Baltimore Colts Snub Limping Atlanta Falcons in 44-0 Rout

BY MALCOLM E. GAYNOR

Baltimore Colts - It was a rough, rugged, dirty football game, a game for which the Baltimore Colts were not well equipped.

Your third-string back, John Davis, was unable to make the trip out of the backfield. The Colts were forced to use their fourth-string quarterback, Elroy Hirsch, in the second half.

Baltimore lost the game, 44-0, to the Atlanta Falcons in what was supposed to be a walkover. The Falcons were limping into the game with a 2-3 record and were expected to be easy prey for the Colts.

In the first half, the Falcons scored a touchdown on a short pass from quarterback Bob Thomas to fullback Curt Merrell. The Colts were unable to score against the Falcons' defense.

In the second half, the Falcons scored two more touchdowns, one on a interception return by end Don Cline, and one on a punt return by end Jim Brown.

The Colts were dominated by the Falcons' defense and were unable to make any significant gains on the ground or through the air. The game was played in front of a sellout crowd of 67,000 at the Atlanta Stadium.
