Nixon Watched At Hotel Suite

By GORDON F. JOSELOFF

NEW YORK—(UPI) — Richard M. Nixon, confident that he would win his second campaign for the presidency with 45 per cent of the popular vote, flew to New York Tuesday from California as aides prepared a gigantic "victory party" at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The week-long program is being sponsored by the Special Events Committee of the college's student center "to expose students to different points of view outside the classroom and to help them become better informed on the contemporary problems concerning them."

Sessions will be held twice daily, 10:30 a. m. until noon in the gymnasium and at 7 p. m. in the Little Theatre.

Dr. Gloster will discuss "Discipline or Freedom—Which Does the College Student Need?"

A panel of three persons will react to each speaker and this will be followed by questions from the audience.

The GOP candidate, his wife, Pat and daughter Patricia, 22, voted by absentee ballots last Thursday in New York in expectation of last minute campaigning outside the state. It was Tricia's first ballot. Her sister Julie, 20, is too young to vote.

Tight security was clamped on the block-size hotel on Park Ave. where several anti-war groups scheduled demonstrations against the Nixon-Agnew ticket. Barricades were erected early in the day to help control crowds.

Police told the Nixon Campaign Committee it must limit attendance at the return-watching party in the Grand Ballroom to 2,000 and warned that only those with legitimate passes would be admitted.

Nixon aides said more than 3,000 passes had been given out and they intended to see that everyone invited was admitted.

The Nixon family was to stay in the maximum security of a 35th floor apartment in the Waldorf Towers section of the hotel overnight rather than return to their Fifth Avenue apartment. Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Johnson stayed at the Waldorf for security reasons on advice of the Secret Service.

Humphrey Hears His Fate With Family In Minneapolis

By JOHN HALL

WAVERLY, Minn. — (UPI) — Hubert H. Humphrey, who courted the nation in a campaign which exposed him to millions, finally went into seclusion Tuesday for the agonizing hours that determined his political fate.

The vice president returned to his lakeside home early in the day after a night flight from Los Angeles, where he capped his hectic nine-week campaign for the presidency with a four-hour telecast and an informal party attended by some of California's top political leaders and show business personalities.

Humphrey landed in Minneapolis at 8 a. m. He drove through a cold and steady rain to the Marysville Town Hall, near his home, to cast his ballot before going to the unpretentious Humphrey estate.

He spent much of the day sleeping after being on the go steadily for more than 30 hours.

Humphrey and Mrs. Humphrey were the 41st and 42nd persons to vote in the small, whitewashed clapboard town hall. He arrived shortly before 9 o'clock dressed in a blue suit and protected against the 40 degree chill by a topcoat with liner. He paused briefly at a stove and with a big grin said, "Boy, does that feel good."

Humphrey and Mrs. Humphrey were each given three ballots, one yellow, one white and one pink, and then went into side by side enclosures to mark the sheets.

They spent several minutes marking their ballots and when Humphrey turned his in, he looked at reporters and said, "I want you to know I voted only once."

By the time the Humphreys were through, about 30 friends and neighbors showed up at the town hall and greeted him with applause as he stepped outside.

He was asked, "Are you going to win?"

He replied, "I sure am."

Humphrey's schedule for the day included dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Andreas at Lake Min-

3 KC Students Draw Jail Terms

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The trial of three Knoxville College students ended in what the students and their lawyers termed "a political victory" on October 28.

Pete Tigner, Joseph Scott and Gary Keel were charged with possessing explosives and conspiring to blow up two college buildings, after a white mob drove a car on the campus March 8. They pleaded guilty to two reduced charges, after an agreement between their lawyers and the attorney general.

They were sentenced to serve 11 months and 30 days on each charge, concurrently. The judge has allowed them to return to college — where two of the three are presently enrolled — and to begin serving their terms June 2, after the school year ends. He said he will consider suspending the

BRASS TACKS

By THADDEUS T. STOKES

... TO REMAIN A WORLD POWER

The commitment of the United States to battle in Viet Nam did not come because of direct attack against the territory or the armed forces of this nation. Our immediate survival is not the reason young men are called upon to fight as they were, for example, on the day of Pearl Harbor. Then the threat could easily be seen; there was nothing abstract about it. And, World War I was "the war to end wars."

The young men were called, and the nation stood behind them.

Mrs. Geraldine Hunt are co-ordinators of the program assisted by the faculty. J. L. Brinkley is principal.

Muskie Picketed By Demonstrators As He Voted

WATERVILLE, Maine — (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, was picketed by anti-war demonstrators Tuesday as he voted in the city where he started his political career more than two decades ago.

About 150 demonstrators were gathered with friends and well-wishers outside the South Grammar School where the Democratic vice presidential candidate and his wife, Jane, voted after flying home from the West Coast. Another 50 students from Thomas College picketed his motel.

The 54-year-old senator, who became known during the campaign for his calm handling of hecklers, said the election day pickets did not bother him.

Muskie said he believed the election was "a tossup." He said he was pleased with a "last-minute surge in our favor" but still "concerned about the election going in to the House of Representatives."

After voting, Muskie played golf at the Waterville Country Club. Sending his first drive straight down the fairway, he told watching newsmen and photographers, "As I swung I was thinking of Agnew."

The tall Lincolnshire lawyer, who was born in Maine, son of Polish immigrants, was first elected to the Maine legislature in 1946 and went on to become the state's second Democratic governor since the Civil War before going to the Senate in 1958.

fighting there and those who may have to go. They do more than defend their country's honor and ideals which in itself would be enough. They are buying time for the survival of civilization itself.

A little-known phase of the Vietnamese war has been the cold-blooded terrorist attacks on South Vietnamese civilians by the communist-inspired Vietcong. In the first half of 1968, terrorist activity inflicted casualties on civilians in South Viet Nam totaling about 12,000 — including some 25 abductions a day, principally of village leaders and their families.

One of the most amazing facts about the Vietnamese war has been the tendency of people to pour out sympathy for the communists, when the U. S. seeks to protect our fighting men by bombing military targets in North Viet Nam.

People seem to wholly overlook the wanton communist attacks against the civilian population of South Viet Nam. Another astonishing fact about the Vietnamese war is the ability of South Viet Nam to survive under such attacks.

It is our failure to recognize facts and a willingness to shut our eyes to truth in the face of the bluster and hypocrisy of communism that have led to a worldwide decline in Senator Wayne Morse said that the Soviet move into Czechoslavakia has demonstrated again that "a totalitarian state fears freedom of expression more than it fears anything else."

The liberalizing that was taking place in Czechoslovakia, and which prompted armed intervention by Russia, was nothing more or less than the removal of censorship from press, speech, and the cultural life of the nation.

The communist parties of Russia, Poland, East Germany, and Bulgaria knew that their own doctrinaire way of life could not withstand freedom of expression, should it prove contagious.

Whatever political party assumes the responsibilities of national leadership in the coming election will find itself confronted with issues involving the security of the nation that play little or no part in the vote-getting appeals of candidates. One such issue will be the determination of whether the U. S., with its many thousands of miles of coastline and worldwide commercial ties and military commitments, is to remain a world power. — (11-6-68).

Black Exile African Lectures On Racism

DURHAM, N. C. — Gladstone N. Ntlati, a Black exile from South Africa, lectured recently in the auditorium of the education building at North Carolina College. Ntlati's topic was "Racism in South Africa." He began by giving some historical data of South Africa. "Africans were in South Africa first and this fact is comparable to the American white and the Indian," he said.

Ntlati also talked about the present revolution going on in South Africa. The revolution began in 1961 when the South Africans stopped using "passive resistance" as a means of obtaining freedom and stated using sabotage as a means of protest.

His major point was "what it is to be black." He compared being black in Africa to being black in America. He said that "black power" is the most exciting thing in this country today, and that "blackness is a special gift of which we should be proud. It is unfortunate that black power has been misinterpreted and associated with violence." He warned, however, that violence is inevitable in the United States and South Africa.

Mr. Ntlati has been in this country since 1958. Since that time he has earned a Master's degree from both Yale and Harvard Universities. He is also a candidate for the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Harvard.

We were shocked and saddened over the passing away of MR. MACK LOFTON, a popular Memphian who was liked by all who knew him. He was friendly and he was sincere and a loyal member of Centenary church and the Memphis Club.

In town last week-end were Mr. Joseph Westcott, a supervisor in the Memphis School system who is now working on an advance degree at the University of Tennessee. Joining him here were his two pretty daughters, Jolene who is Phillander-Smith in Little Rock and Dianne, an Airline Hostess with Pan-Am. Mr. Westcott and his daughters also dropped by Atty. Letting's after seeing Show Boat along with the cast.

I did hear from friends that Mrs. Emma Tom Johnson attended the inauguration of the new President at Fisk University last week but her name was left out. I am sure there are others who have not mentioned to us their trip to their Alma Mater. Heavens, we are always glad to receive this news from you. Mrs. Johnson, a Fisk graduate, is the daughter of a former Nashville school principal and is a counselor in the Memphis City school system.

It was Maceo Walker, powerful business man, who presented Judge Bennett before he spoke.

MR. ARTHUR WASHINGTON DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Again we were grieved and saddened over the sadness that came again this year into the Washington home. The passing of the head of the home, Mr. Arthur Washington in Los Angeles last week touched many prominent homes in Memphis.

The deceased, a well known contractor, was the father of seven lovely daughters with whom he was closely associated. We will always remember his modest and other lofty virtues as a father and uncle. Mr. Washington was a man known for his character and quiet manner.

