education director of the U. S. Catholic Conference.

Mr. Donohue said that during the school year just ending the number of Catholic elementary schools declined by 214 and the number of high schools by 17. That leaves 10,500 elementary schools and 2,417 high schools, so the Catholic Church continues to

Dropout Earns A Law Degree On G. I. Bill

Vocational rehabilitation under the G. I. Bill enable 44-year-old disabled Korean veteran, who was a seventh-grade drop out prior to Army Service to receive his degree along with the highest academic award given by John Marshall University of Atlanta.

Paul S. Weiner, father of four children and himself the son of Polish immigrants who established a successful tailoring business in Baltimore, was graduated from the law school Saturday night Summa Cum Laude with the highest quality grade average attained at the school since it adopted its present system of grading 10 years ago.

At Baccalaureate services June 2, Weiner was presented the Dean's Award, highest academic award given by John Marshall University. Weiner lives in Riverdale, a suburb on the south side of Atlanta.

After three years' service in World War II Weiner returned to Baltimore and entered the cloth reweaving business. He was recalled operate in America as the world's largest private school system.

Enrollment in Catholic elementary schools reached a high of 4,546,000 in the 1963-64 school year. In the 1967-68 school year just ending, it was down to 4,126,000. High school enrollment continued to rise through last year, when it reached a total of 1,133,000, but this year it too turned down, registering a decline of 964 students.

ed from service in the Korean Conflict and while stationed in Tokyo had to undergo extensive chest surgery to alleviate damaged nerves suffered in an automobile accident.

Discharged from service in October 1955 with the rank of Master Sergeant, Weiner reestablished his reweaving business in Baltimore, but the damp atmosphere and heavy work caused him extreme suffering with the residuals of his chest injury, so he moved to the dry climate of the southwest in 1963.

During service, Weiner realized his advancement in or put out of service was limited without a formal education. So, with the help of a fellow sergeant he studied on his own and at the age of 39 passed the Army tests for a high school equivalence certificate.

Finding the reweaving field too crowded in Arizona and New Mexico, Weiner applied for admission to the University of New Mexico and was accepted on probation. There, and later at Texas Western, he maintained a 3.2 of a possible 4.0 grade point average while training under the G. I. Bill, which offered him substance allowance to supplement his wife's earnings.

After three years participating in the college's General Honors Program and being on the Dean's List every semester during his undergraduate study, Weiner applied to the VA for counseling under the vocational rehabilitation program to assist disabled veterans find a vocation in keeping with their disabilities.

It was determined that following a law career would be less strenuous than teaching, so he applied to John Marshall University and was accepted in the spring quarter of 1966 and, with a substantial substance allowance based on the number of dependents, he was able to stay in school continuously and complete the required work of his bachelor of laws degree in two years.

Too Much Emotionalism To Arrest Blacks Today

By PORTIA SCOTT

HARLEM — Last month six young, ranging in ages from 19 to 23, were arrested and allegedly charged with a conspiracy plot to (1) commit murder (2) commit robbery (3) commit burglary and held under bond totalling $202,000 cash.

A reduction of bail was denied twice and an indictment held earlier earlier this month.

It was reported that these youngsters were planning to rob a checking cash company, burglarize an armory and kill "a cop a week" to inflame the police department and consequently incite a riot within the Harlem community.

The community feels not only are these charges false, but absurd.

These young men, with the exception of one, were well known in the Harlem community in an organized effort to "clean up Harlem."

They were leaders of the Harlem Youth Federation, an organization advocating the prevention and rehabilitation of drug usage among

TV Tribute To Kennedy Aired

NEW YORK — Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive director, recently (June 6) joined British and American dignitaries in a trans-Atlantic telecast eulogizing Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Speaking from the British Broadcasting Company's London studios were Prime Minister Harold Wilson and former Prime Minister Harold MacMillan. Joining Mr. Wilkins here in the studios of the National Broadcasting Company were New York Mayor John V. Lindsay and the historian Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., biographer and friend of the Kennedy family.

The telecast was beamed by BBC throughout the United Kingdom. The station pre-empted its "Twenty-Four Hours" 40-minute news program in tribute to Senator Kennedy.

WOMAN WOMAN TO

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Listen to three or more teen-agers doing their thing with musical instruments or their combined voice boxes and you have "the now sound."

This year's "now" sounds different from last year's. And next year's noiseprint from the "now sound" probably will have its own distinguishing marks.

A search for the "now sound" of 1968 has been launched by "South of Youth" — an organization put together by a band of people over 30 in the hopes of helping those under 30.

In more than 100 cities in 14 states groups of teen-agers have been producing their sounds in an attempt to make the "South of Youth" finals in Miami in Sept.

AMERICA'S ANSWER

Deborah Cotton, secretary of the sound-searching organization, said it is possible the winners will be America's answer to the Beatles.

