Your professional beautician

Knows the answer...

Is peroxide needed to color unwanted gray hair?

Hair color and experts agree that the first traces of gray hair usually appear at the temples or at the back of the head. Although gray hair can be a sign of aging, it is not necessarily a problem. Some people may find it flattering, while others may want to keep it youthful.

Professionally-trained hairdressers have the necessary knowledge to address this issue. They can help you determine if peroxide is needed to color your gray hair.