SYMPATHY IS EXTENDED to his daughters, Mrs. Chas. H. Mason, Sr. (Elsie), Mrs. Harold Jamison (Ida), Mrs. Sam Qualls (Ceneta), Mrs. Dell Crouther (Baby Sister), Mrs. Clara Bryce (the later two of Los Angeles) and Miss Irene Washington. The late Miss Queen Washington, a registered Nurse at Tennessee State University, passed away early this year. Mr. Washington was the uncle of Mrs. Leiland Atkins, Mrs. Robert Lewis, Jr. and Mr. Arthur Mason of Memphis.

We in Memphis were also shocked over the passing away of MR. ROBERT ATEMAN, a Superintendent of a Chicago Post Office and brother of Mrs. Henriette Ateman Jenkins and Miss Ada Ateman of Memphis and several other brothers well known to old citizens of Memphis. The Atemans are members of a pioneer family and Mr. Robert Ateman had made the same outstanding record for himself in Chicago having lived there since his college days.

MRS. A. MACEO WALKER attended the Centennial Celebration of the Founding of St. Mary's Episcopal School where her young daughter, "Candy," a student, A reception was given in the New Building of the school also on All Saints' Day (last Friday). A Welcome was made by Mr. John T. Fisher, Chairman of the Board

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry William Cooper Sr. of Rochester. The bridegroom is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Phillip Embury Brooks Sr. of Memphis. Miss Cooper was given in marriage by her father. As they advanced to the altar the church's main aisle was lined with three branch candelabras, trimmed with foliage garlands. The chancel area was also trimmed with candelabras with 7 branches and plaques of white gladiolus chrysanthemums, and assorted foliages.

Rev. Raymond L. Graves conducted the service and was assisted by the bride - groom's father Rev. Phillip Embury Brooks, Sr. The bride wore a satin organza skimmer of pearl and crystal alien yoke and sleeves, with a sculptured bordered hem. The headpiece was a lace pill box with attached mantilla train. It was designed especially for the bride by Jacqueline Bridal Salon. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and ivy, centered with a white cateleya orchid with a lavender throat.

The bride's youngest sister, Mrs. Roger Williams, served as a matron of honor in a floor length two tone chiffon gown in orchid over lue. She carried a free trim cascade bouquet of purple and lavender asters accented with purple tulle and velvet trim. The bridesmaids wore identical gowns and carried identical bouquets. They were Mrs. David Simpson and Mrs. David Simpson and Mrs. Thaddeus Warfield, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. George Halzlip, a friend of the Cooper family.

The mother of the bride were a floor length gown of aqua with a matching coat. The mother of the bridegroom wore a floor length gown of hot pink. They both wore white cateleya orchids.

Joseph B. Brooks of Washington D. C. brother of the bridegroom served as best man. Groomsmen were Freddie Brooks, also a brother of the groom, from Memphis, Elroy Pinkney, Peter Bibby, both of Rochester; Robert Nanke, Washington D. C., Henry Wm. Cooper Jr., brother of the bride, also of Rochester, N. Y.

During the ceremony the LORD'S PRAYER was sung by William Warfield. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Embury Brooks, Jr. greeted about 300 hundred guest at a buffet dinner held at Hedges Nine Mile Point Hotel on Lake Ontario. The couple honeymooned in Montreal, Quebec and Toronto. The newly weds are at home in California where Mr. Brooks is an engineer at Eastman Kodak Co. Mrs. Brooks is supervisor at the Pacific Telephone Co.

Mrs. Mose Yvonne Hooks, the sister of the groom, accompanied Rev. and Mrs. Phillip E. Brooks Sr. (father and mother of the groom) to the wedding.

Soviets Brings Soyuz 2 Down, One Still Aloft

By EDWARD J. SHIELDS
MOSCOW — (UPI) — Soviet scientists Monday brought the unmanned Soyuz 2 spacecraft back to earth and said Col. Georgy Beregovoi, still aloft in Soyuz 8, had advanced space technology into the new age of maneuverable "cosmos."

The Russians indicated Beregovoi had made giant strides toward perfection of the grand design for permanent orbiting space stations by maneuvering his ship approximately like an automobile instead of following tracks like a "railroad train."

They said he jumped from one orbit to another, "a big stride towards the future."

The 47-year-old cosmonaut was reported in good health as he zipped through his third day of earth orbit. Some Soviet sources speculated he may remain aloft as long as 10 days to simulate the endurance needed for moon flights.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported that Beregovoi Monday performed one experiment that required him to cut his engines and orient the ship's solar batteries toward the sun.

It said he consumed a "diverse" diet, including luncheon of dried fish, chicken biscuits, cocoa and prunes and retired to his nosecone "bedroom" at 6:30 p. m.

Soviet Space commanders recalled the pilotless Soyuz 2 to earth at 10:25 a. m. 2:25 a. m. EST and reported it made a soft landing in Soviet territory about 11 a. m. 3 a. m. EST. Beregovoi performed close-approach drills to Soyuz 2 Saturday and Sunday.

A Most Significant Election

Tuesday's election will prove a most significant election from both the standpoint of the nation and our state and region in general. We have stated this before and we still believe this to be the fact.

The voting was heavy here especially at the Negro precincts which we were able to visit.

The turnout in the state will be over 1,000,000 and perhaps the record 70-odd million who voted in 1964 will be topped by the turnout over the nation in Tuesday's balloting.

We believe the contest will be close between former Vice President Nixon and Vice President Hubert Humphrey. The candidacy of extreme segregationist George Wallace unnecessarily and destructively complicated the presidential contest.

If candidate Wallace succeeds in taking several of the southern states it is possible this election will go to the U. S. House of Representatives for settlement. Also if he makes a substantial showing, Wallace will be a Third party factor in politics in this region in the future. In addition to certain positive reasons, we endorsed the candidacy of Mr. Nixon as the best way to defeat the aims of candidate Wallace.

Another significant factor about yesterday's voting in Atlanta is the fact that the results should give Negroes at least a total of 11 and perhaps 12 seats in the General Assembly from this metropolitan area. At present there are seven of our people in the House and two in the Senate. We expect an increase of three more in the House.

At any rate, we consider Tuesday a most significant date in our nation's history.

Hanoi Casts Gloom Over Peace Talks

By GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS — (UPI) — North Vietnam said Saturday it was up to the United States to get the reluctant South Vietnamese to join the expanded Vietnam negotiations in Paris. It said participation of Saigon representatives was the United States' idea.

Hanoi delegation chief Xuan Thuy spoke to a rare Paris news conference even as Saigon's objections to attending a Paris peace conference in which the Viet Cong would have equal representation cast gloom over U. S. hopes for a cease-fire in the Vietnam War.

Thuy said North Vietnamese and U. S. representatives would meet during the weekend to determine whether or not the expanded talks could get underway next Wednesday as had previously been hoped for.

HANOI HOPE

Smiling buoyantly, the white-haired Thuy said his government had agreed "with goodwill" to enter into the enlarged talks, in the wake of the U. S. bombing halt, "and we hope we will soon arrive at a peaceful solution to the Vietnam problem."

However he said Saigon's attitude was "an affair for the United States and Saigon to settle."

He said, "The Saigon administration was created by the United States," and it would be up to Washington to get South Vietnamese representatives to the conference table.

Dispatches from Saigon said some members of the South Vietnamese military community charged the halt in bombardment of North Vietnam ordered by President Johnson was "a surrender to Communist. South Vietnamese president Thieu threatened in a speech to the South Vietnamese Congress earlier Saturday to keep his country out of the Paris talks.

U. S. delegation spokesmen declined to comment on Thieu's statement, but Western diplomatic sources said the United States was quietly confident Saigon would eventually decide to join the talks to work out a Vietnam peace.

READS TEXT

The North Vietnamese delegation chief began his Paris news conference by reading the five-page text of his government's statement on the bombing halt which had been broadcast earlier in the day by Radio Hanoi.

In this statement Hanoi underscored that the presence of representatives of South Vietnam at the conference "does not signify their recognition" by North Vietnam.

Thuy said that in the accord on a bomb halt both Hanoi and Washington had agreed they would hold talks that would include separate delegations from the Viet Cong and "the Saigon administration" not earlier than Nov. 6.

"The initial meeting could be the sixth or later," Thuy said, depending on weekend consultations designed "to fix the date more precisely."

Asked why he thought the United States had chosen this moment to order the bombing halt, the North Vietnamese diplomat said:

"Because if the United States did not cease the bombing the United States could not peacefully resolve the Vietnam problem. If it could not resolve the Vietnam problem they would not be able to resolve the other major problems which beset the United States."

perfectly all right," Carter said.

Dunbar, who was serving time for burglary was found early Friday after having been placed in solitary confinement. Carter had said earlier that Dunbar complained "Wednesday" of a pain in the side, but was checked by a doctor and found to be in good health.

The prisoner then asked to be left off work detail Thursday and was placed in the cell, where he received regular meals and was checked every four hours, Carter said.

"The autopsy said he was in perfect health" at the time of death, Carter said, citing a report from Dr. Larry B. Howard of the crime lab.

Carter said the corrections department would continue investigating the cause of the ventilation failure.

Prisoner Dies Of Gas Fumes In Solitary Cell

MONTEZUMA, Ga. — UPI — A Macon County Prison Branch inmate died of asphyxiation as a result of carbon monoxide poisoning, a state Crime Lab autopsy showed Monday.

Robert J. Carter, director of the State Department of Corrections, said Jimmy Roy Dunbar, 26, died of fumes from a natural gas heater hanging at the end of he hall in which the solitary confinement cell Dunbar occupied was located.

"The heater is in a hall way approximately four feet wide and 30 feet long and heats three cells," Carter said. He said the carbon monoxide from the heater, which usually is conducted outside the building, "didn't go out the vents."