Winners of the national finals will receive a recording contract from Kapp Records and a week's engagement at Cheetahs in Chicago, New York and Los Angeles.

With a start like that wouldn't it be beautiful if they caught on like the Beatles? It would at least cause joy in high places in Washington when thousands of Europe's teen-agers gobbled up records from an American company.

But there's more than the possibility of helping the trade gap. Mrs. Cotton said the idea is to offer a showcase for the best of the "now sounds" throughout the land.

THE OPERA SOLOIST

"No contestant has used a washboard yet," Mrs. Cotton said, "but they're not ruled out. Neither is the operatic soloist but such a performer might not rate on judging points. Opera isn't the "now sound of youth."

Groups are judged on presence, creativity and sound produced.

So far a good many groups have been performing original music.

Mrs. Cotton said the folk music especially is soothing. Very little of what she has heard jangles the nerves.

Participants in regional competitions frequently dress as imaginatively as they perform. The clothes run the gamut from hippie to mod.

Mrs. Cotton finds especially interesting the names of some groups. Samples: The Primations, The Late Paul Bearers, The Town Cryers, The What For, Pete and the Carrot Eaters, The Days.

licemen to make the actual house arrest and several officers at side shubbery and roof posts.

The question arises why is it that every year for the past four years the police make a sensational case out of the activities of black groups and organizations... It 1967 the Stature of Liberty case; '66 the Philadelphia SNCC dynamite case; '67 RAM Plot; '68 "Cop A Week Plot."

Esther Scott Carter Weds Ensign R. Gillem Lucas At Annapolis, Maryland

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Miss Esther Scott Carter, 22, and Ensign Robert Gillem Lucas were married on Saturday, June 8, in an evening ceremony at the United States Naval Academy Chapel in Annapolis, Maryland.

Mrs. Lucas is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Russell L. Carter of Dayton, Ohio, and the granddaughter of Mrs. W. A. Scott, Sr. of Atlanta, and the late Reverend Doctor W. A. Scott of the Christian Church. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Minor Lucas of Springfield, Ohio are the parents of the groom.

The ceremony was performed by Chaplain Charles L. Greenwood, U.S.N. A reception followed at the Officers' Club.

The bride wore a sleeveless gown of imported silk and Alencon lace richly studded with seed pearls. It featured a high classic neckline, outlined with petals of lace. Her tiered veil of illusion extended to the end of the long embroidered train.

She carried a cascading bouquet of gardenias and butterfly white roses clustered among caladium leaves.

Mrs. Stanley S. Scott of New York and Miss Anna Laurie Scott of Atlanta, cousins of the bride, were honor attendants.

Mrs. Edward Cooper of Langston, Oklahoma, another cousin, and Miss Emily Lucas, sister of the groom, Miss Wenona Woodson of Washington, D.C., and her college chums, Miss Adrienne Foster of Tuskegee, Alabama and Mrs. Robert Adler of Washington, D.C. were bridesmaids.

Little Miss Susan Scott was the flower girl. Master J. Russell Simmons III was the ring bearer.

Susan and Russell reside in New York City and are cousins of the bride.

Misses Debbie Taylor and Winifred Johnson of Dayton were junior bridesmaids. They wore identical white dresses of imported Saki and carried colonial style arm bouquets of red and yellow roses, cream stock, and hybrid blue delphinium, entwined with English ivy.

Judge and Mrs. Carter will entertain the prominent couple with another reception at their residence on Harvard Boulevard in Dayton, Ohio on June the sixteenth.

Following their honeymoon, Gill will enter the Navy's Nuclear Power school at Mare Island, California where they have rented a house.

run a clear community or is it a serious scheme to discourage and annihilate young, bold, sound and righteous leadership within the black community?

The fact that these particular cases have all occurred around this same time, the police may feel that they are examples to young black so-called militants to keep a cool summer. The results have been more emotional and hotter summers.

In Harlem dope is sold openly on the streets, a crisis that has crippled the community and practically annihilated the 16 and 17 year old generation today.

If ridding Harlem of dope is militant then militancy is far past due.

These youth deserve justice. It's unfair to use them as scape goats. Any kind of assistance or support for them may be mailed to The Harlem Youth Federation, in-care United Black Front, 2380 Seventh Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10037.

There is a long way to go, but every little bit counts in the drive towards justice, equality and freedom for all.

Jim Brown Free On Bond In 'Assault To Kill' Case

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (UPI) — Jim Brown, the greatest running back in pro football history and now a movie actor, was charged Monday with assault with intent to commit murder after a 22-year-old fashion model was found lying on the ground 20 feet below the balcony of his apartment.