Carter said he did not know why the vents didn't work, but that when C. P. Kim had had the prison branch heaters checked as usual before they were put into use early in the fall.

Refused Privilege To Visit His Son At Reidsville

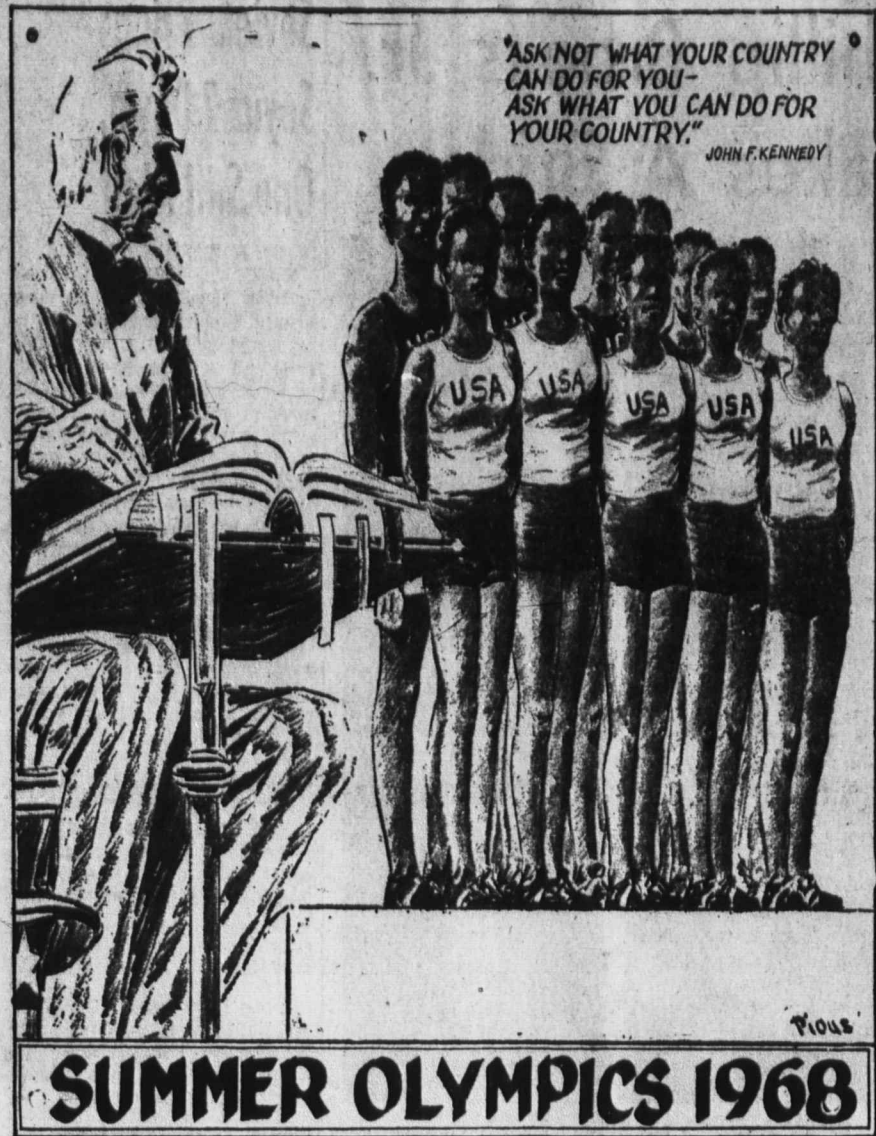

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SBS) — An Atlanta man told the Atlanta Daily World that he was refused last Sunday the privilege to visit his son who is an inmate at Reidsville State Prison.

Louis Scott Sr., 106 Nathan Rd., said prison guards told him that they could not permit him to visit his son, Louis Scott Jr., because it was a segregated prison, and it was a White Sunday.

only white inmates were privileged to see visitors.

Scott said a guard at the Gate told him, then another guard in the reception room said that he would have to come back when it was Negro Sunday.

The disturbed father said he is attempting to register a complaint with Gov. Lester Maddox. Louis said that the guards would not accept the cigarettes he had carried for his son, "they refused to accept them to give to him," said Scott.

four-hour NBC-TV telethon in Burbank, Calif., Monday night — his final exposure after an eight-month-long quest for the presidency that cost $20 million at top estimates. His Democratic opponent, Hubert H. Humphrey, also was on television from Hollywood, and the two contenders made something of a debate of it.

Nixon's report that an American spokesman in Saigon said the North Vietnamese were moving "tons of supplies along the Ho Chi Minh trail" since bombing was halted last Friday was described as "irresponsible" and "totally unsubstantiated" by Humphrey. Nixon replied that "Humphrey doesn't know what's going on."

In parting words to campaign workers in Southern California, Nixon said his election was necessary to avoid "what could be a diplomatic disaster" in the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Nixon urged workers to make a last minute effort into winning California for the GOP because it could make the difference in putting him in the White House.

The candidate said he expected to get 45 per cent of the popular vote and top ballots cast for Humphrey by 3 to 5 million. He said this did not insure him the 270 electoral votes necessary to capture the presidency, but he did not dwell on the possibility of the election being decided in the House of Representatives.

Nixon declared that victory seemed almost sure because "we have fielded the greatest volunteer army in history," his aides were unfailing and genuine, claiming that Nixon would get a minimum of 330 electoral votes and might capture 450. They scoffed at polls which said Humphrey had narrowed the gap and even passed Nixon by.

Ford Foundation Gives To Journalism Center

WASHINGTON — The Ford Foundation has awarded a $295,500 grant to The Washington Journalism Center for a three-year program to recruit and train Negroes for careers in journalism.

Announcement of the grant was made recently by the Ford Foundation and by The Washington Journalism Center, an independent, non-profit institution.

Julius Ducha, the director of the Center, said that up to 20 Negroes will be recruited each year by the Center from colleges and universities throughout the United States and appointed to fellowships at the Center for from four to six months. Each fellowship provides for a stipend of at least $2000.

The Center will seek out men and women who have majored in such areas of study as political science, history, economics, sociology and English, and who have indicated an interest in journalism through work on a school paper or discussions with their advisers.

The Fellows will come to Washington to participate in the regular programs of The Washington Journalism Center and in special programs to help prepare them for work as reporters and editors on newspapers and magazines and in radio and television news departments throughout the United States.

The fellows will work closely with young journalists who have had professional experience and are brought to the Center from throughout the country for fellowships under a program which is now in its third year.

The purpose of the new program for young Negroes will be to give each Fellow a sense of the excitement and relevancy of journalism in today's world and particularly its relationship to the urban crisis in the United States.

The Negro Fellows will attend the regular seminar programs of The Washington Journalism Center, which explore such problems as the relationship between government and the press, the role of Congress, the American presidency, the politics of the United States, and the Nation's foreign policy.

Special seminars will be set up to emphasize urban problems because these are the most difficult areas that reporters and editors will have to deal with in the foreseeable future.

Special attention will be given to such areas of concern as the anti-poverty program, the broad range of new civil rights laws, the new Departments of Housing and Transportation as well as the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the development of new concepts of private and public aid to urban areas.

Speeches from the press, the Federal government and Congress will lead the seminars. There also will be time for the Negro Fellows to work as interns in Washington news bureaus or on special investigative projects, and to work on the techniques of journalism with members of the Center's staff.

The chairman of the Center's Executive Committee is Newbold Noyes, editor of The Evening Star in Washington. Other members of the Executive Committee are Mrs. Philip L. Graham, president of The Washington Post and Newsweek magazine, and Austin H. Kiplinger, president of The Kiplinger Washington Editors, Inc.

THE YOUNG WOMEN

Charles D. Womack, of Warren County, Tenn., was struck by polio at the age of 21 in 1951 and has been largely confined to a wheelchair since.

Kenneth R. Higgins, a 22-year-old Vietnam veteran of Lexington, Ky., is permanently paralyzed as a result of a gunshot wound in the left shoulder while fighting in the dense jungles of Vietnam in 1966.

Clark Patterson Jr., 18, of Ashville, N. C., was an innocent bystander wounded in a street fight a little more than a year ago. Doctors said he would never walk again, but a tremendous effort of spirit over the year has changed their prognosis, and last June the youth hobbled forward on crutches at Ashville Orthopedic Hospital to receive his high school diploma.

All of these youths have one other thing in common in addition to the fact that tragedy has changed their lives. Each of them is receiving social security disability benefits today that he could not be paid under the law at the time the tragedy occurred.

An little as a year ago it was not possible to pay them social security benefits because the law then required that a disabled person have worked at least five out of the last 10 years before he became disabled in order to qualify.

But last year, recognizing that many young people are struck down by disability before they have worked long enough to build up five years of social security credit, an amendment was added to the social security law which enabled younger disabled workers to qualify with less work.

Benefits for a disabled worker now range from $55 to $169.90 a month, depending on his average earnings before he became disabled. If he has dependents, total family monthly payments can amount to $395.60.

Benefits may begin with the 7th full month of disability. Payments continue as long as the disability prevents you from working, or un-

Communist Mine Explosion Kills 16 U.S. Crewmen

By BERT W. OKULEY

SAGON — (UPI) — U. S. bombardment of North Vietnam ended at 9 p. m. Friday in a new American bid to end the Vietnam War at a peace conference. Plane and ships which had been blasting the North since Aug. 5, 1964, swung toward South Vietnam where new action was reported.

A Communist mine explosion in the Mekong Delta wrecked a U. S. Navy LST post, killing 16 American crewmen with eight more listed as missing, and Viet Cong rocket attacks on Saigon and Hue killed 32 persons and wounded 87. The rocket battles were the heaviest of the war in terms of lives lost.

U. S. Marine headquarters at Da Nang said a 500-pound bomb dropped accidentally by a U. S. Air Force jet on a crowded South Vietnamese marketplace last Tuesday killed 3 peasants and wounded 72.

Although the ground war in South Vietnam continued in a general lull with no major offensives by either side, U. S. infantrymen operating along the Cambodian border 60 miles northwest of Saigon reported killing 42 Communists in a battle Thursday that cost five Americans wounded.

ATTACK MARINE BASE

A few hours after President Johnson announced a halt in the bombing of North Vietnam, Communist artillery crews fired across the Demilitarized Zone in an attack on the U. S. Marine base at Dong Ha.

No casualties or serious damage was reported at Dong Ha, but a similar Communist barrage now that the bombing halt has gone into effect could violate one of the conditions implied by Johnson in ordering the end of the American raids on the North.

The bombing of the North over the past four years starting with the August, 1964, Gulf of Tonkin incident in which two American destroyers were attacked by North Vietnamese gunboats, has seen American planes unload more explosive power than they did in the entire Pacific theater in World War II.

More than 2 million tons of bombs were dropped on North Vietnam in almost 100,000 missions.

HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

FOUGHT WELL AND HARD — President Lyndon B. Johnson has sent a telegram to losing Democratic Candidate Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey praising him for his battle "fought well and hard" to win the presidency and told him he was proud of "the brave, enlightened and vigorous campaign you have waged . . ."

Secy. Of State Assures S. Viet Of U.S. Support

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk challenged those Friday who have demanded a halt in bombing of North Vietnam to now "make good their promise that 'something good would happen' toward ending the war."

"We think the move is up to Hanoi," and those who can influence the North Vietnamese, Rusk told a news conference eight hours after the United States stopped all air, sea and artillery bombardment of North Vietnam in the hope of prompting serious peace talks in Paris.

Besides putting the burden of action on Hanoi, Rusk also sought to assure South Vietnam of full U. S. support at this delicate stage in events and to put an end to speculation that the timing of President Johnson's decision was politically motivated.

At another point, he said the United States shall continue our solidarity with our friends in South Vietnam to insure they are proabled workers are converted into retirement benefits without change in the amount.

If you have a friend or relative who is disabled and unable to work, you should have him get in touch with the nearest social security office. He may find that there's money waiting for him.

MY WEEKLY SERMON

By REV. BLAIR T. HUNT, PASTOR, MISSISSIPPI RIVER CHRISTIAN CHURCH, MEMPHIS, TENN.

"THE IMMORTALITY OF FAITH, HOPE AND LOVE"

Text: "And Now Abides Faith Hope Love, these three but the greatest of these is Love." — I Cor. 13:13.

Now abides faith and love; these three abides forever, while so much must "pass away," why may faith, hope and love abide forever? the answer comes; They are the dress of souls, not of bodies. They belong to character, not merely conduct. They are the garments of the soul. For when we who are Christians shall live again, live on and on, we shall not be clothed with dying clay we will not wear the fading garments of mortal flesh but with the garments of faith, hope and love. We shall step into the eternal world with just the clothing of character.

The poet, Lawrence Knowles wrote words based on the fifteenth chapter of first Corinthians:

"This body is my house, it is not I; here in I sojourn till, in some far sky, I leave a fairer building. Built to last till all the carpentry of time is past. When from a high place viewing this lone star, what shall I care where these poor timbers are? What though the crumbling walls turn dust and loam. This body is my house, it is not I, triumphant in this faith I live and die."

Faith is immortal. Faith is the "evidence of thing not seen." We must trust and believe all that God has said. To wish to see is to rebel. As long as there is any body on Earth wiser than we shall have to believe what they say. If in Heaven there is one spirit wiser than we, we will have to believe.

Yes, faith is immortal. God is omniscient. Therefore we must believe God forever and ever; God knows all things we don't. Even in heaven we must have faith in God. Hope is immortal. In this life hope seems to change, but in reality hope abides. Hope only changes its subjects. If we are still to grow in the eternal world, in heaven, we must have something ever before us and above us to hope for. Heaven cannot be a mere stereotype of our Christian life on earth. Hope is a treasure in heaven. Hope is immortal.

Now abides faith, hope and love but of these three love is the greatest. Love is the greatest because God is love and there is nothing greater than God. All kinds of love tend to abide; they even strive to increase and grow. Life may greatly change with us, multiplied sorrows may come to us, but there are some who love us whose love keeps on and on. True mothers love abides. We go out into the eternal world with love folded like Holy robes about our spirits. And that kind of love which we call Christian love has the same abiding power as mother's love. If love abides in Christian life, can it be possible that death, which is but the servant of Christ be able to conquer and finish it? Love is a heavenly state, it is the place of union; the uniting bond must be love. Love is a home, the most sanctifying power in a home is love. Love is the place where God is in all, "God is Love," these whom God teaches to love he teaches to love forever.

Now abides faith, hope and love, these three but the greatest of these is love. God so loved that he gave us his life.

GOP Makes Strong Bid For Power Control

By MICHAEL L. POSNER

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Republicans made their strongest bid in a dozen years Tuesday to seize control of the House and Senate from the Democrats.

Democrats started in front in races for seats in the 91st Congress by electing 37 uncontested House members. Republican candidates had no opposition in 8 districts.

All 435 House Seats and 34 of the 100 Senate seats were at stake. A majority of 218 congressmen control the House. Fifty-one senators assure Senate control.

As the hectic campaign drew to a close, Republicans hoped for a big win by Richard M. Nixon as a means of carrying many GOP congressional candidates on his coattails. Democrats had the same hopes with Hubert H. Humphrey.

In the recently adjourned 90th Congress, Democrats controlled the House, 247 to 188. Democrats held 63 seats in the Senate to the GOP's 37. Twenty-three Democratic seats were being filled while Republicans controlled 11.

In virtually every political analysis before election day Republicans were given their best chance in 12 years of wresting control, or of picking up seats. The Democrats have held majorities in Congress since 1964.

Republicans last held control of both House and Senate for two years after Dwight D. Eisenhower's 1952 sweep.

The next Congress faced some of modern day history's most pressing domestic problems but in addition Congress could, in the chance of a deadlock among the three presidential contenders in the Electoral College, be called upon to select the next president.

Mathematically, Republicans had a slight chance to gain control, but realistically, this was considered virtually impossible in the Senate and remote in the House.

Republicans needed a neat gain of 30 seats to assure House control. Republican House Leader Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., predicted this result.

In the Senate, the GOP needed 14 additional seats to the 37 now held for a voting edge. Republicans however could organize the Senate with a total of only 50 seats should Richard M. Nixon win since his vice president Spiro T. Agnew would hold the tie-breaking vote.

Businessman Gets Record Loan From SBA In N.C.

Congressman William F. Ryan of New York has announced that Mr. Marion Harris, a black business of Fayetteville, North Carolina, will receive a $350,000 loan, the largest loan negotiated to date by the Small Business Administration in its program, PRO-JEOT OWN, which seeks to accelerate ownership of small business enterprises by members of the minority groups.

Mr. Harris, who won a contract by competitive bidding for the laundry and dry cleaning concession at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, was faced with financial ruin in June, when his plant and equipment were destroyed by fire bombing only two days after he won the contract over white competitors.

Although the Regional CBA office was willing to guarantee it, Mr. Harris was unable to obtain a loan from the local banking institutions to reopen his business. Mr. Marion Harris then sought the assistance of Congressman Ryan and the Small Business Administration, the loan was secured in conjunction with the Mechanics and Farmers Bank of Durham, N. C., the First National City Bank of New York and the Amalgamated Savings and Trust Bank of Chicago, Illinois. It is guaranteed by the small Business Administration.

Howard Samuels, Administrator of the Small Business Administration, pointed out that this loan demonstrates the purposes of PRO-JEOT OWN, the "cooperative of government and private industry to help minorities obtain a significant place in the business world as their own boss."

Humphrey flew home after a party given by Lloyd Hand, former U. S. chief of protocol. Most of the show business celebrities who helped the vice president's two hour telethon gathered at the Hand home.

Creator Of 'Julia' Becomes 'Pen Pal' Of All America

HOLLYWOOD -- Hal Kanter, creator-producer of "Julia," has added new activity to his life.

He's become a pen pal-- to America.

Since the Tuesday night series premiered on the NBC Television Network this fall, the show has been besieged with overwhelmingly favorable mail.

Though time won't permit him to make a habit of it, Kanter has made an effort to answer many of these first letters individually, as illustrated by the following examples:

WADSWORTH, OHIO: BRAVO! America needs it.

KANTER: Thank you. You have a neat handwriting and -- obviously -- a neat mind, too.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.: First fan letter ever! "Julia" is great, it says it all. Just label me a 41-year-old housewife who knows where it's at.

KANTER: We appreciate your kind words and hope you will be able to watch JULIA with interest until you are a 61-year-old housewife who still knows where it's at.

DEERFIELD, ILL.: I tuned in to see how you handled the story of a black nurse. (I'm a white one.) I found myself completely captivated. Now I'm concerned that someone will "phony" it up -- don't do it!

KANTER: Like you, we hope that nobody will "phony" it up. Please keep watching and let us know if anyone does.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.: Mr. Kanter, I would like to tell you that I enjoyed your new show, "Julia" very much. I'm a Negro housewife and have four small children. We loved it. Keep up the good work.

KANTER: Thank you for your charming note.