The girl, Eva Marie Bohn-Chin, a frequent companion of the 32-year-old Brown, was born in Germany of a Negro father and a Caucasian mother. A beauty and Eurasian in appearance, she had hoped to get in the movies herself.

SCREAMS HEARD

The West Hollywood sheriff's office said Miss Bohn-Chin was found Sunday night lying against a wall, badly bruised, shortly after two officers went to Brown's apartment when neighbors heard screaming and scuffling.

At Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center, the girl as described as in "fair condition." She had bruises and contusions on her face, head, legs and shoulder, and suffered a shoulder separation.

Clad in a white dress, Miss Bohn-Chin was discovered after the officers entered Brown's apartment and allegedly found blood and fragments of hair on a bed, the floor and in the bathroom.

Deputy John Texeria, 27, said that when they knocked at the apartment door and sought to enter, Brown assertedly replied: "You big white cops and your

A VEGETABLE GARDEN in BILL'S BACK YARD

by Bill Meachen

My two boys were late for dinner. They came rushing into the house and even after wash-up there were still traces of soil on their arms and faces.

Before Mary or I could say anything, they made the announcement that they were going to have a vegetable garden. "Where?" I asked. "In back of the garage." Our neighbor, who owned the property, had given them the necessary permission.

I went out to survey the plot. The area received full sun and although grown over with weeds and grass the past few years, it was fairly good soil, and free from stones — just right for vegetables.

They had started spading the ground but the job was a little too much for them. So, the next Saturday I put the tiller on the plot and we worked in a good portion of general 5-10-5 fertilizer, lime and some peatmoss.

They were ready to plant. Their list of vegetables was already made out, and it included a few too many items for a 20-by-20-foot plot. First, we decided against the large watermelon and pumpkins. The corn, too, had to be eliminated on such a small plot, even though we could have gotten in one or two rows.

Finally, the contents of the garden were settled: A dozen tomatoes, and they would buy the plants; two rows of radishes; three rows of bush beans (Mary said she could freeze any extras); two rows of lettuce; and one row of miniature watermelons. (I gave in to them.)

After the first planting, I thought the novelty would wear off. But, it didn't.

One day I spotted Bob, the oldest, walking to the garden with Mary's aerosol Spectracide® — the one she uses on her special perennials and roses. He had found some aphids on the beans and was going to spray.

When I pointed out that he should mix up some liquid for such a large job, he pointed to the can where it said it could be used on vegetables. But, I convinced him that the aerosol was for touch-up spraying and that the liquid concentrate Spectracide that I use in the garden could also be used on his vegetables. So, we made a bargain. Every two weeks I would leave him enough mixed spray in my sprayer so he could do his vegetables.

Although they wouldn't admit it, I think their mother and friends helped them because we had some wonderful vegetables from the little plot. Could it be that the family is trying to outdo Pop, the professional horticulturist? I was sure of it when young Bill said one evening, "Let's buy a farm. We'll grow the vegetables and, Pop, you can have a little room for your roses!"

'Medic Alert' Members In State Rise In 1967

More than 800 residents of Georgia with hidden medical problems last year took a unique step toward freedom from accidental aggravation of those problems.

The Medic Alert Foundation, a nationwide nonprofit organization dedicated to preventing inadvertent medical ministrations that could have fatal effects, reports that it enrolled 210 new members in Georgia in 1967, thereby more than doubling this state's membership.

Chester L. Watts, executive director of the Foundation, revealed that a total of 27,107 persons in the nation were enrolled last year, and that now more than 300,000 Americans wear the distinctive Medic Alert emblem.

In addition to its function of alerting doctors, nurses or first-aid personnel to any condition that might be complicated by routine administration of first aid, the Medic Alert medallion provides a means by which a person wishing to donate his heart or other organs to medical science after death can be instantly identified.

"This new element in our service — human organ transplant information —" Mr. Watts said, "is expected to bring an even more rapid rise in enrollments. There has been a steady increase in the number of Georgia residents enrolling, each year, since Medic Alert's founding in 1966."

Among those who urgently need medical identification to protect themselves are the 10 million cardiovascular patients taking anticoagulants, which must be counteracted by other drugs to prevent excessive bleeding in an accident; 2 million known diabetics, who can appear drunk when ill; and those who are allergic to penicillin and tetanus antitoxin (horse serum).

A key feature in Medic Alert's protection service is an emblem, worn as bracelet, necklace or anklet, that identifies the wearer's medical problem. Each membership, available at a lifetime cost of $7 (or free to any person in need), has engraved on it medical information, the member's Medic Alert number and the telephone number of the foundation's Turlock, Calif. headquarters.

There additional information is available to authorized personnel on a collect - call, 24-hour basis. Medic Alert has affiliates in 11 foreign countries and has been endorsed by a large number of national organizations, including the American Academy of General Practice, the American Academy of Allergy, and the American College of Allergists.