PAXTON, MASS.: All adjectives seem weak. I am so delighted with

When only the purest will do:
VASELINE® PETROLEUM JELLY helps prevent diaper rash...from diaper change to diaper change...with a continuous film, providing a moisture shield. Especially formulated for complete purity. No wonder 9 out of 10 mothers insist on genuine Vaseline® Petroleum Jelly. You pay a little more than for other brands of petroleum jelly...but your baby is worth it!

Second Hospital Ship A Prospect For Hope

WASHINGTON — Project HOPE seeks to add a second hospital ship to its medical teaching and treatment programs once the war in Vietnam has ended.

This prospect was announced by Dr. William B. Walsh, founder and President of Project HOPE, in the organization's annual report released this week.

"With the hope that the war in Vietnam may soon end," Dr. Walsh said, "we have made initial provision for the expansion into a second vessel. We have received written indication from the Department of Defense that they would look with favor upon our request for an additional hospital ship after the cessation of hostilities in the Far East."

The principal activity of Project HOPE today is the hospital ship S. S. HOPE, now midway through a ten-month medical teaching and treatment mission to Ceylon. In addition, Project HOPE conducts "shore-based" medical teaching programs in Peru, Ecuador, Nicaragua and Colombia.

The hospital ship S. S. HOPE, formerly the U. S. S. Consolation, has been on loan to Project HOPE from the U. S. Navy since 1960. The second hospital ship for the Project—presumably would be one of the Navy hospital ships now in service in Vietnam.

Dr. Walsh said the need for a second ship is underscored by the 24 invitations Project HOPE now has for a visit of the hospital ship. Since its christening in 1960 the S. S. HOPE has conducted programs in Indonesia, South Vietnam, Peru, Ecuador, Guinea, Nicaragua, Colombia and now Ceylon.

In the annual report statement, Dr. Walsh said "The world needs what HOPE can offer, and we have a moral commitment to expand our efforts as far as our financial support from the American people will permit."

"The Board of Directors," Dr. Walsh said, "has recommended that certain funds be set in reserve in preparation for a second hospital ship so that when the opportunity presents itself, the Project will be in a position to immediately take advantage of it."

Former Board Member Of N. C. Mutual Inc. Dies

David C. Deans, Jr., former vice president-agency director and board member of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company died Thursday, Oct. 31, 1968 in Richmond, Virginia.

The 80-year-old Mr. Deans, a native of Essex County Virginia, joined the service of North Carolina Mutual in 1920 as manager of the company's Richmond District.

So outstandingly successful was he in the management of the district that in 1924 the entire State of Virginia was put in his charge aged. The entire program was a poor imitation of a Negro mother-son relationship in a home without a father.

KANTER: We hope that you will find future episodes of our series more palatable than the first, which apparently upset you. In any event, we do appreciate the articulation of your views.

BEDFORD, IND.: ...It had the right touch--the touch of truth...That's what all us hicks...desperately want and hunger for...Play it for real, trust the truth, trust our good sense and the old-fashioned American love of fair play and you can help dissipate the dark monsters that trouble us all. The truth about our races...frees us all and makes of us into a single family of mankind. My God, we have enough common enemies--disease, death, pain, disillusion, failure, uncertainty, hunger, loneliness, superstition, fear, poverty, oppression, emptiness of purpose, self-hate, desire...What if all men oppression, emptiness of purpose.

Tell Diahann Carroll that I think she is beautiful. Tell Hal Kanter that I think he is beautiful, too.

KANTER: Your eloquent and moving letter has touched us all...We think you're beautiful, too.

Un Profiles

Our United Nations is always observing and doing its best to practice HUMAN RIGHT so when we learn that a former Representative to the UN Human Rights Commission has won the NOBEL PEACE PRIZE, we look upon him as a U. N. PROFILE--RENE CASSIN who at one time served as French Representative to the UN Human Commission.

There is no doubt that every U. N. Profile is today very pleased that the Nobel Committee decided to mark the 20th anniversary of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights with the award of its peace prize to Professor Rene Cassin of France, chairman of the Council of Europe's Tribunal on Human Rights.

Professor Cassin who is 81 years old is receiving 350,000 Swedish crowns about $67,000, a diploma and a gold medal at a ceremony in Oslo, Norway December 10th, anniversary of the death of Dr. Alfred Nobel. He is the 11th French Nobel Peace Prize-winner since the prize was first awarded in 1901.

The late Albert Schweitzer, the missionary surgeon and author, was the last French citizen to receive the prize in 1952.

With our former U. N. Profile receiving this prize is the first since

Leon Sullivan Reaches New Status As 'Black Power' Leader In Phila

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. -- (SNS) Six years ago, the Reverend Leon Sullivan, minister of Zion Baptist Church in Philadelphia, was labeled a dangerous radical for stirring up the blacks against the business establishment through his selective jailing campaign.

Today, he is not only the most honored Black Power spokesman in Philadelphia; he is fast becoming the All-American black.

Recently the Ford Foundation took a look at the rebel-turned-sensible Black Power crusader. As a result it purchased $300,000 of non-voting common stock in Progress Enterprises, Inc., which was organized by Mr. Sullivan.

The company is the investment

1965 when it was given to the United Nations Children's Fund; and in 1964 we can well remember that it was given to the late Dr. Martin Luther King. These Nobel prizes are distributed annually out of the fortune left by Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite who said in 1896.

It seems if our U. N. Profiles do stir interest all over the world because it was learned that candidates for this year's prize were selected to have included U. N. SECRETARY GENERAL U. Thant and others.

It seems that the committee wished to underline the importance of human rights in the wake of events in Czechoslovakia and Greece. Reasons are never given for the ward nor has the committee ever handed out biographical material on the prize winners. But this year the committee did release a 300 word statement underlining Cassin's efforts for human rights.

Many organizations, including the National Council of Women here in New York City, are having programs, Workshops, Lectures, etc. promoting Human Rights in some way, so we might feel that the world-wide observance of Human Rights by and through the United Nations is doing some good both here and abroad.

Our UN GLOBAL Correspondent will keep our readers informed on vital issues and activities engaged in by our U. N. Profiles at all times.

arm of a program for economic development and job training. Its capital was pooled from $10 monthly contributions by members of the congregation of Zion Baptist Church.

Currently completing a $1.7 million Progress Plaza Shopping Center in Philadelphia, the church corporation, contemplates similar shopping centers in 12 other cities. The Ford Foundation said the stock purchase was to provide additional capital for this goal. Ford's investment in Progress Enterprises is part of a venture in which the Foundation will place a portion of its investment portfolio in projects promising a "high social yield."

Mr. Sullivan grew up in poverty in Charleston, West Virginia; was ordained a Baptist minister at 17, and won an athletic scholarship to West Virginia State College. He played basketball and football before a knee injury forced him off the athletic field and into a night shift job in a steel mill while he finished his education.

In 1942, Adam Clayton Powell on a visit to West Virginia persuaded Mr. Sullivan to attend Union Theological Seminary in New York, and later made him assistant pastor at his church.

The late fifties found Mr. Sullivan making his presence felt in Philadelphia through his efforts to organize a group of black clergyman known as "The 400 Ministers," a campaign of selective patronage against firms they felt discriminated against blacks.

While this campaign got almost no publicity in the white community, it did bring results. Blacks were employed in considerable numbers.

But even when the job barriers came down, many of the blacks who needed jobs were simply not qualified. It was this dilemma that set Mr. Sullivan on the course that was to end by making him a hero in Philadelphia.

"I realized in the beginning that we had to do two things," he said. "We had to break down discrimination against Negroes, and train ourselves to be able to take the jobs. We decided to go after discrimination first."

"We'd put on a campaign of selective patronage against one company and then another. That's the way you have to build. Brick by brick. Then we had to start training. Integration without preparation is frustration."

Mr. Sullivan's first job training center got underway in 1953. He envisioned it as a movement of pride, of blacks working with blacks to make their place in an integrated society of black and white. His cup raised $100,000 in seed money from small business and individual contributions.

The Ford Foundation gave $200,000 and Philadelphia corporations came through with $250,000 more, in addition to offering advice and equipment for this bold enterprise. The first center -- Opportunities Industrialization Center -- was established in an abandoned North Philadelphia jail house.

Philadelphia's OIC now has five centers operating on an annual budget of $3 million, about 80 per cent of which comes from the Office of Economic Opportunity. Similar OIC's have been launched in 85 cities.

The Labor Department estimates that Philadelphia's OIC has added $8 million to the city's economy, as well as relieving the state of an estimated $15 million in welfare payments, and in a tight labor market, the potential of the black labor force is appreciated. (ANP Feature.)

Is peroxide needed to color unwanted gray hair?

Hair care and beauty experts know that the first traces of gray hair--and even slight fading of natural color after chemical relaxing--can dull a woman's appearance and make her look older than she feels. While most women hate these premature aging effects, many are hesitant about using permanent peroxide haircoloring which may change the natural hair color while coloring gray.

Professionally-trained hairdressers know the importance of their customers' preferences when unwanted gray becomes a problem. These experts also know that Clairol created semi-permanent Loving Care® hair color lotion without peroxide...to color only the gray without changing the natural shade. They also find Loving Care blends back color faded by chemical processing. Because of its mildness, Loving Care maintains healthy looking hair and lasts through a month of shampoos. Whatever a woman's reason for wanting Loving Care for her hair, she is always wise to consult a professional beautician. Hairdressers are equipped with a family of fine Clairol products and the training to promise each patron the loveliest and most personalized haircoloring effects every time she visits her salon. If you dislike gray, and want no peroxide, why not ask your beautician to glamorize it with Loving Care?

LEMOYNE-OWEN COLLEGE TO QUIT SIAC

The Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference will lose one of its long-time members when recently merged LeMoyne-Owen College bows out of the close of the 1968-69 academic year. The Memphis-based institution has accepted an invitation to join the Volunteer State Athletic Conference. The defection will leave the SIAC with a conference scheduling problem in basketball since the Magicians did not play football. Already, with Benedict College of Columbia, S.C., on the sidelines as a result of quitting the pigskin sport, it appears that Albany State and Savannah State may be courted.

The announcement that LeMoyne-Owen College was making its exit from the SIAC was made by Athletic Director and head basketball coach Jerry Johnson. In a statement, Johnson hinted that Knoxville, Tenn., has under study when it will follow LeMoyne-Owen College into the Volunteer State Athletic Conference.

The deadline given Knoxville College to make up its mind about following LeMoyne-Owen College into the circuit is Nov. 15th.

LANE COLLEGE JACKSON, TENN., has turned down invitation to join the league, citing a desire to maintain traditional alliances for the time being. The Dragons noted their long standing and harmonious ties with the SIAC and expressing a desire to continue this wholesome relationship.

KNOXVILLE COLLEGE has been a long-time door mat in the SIAC and has several win-less seasons since Athletic Director Julian Bell won the conference basketball. The Bulldogs are in a state of gradual decline in sports, but has managed to compete in several sports.

This strengthens the belief that Knoxville College may be on the verge of making its exit into the integrated league. There is a decision already made by Central State, Wilberforce, Ohio; Lincoln (Mo.) Jefferson City, Mo.; and Kentucky State, Frankfort.

YOU MAY ADD TO THIS LIST such institutions as Bluefield State, Langston U. (Okla.), Lincoln (Pa.) West Virginia State and Chesapeake State to name a few.

Several "border states" schools such as Delaware State, Maryland State, Howard University, et al. practice scheduling in predominantly white conferences.

Southern University has served notice on the Southwestern Athletic Conference that it plans to relinquish membership, although setting no date for its action.

However, Southern University took this initiative during the administration of Dr. Milton W. Clark, but this action is not incumbent upon recently named administrator Dr. G. Leon Nettlesville.

Tennessee State during the administration of Dr. Walter B. Davis made a real place in athletic membership in the Mid-South Valley Conference but was rebuffed because its facilities were described as inadequate. Tennessee State has doubled the capacity of W. J. Hale Stadium, but the Missouri Valley Conference turned up its nose at $900 seat Henry A. Ketch Gymnasium. Most Missouri Valley Conference schools have field houses.

Job Situation In Urban Poverty Shows Great Improvement In '68

WASHINGTON — The employment situation for workers in the poverty neighborhoods of the Nation's 100 largest cities improved at a rate faster than that for all workers between the third quarters of 1967 and 1968, the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has announced.

At 5.9 percent in the third quarter of 1968, the jobless rate in poverty neighborhoods was down from 6.5 per cent in the third quarter of 1967. In the same period, the unemployment rate for all workers in the Nation fell from 3.8 to 3.5. Improved economic conditions combined with programs aimed specially at the disadvantaged have assisted in reducing joblessness in the poverty neighborhoods.

The decline in the jobless rate was accompanied by a drop in employment and the labor force between the third quarters of 1967 and 1968. The population in poverty neighborhoods also declined substantially over this period; all of these developments probably reflect the movement of workers out of these neighborhoods into the other urban neighborhoods.

All of the decline in unemployment in the poverty neighborhoods between the third quarters of 1967 and 1968 occurred among Negroes. Their unemployment rate, at 10.6 percent, was substantially below the 1967 rate of 12.3 percent. The jobless rate for whites at 6.2 percent in the third quarter of 1968 was not significantly changed from a year ago. The third quarter 1968 unemployment rate for Negroes was 1.3 times the white rate, compared with a 1.9:1 ratio a year earlier.

In the other urban neighborhoods, the jobless rate fell from 3.7 to 3.5 percent over the year, with all of the improvement occurring among Negroes. Between the third quarters of 1967 and 1968, the unemployment rate for Negroes in poverty neighborhoods improved from 34.8 to 25.9 percent, while the jobless rate for white teenagers — at 14.8 percent — was not significantly changed.

The unemployment rate for adult men in poverty neighborhoods averaged 3.6 percent in the third quarter, compared to 4.0 percent a year ago. The rate for white adult men declined by 0.5 percentage point to 3.1 percent over the year, joblessness among Negro adult men was unchanged.

The joblessness among Negro adult men was unchanged.

The jobless rate for adult women in poverty neighborhoods averaged 6.0 percent in the third quarter of both 1967 and 1968. An increase in joblessness among white women was offset by a decline for Negro women. The unemployment rate for Negro women in poverty neighborhoods at 5.5 percent in the third quarter of 1968, was at about same level as for Negro women in other urban neighborhoods.

The poverty neighborhood labor force diminished by 300,000 workers in the year. Whites accounted for three-fourths of the drop. Many workers who left the labor force probably moved out of these areas into other urban neighborhoods since population estimates for poverty neighborhoods show a substantial drop over the year. The labor force participation rate in poverty neighborhoods was unchanged between the third quarters of 1967 and 1968.

Improvement of persons living in poverty neighborhoods totaled 6.1 million in the third quarter of 1968, 250,000 fewer than the 6.3 million in the third quarter of 1967. Adult white workers benefited from the improvement in the poverty neighborhoods, and there was also a small decline in employment of Negro men. The number of unemployed persons declined by 80,000.

Ala. State Hornets Come From Behind, Nip A & M Bulldogs, 27-21

By MARCEL HOPSON

Coach Whitney Van Cleave's stalling Alabama State College Hornets, down by 21 points for two and one-half quarters, stormed back and pounded Coach Louis Crews' Alabama A. & M. College Bulldogs 27 to 21, in the 27th Annual Magic City Classic at Legion Field, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 2.

Before an estimated attendance between 30,000 and 35,000, the State Hornets bounded back late in the third quarter and rolled to their sixth victory against one tie and no defeats.

The Hornets have now scored 229 points and allowed their seven opponents only 118 points. On the other hand A. & M. has only 188 points against 166 points for their seven opponents this season.

Meanwhile, the Hornets from Montgomery moved one step closer to deadlocking the Birmingham Series. A. & M. owns the edge with 13 wins, while State now has 12 Birmingham triumphs. Both teams have settled the argument in two ties. This event also spelled the second straight win for a Van Cleave-coached Hornet team over A. & M.

A. & M. took the ball on the game-opening kickoff and kept the oval for 12 minutes of the 15 minute first quarter and moved ahead, 7-0. With All-America quarterback Ornee Jackson at the throttle, A. & M. moved the kickoff ball 64 yards in 12 plays to the 16-yard line. On a second down play, Jackson fired a 16-yard touchdown pass to Jerome Wells. Soccer-kicker Duke Urah kicked the PAT.

After receiving possession of the ball for the first time, State moved the ball 61 yards up the field on 14 plays and bogged down on the 23-yard line. Immediately, Bulldogs' Ornee Jackson launched a second scoring drive, hitting Wells for 15 yards in the air and handing off to William Sanders and Levon Johnson for 30 yards on the ground, moving the ball to the 35-yard line just as the first quarter ended.

Sanders chewed up nine yards and took a nine-yard pass from Jackson, moving the ball to the three-yard line during the first few minutes of the second quarter. On a third down-keeper, Jackson bulleted over one yard for A. & M.'s second touchdown. Urah's soccer toe made it 14-0 for A. & M.

State elected to pass on a third down play, and A. & M.'s John Morrisett intercepted and returned the ball 69 yards to the tight-yard stripe Jackson passed eight yards to Oliver Ross for A. & M.'s third touchdown and a 21-0 lead at halftime. Urah toed his third PAT.

The remainder of the second quarter was State's Joel Smith each getting an aerial steal.

State suddenly got their third scoring opportunity when A. & M. fumbled the after State score kickoff and Hornets' Averett recovered the ball on the 13-yard line. A 15 yard penalty followed, moving State back to the 28-yard line. Ivy rolled off ten yards, misfired a second down pass, and then hit Pleasant with a 30 yard third down pass for State's third touchdown. Ivy passed to Scott for a two-point PAT and deadlocked the game at 21-21 on the final play of the third quarter.

Two threatening A. & M. goalward were stopped by State's Rayford Parker who recovered an A. & M. fumble and Willie Mitchell who intercepted dan Ornee Jackson pass. A. & M. forced State to punt and State forced A. & M. to punt on the following exchange. The ball landing on the 49-yard stripe. On a first down play, with 33 seconds left in the game, Lloyd Ivy evaded a trap and ripped a booming 49-yard pass into the arms of Johnny Pleasant who fell back into the end-zone for the game-winning touchdown. The PAT mis-fired.

Thelma 1:8 seconds of the game saw Ornee Jackson fire two incomplete passes.

Clark College's Panthers proved Saturday afternoon that a team's won-lost record is the best judge as they upset the heavily favored Morehouse College Tigers, 10-7 at Herndon Memorial Stadium.

The L. S. Eppsman entered the game with a 2-3-0 record, but were somehow the underdogs, while the Maroon Tigers, sporting a 0-2-2 record, were highly picked to win the game. The odd-makers were wrong.

With two seconds left on the scoreboard, Clark's Henry Earls, a graduate of Turner High School, booted a 44-yard field goal for the winning points, and the victory cheers could be heard all over town.

The Earls field goal came about after two scoreless quarters. Clark open the third period on a winning note. With first down at Morehouse's 33 yard line, Earls went to the air and connected with Ronald Young for the game's first score. Earls booted the point after.

Morehouse tied the game 7-7 in the early minutes of the final period when defensive lineman Ken Weaver, a graduate of Atlanta's Harper High, intercepted a Earl pass at Clark (22 yard mark).

With a pass interference call against Clark at the 1-yard line, Morehouse's Andrew Smith, a product of Atlanta's Carver High, busted over from 1-yard out. It took the Tigers four downs to get the ball over. Frank Eunice booted the point after.

The Panthers almost scored in the second period when they marched to the Tigers inch yard line before a stone wall was thrown up.

Morehouse went into deep scoring ground, but a tough Clark defense forced a field goal situation, that was wide.

Bethune Cookman's Larry Little Tops With San Diego Chargers

VAN DIEGO, Calif. — The San Diego Chargers are looking for a big thing from a Little "Chicken Man" this season.

This particular "Chicken Man" is defensive guard Larry Little, 6-1, 240-pound two-year veteran from Bethune-Cookman College of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Little picked up the monster "Chicken Man" from his Charger teammates because of his enormous appetite for the feathered fowl in the fried state.

Let opposing linemen call him something else. Parents in bygone days washed their kids mouth with soap and water for saying things like that.

Remembering Larry's gridiron performance are drawing raves from Chargers offensive line coach Joe Little, who resides in Miami, Fla., where he went to Booker T. Washington High School, is getting that experience as the season progresses.

How does Larry feel about playing against the hometown Miami Dolphins?

"It feels good!" exclaimed Little. "I have a good feeling about playing against them, especially when we beat them. When we lose, all my friends kid me about it and that's something I can do without."

Nearly every athlete has had some idol when he was in high school and college. Larry is no exception. His was Jim Parker of the Baltimore Colts.

"I liked Parker," said Little, "because he was such a fierce ball player and hard blocker. I used to like the way he hit on blocks and I tried to pattern myself after him."

Coach Mauro thinks Little is on the verge of doing just that. "Next year he could do it all, put it all together. He has speed, size, quickness, hits, has good attitude and good effort."

Larry thinks it is harder to become a pro when you come from a so-called small college. "It's especially hard when you're a free agent. You really have to put out to make the grade."

Larry credits most of his early development as a player to Lloyd (Tank) Johnson, his defensive end coach in high school.

"He's the one that really put it in my mind that you have to hit and hit hard," recalled Little. "In the pros it's been Coach Mauro, who has taken a lot of extra time helping me."

Meanwhile the "Chicken Man" is getting more experience, making less mistakes and enjoying it more. Something the opposition can't say.

Humphrey-Nixon Blitz Country In Last Minute Stand Of Election

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON — (UPI)

Richard M. Nixon and Hubert H. Humphrey blitzed America by television Monday at the end of a suddenly close presidential campaign which was complicated by George C. Wallace's threat to deny either man a clear victory.

The final reading by the major pollsters showed Nixon's once gap leading narrowed down to percentage points — with twice that number of voters still undecided. The polls said Wallace's third party protest vote fell off to less than 15 per cent, indicating he lost one out of four potential votes in the closing weeks of the campaign.

Both Republican Nixon and Democrat Humphrey spent their final campaign day in Nixon's native state of California, which Democrats had first tended to write off as hopelessly lost to Nixon despite his defeat there six years ago in the gubernatorial election.

LARGE TURNOUT
A substantial voter turnout was anticipated despite signs of widespread disenchantment with both parties and their candidates — as demonstrated by Wallace's crowds. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's popularity in polls of Republicans, the primary election supporters of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and of Eugene J. McCarthy.

The estimated were that 75 million of the 118 million Americans of voting age might cast ballots. A turnout equal to the 63 per cent who participated in the 1954 election would bring 74,833,000 to the polls.

In addition to voting for the 37th U. S. President and his vice president, Americans will elect an entirely new House of Representatives of 435 members, 34 senators, 21 governors and legislatures in 42 states as well as thousands of local officials.
Republican control of the House was considered a remote possibility

World Of Religion

BY LOUIS CASSELS

UPI Religion Writer

Most big religious denominations have substantial sums of money to invest.

It comes from endowments, the reserves of clergy pension funds, church-operated insurance plans and similar sources.

In the past, it has been invested conservatively in blue chip securities, savings banks or safe return real estate.

Today, however, major Protestant bodies are blazing a new trail in Christian stewardship of money. They are channeling some of their investment funds into urban ghettos to finance housing and job-creating business enterprises. And they are choosing for their support projects which are owned and operated by Negroes or members of other ghetto-dwelling minorities.

The United Presbyterian Church has invested more than $1.1 million in ghetto business and housing enterprises during recent months, and hopes to raise the figure to $3 million by the end of the year.

RECEIVE MANDATE

The Presbyterian investments are being made under a mandate from the church's General Assembly. At its annual meeting last May, it instructed all denominational boards and agencies to make available 30 per cent of the unrestricted funds in their investment portfolios for investment in ghetto enterprises that might offer low return and higher than normal risk.

The Episcopal Church has in recent months diverted $720,000 of its funds from big city banks to Negro-controlled ghetto banks. These funds are placed on time deposit, which means they are available to the banks for loans to ghetto enterprises.

A number of Episcopal dioceses are following the example of the national church by depositing part of their reserve funds in banks that are prime sources of loan capital to Negro entrepreneurs in the inner city.

Some large local congregations also have been getting in the act. In Rochester, N. Y., Brick Presbyterian Church and St. Paul's Episcopal Church recently agreed to invest $110,000 of their endowment funds in the Rochester business opportunities corporation, which was formed to help inner city residents achieve "self-realization and economic independence."

ECUMENICAL KIT

The National Council of Catholic women is making nationwide distribution of an ecumenical kit for children.

The council figures that children are born without prejudices, and are therefore more ready adults for the ecumenical message that "We are all children of one God."

The kits contain factual information about the beliefs and practices of Baptist, Methodists, Friends, Mormons, Jews and other religious groups that a Catholic child may encounter in a heterogeneous American neighborhood.

Rep. Bond Speaks At Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Georgia State Representative Julian Bond told a capacity audience at Tuskegee Institute recently that a Democratic presidential defeat this year does not mean that it will be easier to achieve reform in the Democratic party.

As an example he cited the situation in the Republican party in 1964 and 1968, commenting that their defeat in 1964 did not change anything. "The same bunch of clowns that controlled the party in '64 controls it now," he stated.

When asked his advice to the black community if George Wallace were to become president, Bond said that it is useless to think that all the good people would get together and overthrow him. He said his advice to black people would be: "Those who live in this part of the country should go to Mexico, and those who live in the North should go to Canada."

On the possibility of a Negro being elected vice president of the United States, Bond stated, "It might be more likely to happen in the Republican party... because I think the Republicans have in their midst the kind of man who could attract large numbers of black and white American voters, the Negro senator from Massachusetts, Senator Edward Brooke. He has greater prominence in his party than has any Negro in the Democratic party."

Bond stated that he is for "voluntary separatism," and defined the concept as the option to choose integration or separation and said "I would hope that until we've reached a point in this society where we can honestly say that we are everyman's equal in fact, that we would voluntarily separate ourselves, particularly politically."

Comparing the situation in Vietnam to the City of Tuskegee, Bond stated that what is going on in Tuskegee for many years, "a struggle for the right of self-determination."

He further stated, "To take the view that we shouldn't have gotten involved in Vietnam, but since we're there we have to stay, is asinine as saying, 'This building is on fire and we shouldn't be here, but since we are, let's stay here!'"

When asked the role of a school like Tuskegee Institute in today's world, Bond said that it has two responsibilities. "One is to give the students, not just the kinds of books they need to make life better for other black people but the will to do it. And secondly a responsibility to improve conditions for the black people who live in the community around it."

Refuses Paris Peace Talks

SAIGON — UPI — President Nguyen Van Thieu Monday reiterated the refusal to send a South Vietnamese negotiating team to the expanded Paris talks with the Viet CONG. "Nobody can force us to go that," he said.

As Thieu addressed the nation over radio and television, his aides predicted that 6,000 persons would attend a government-sponsored rally at Saigon City Hall Tuesday morning to stress South Vietnamese "self-determination in political affairs."

INCREASE SECURITY

U. S. officials increased security forces outside the American Embassy and erected wooden barricades outside the building. Military commanders ordered American troops to stay out of downtown Saigon unless on official business.

Thieu's 18-minute broadcast address Monday night was his first official statement since Saturday when he told a meeting of the National Assembly in Saigon he would boycott the Paris talks scheduled to open Wednesday if the Viet CONG were seated as a delegation separate from the North Vietnamese.

Thieu said it was his understanding that the National Liberation Front NLF political arm of the Viet CONG would appear at the Paris conference table as separate delegation.

"Don't listen to the Communist propaganda saying we agreed to talk with the NLF, and that the war is going to end and that you should throw down your arms and join them," Thieu said in a remark directed at South Vietnamese troops.

WONT AGREE

"We have said we won't agree to talk with the NLF at Paris, and nobody can force us to do that," he described as "mistaken" those who thought his stand was taken for political reasons and was only a temporary position.

President Johnson, in his speech last Thursday night announcing the halt in bombardment of the North, said South Vietnam "was free" to participate in new Paris talks which would involve the United States.

North Vietnam and the NLF Thieu fears that admission of the NLF as a separate entity at the talks would constitute political recognition of the Viet CONG and lead to a coalition government in Saigon that would lead to an eventual Communist takeover.

WOMAN TO WOMAN

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK — (UPI) — Some things money can't buy for the mentally retarded.

A social worker, their parents not even a doctor can give them such things.

Call the things special chances. Young people looking for challenging weekend and after school jobs are — for no pay — given many retarded youngsters such chances. There is no shortage of such jobs — just a shortage of volunteers.

In addition to time, volunteers draw on their patience, courage, imagination, dedication.

The President's Committee on Mental Retardation addresses itself to potential volunteers in a booklet just out. From the title, "To Your Future... With Love," you know the appeal's got heart.

Said a girl describing her volunteer experience:

"We never had a spare moment," she reported in her school paper. "Learning names, dispersing, playing, feeding, comforting or just plain cuddling became an active part of our day. The days were long and hard."

"What did we get for this?"

"We had our hair pulled, our arms and legs pinched, toys thrown at us. We ducked and dodged and became disgusted but we always went back for more."

"It was the youngsters reaching out for you, and the good feeling you had when they remembered you. It was all those little things they did that seemed to say — I need you."

The National Association for Retarded Children NARC now has a national organization called Youth-NARC for young people who want to help the mentally retarded.

There are chapters nationwide. Teen-agers who want to help are advised to get in touch with the local unit or to write the President's Committee on Mental Retardation Washington, D. C. 20001 for a free copy of the "Future With Love" booklet.

Here are some things young volunteers are doing:

—Conducting special events such as Christmas parties. Volunteering to be pen pals to the retarded in institutions.

—Teaching retarded boys to be Boy Scouts. One fraternity learned it took 18 months to teach a boy skills normal boys learn in a week. The college students say they are rewarded by any progress.

—Inviting the retarded into their homes, taking them to the beach, roller skating parties square dances.

To know what it's like to be retarded, the President's Committee asks you to imagine living in a world where everyone but you is a genius.

The simplest directions are as complicated to follow as the moves in a chess game.

"Yet, with help, the retarded can catch on — even if they can never quite catch up," the committee reported.

Catching up for many of the retarded hinges to some extent on a teen-ager's volunteer.

Hey, hey — what do you say teen-agers?

Retarded children hope you say "yes."

People who work about the "new war" might give a few thoughts to driving carefully.

There is little gained by working so hard one day that you have to rest the next.

Negro Nominee Fears Of Election Fraud

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—
By HAROLD C. WARDLAW
(Staff Writer)

John L. McCown, Negro nominee for a commissioner of Hancock County, disclosed yesterday that he has sent an urgent telegram to U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, requesting an immediate investigation into the county's absentee ballot system.

McCown said yesterday at a news conference at the Atlanta Headquarters of the Southern Regional Council that "over 700 absentee ballots have been sent out from the county and that regular voting lines had been forming at the courthouse weeks before Nov. 5."

Negroes compose about 75 percent of the population in Hancock; the remaining 25 per cent are white. The population of the entire county is about 9,000.

McCown, 31, executive of the Georgia Council on Human Relations, said the present composition of the Hancock County three man commission is as follows: one Negro farmer, James A. Smith; a white physician, Dr. George Green, and a white, pulpwood contractor, J. J. Stanton, Jr. The commission is in charge of the county funds, health, welfare, etc. Edith Jacquelyn Ingram, a Negro school teacher won the nomination for ordinary over Helen Hiller, a white incumbent in the September primary.

McCown, Smith and Ingram, have become the targets of a write-in campaign.

The Democratic party in Georgia, he said officials told him they did not have sufficient funds to wage their own national campaigning. He said the party officials indicated they needed "his help" to aid Hubert Humphrey in winning.

McCown said he was offered $10,000 through a Negro spokesman in Hancock not to run for office. He said he declined the offer because:

"I was willing to represent poor

Classes Organized For Basic Adult Education Here

people and was not for sale."

The married, father of four children, said he has received telephone calls telling him he "won't live until election time."

Since winning the September primary, he said his family was awakened at 4 a. m. one morning by the sounds of a carload of white men who were trying to start their car which had stalled on McCown's property. He was out of town at the time.

The men inquired as to her husband's whereabouts and finding he was not home, left shortly thereafter.

The 10 year-veteran of the U. S. Air Force said he wants to try to "lie the two communities together." He added "I want to make Hancock County the 'Gateway to Cooperation.' I want to show what could happen if people worked together." He said he has good contact with all the people of the county.

In the primary, he pointed out, Smith won by some 700 votes; In-

ATLANTA UNIVERSITY CITES TWO—Frankie V. Adams (L.) and Dr. Kimuel A. Huggins (R.), retired faculty members, receive citations from Dr. Thomas D. Jarrett (C.), acting president, Atlanta University, for outstanding service to the university, the city of Atlanta, the state of Georgia and the nation during the 25th annual Charter Day celebration and the 103rd anniversary of the founding of the university. Miss Adams, a former professor of social work, served for 33 years, and Dr. Huggins, a former professor of chemistry, served for 34 years.

Atlanta U. Cites Two Retired Faculty Members For Services

At the 25th annual Charter Day celebration and the 103rd anniversary of the founding of the University, two retired members of the faculty, Miss Frankie V. Adams and Dr. Kimuel Alonzo Huggins, received citations for their outstanding service to the University, the City of Atlanta, the State of Georgia, and to the nation.

Mrs. Genevieve Hill, acting dean of the graduate School of Social Work read the citation which was presented to Miss Adams, retired professor of social work, by Dr. Thomas D. Jarrett acting President Atlanta University.

The citation read in part: "Pioneer in social work education, nationally known teacher and social worker, you have trained perhaps twenty-five hundred students who are social workers or teachers in the United States and foreign lands, many of them holding positions of influence in social work education and in public and private welfare.

Patient, frank and reasonable advocate for your field, beloved symbol of the School of Social Work, during your 33 years of service in the University, you created fuller understanding of the profession of social work, gained greater acceptance for the idea of unity of social welfare and widened the range of professional opportunities for social workers because of the soundness of your educational philosophy and practice."

Dr. Huggins, former professor of chemistry and chairman of the department to Dr. Jarrett by Dr. Richard K. Karksdale, dean graduate school of arts and sciences. Dr. Huggins' citation read as follows:

"First chairman of the Department of Chemistry, you made that gram, by some 300, and he himself won by some 400.

McCown said he has been affiliated with Hancock County since the early part of 1966. He said he became familiar with the area while working with the Southern Rural Action Project of the Citizens Crusade Against Poverty Organization. It is composed of many civil rights, church, and private foundation organizations.

He said before he went into the area 75 per cent of the persons on welfare were white; now the situation has been reversed. Twenty-seven thousand loans went to Negroes and 390,000 went to whites. There were no Negro contractors, only subcontractors. All that's been changed now he said. Negroes have three times the homes now that they had then, he added.

"Everyone who is entitled to welfare should have it," he stressed. He said he is against both white power and black power. "Shades of grey or green power could change the attitudes of people in the county," he added.

"We had planned to make Hancock a model to show what would work when citizens become concerned about economic progress and not about the color of a man's skin," he declared. "With all the poverty programs available, there is no need or hunger to exist in Hancock County today. I am against injecting the race issue into the campaign."

McCown said copies of the telegram were sent also to the Rev. Ralph Abernathy Sen. Edward Brooke, Sen. Jacob Jarvis, Sen. Charles Perry, Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Roy Wilkins.

Sen. Brooke said "The charges were serious and that McCown should continue to gather all information possible and that he, too, would request an investigation."

Since the last primary, economic reprisals in the form of loss of jobs, no credit, evictions, etc. have been taken against Negroes in the county, McCown said.

Effective Asian Flu Vaccine Spray Noted

No more flu shots? According to the latest information from Family Circle Magazine's November issue, flu vaccine sprayed directly into nose and mouth has proved much more effective than the usual injected vaccine. This information was obtained from a report to the American Federation of Clinical Research according to a study by Dr. Robert H. Waldman and a team of University of Florida investigators.

The report states that during a recent Asian-flu outbreak the spray vaccine was 79 per cent effective in preventing illness among 300 prisoner volunteers, while only 28 percent of others who received injected vaccine were protected. The results of the study may have far-reaching implications, the Florida physicians believe. Vaccines that are injected stimulate production of virus-attacking antibodies in the bloodstream. Recently other antibodies... respiratory secretion antibodies... have been found in the lining of nose and throat. Still other local antibodies have been found in the digestive tract lining. Spray vaccines apparently can stimulate production of local as well as blood-stream antibodies and may lead to an era of more effective protection against respiratory infections possibly even including the common cold. Local antibody stimulation may also protect against respiratory infections possibly even including the common cold. Local antibody stimulation may also protect against serious digestive-tract infections.

ABOUT CATS

"It's been said many times, but bears constant repeating: An unaltered male cat does NOT make a suitable house pet." So says Pet Editor Elizabeth Randolph in Family Circle's November issue. Miss Randolph's article continues: "The only one thing on the mind of most folks most of the time, and this leads them to howl, spray, roam, and be generally unpredictable. The gentlest tom may turn on a small child with no warning whatsoever."

A young male cat should be altered before he reaches maturity at about six months of age. (When you take your kitten to get his enthralling shots, ask the veterinarian's views about what age he prefers to do the altering.) I is an inexpensive minor operation, causing little discomfort if done young enough, and will assure you of a gentle sweet pet.

Miss Randolph feels that "As far as the spraying of female cats, some people hesitate to do it because they would like to have some kittens. However, an unsprayed female will provide you with more than 'some' kittens, unless you are willing to act as a policeman or jailer when she is in season. It is perfectly alright, though, to let your female cat have her first litter when she is too young. Generally it is recommended that you wait until she is a full year old. If you give or sell your kittens to local youngsters, be sure to include a set of instructions for their care, for many are woefully ignorant of the importance of shots, proper feeding, and the veterinarian."

"Cats are clean, neat personable, and companionable pets," states Miss Randolph, "and, with proper care and feeding, will give you years of pleasure as a pet owner, no matter what other pets you may have."
