Kansas St. Area Gets Boost From Memphis Housing

For many years, the Memphis Housing Authority has co-operated with private developers who have, in advance of formal approval of Urban Renewal projects, advanced redevelopment plans for location within these areas.

Now, because of the urgency of the situation regarding Memphis' lack of standard housing for many of its low-income citizens and in view of the city's position with regard to broadening enforcement of the Code enforcement program, the Memphis Housing Authority wants to publicly acknowledge its willingness to work with private builders in developing plans to immediately build living units in the proposed Kansas Street and Manassas Street Urban Renewal Project areas.

Although the drafting of formal redevelopment plans for these areas awaits approval by the Federal Government, the Housing Authority staff is able to advise potential developers on areas to be redeveloped for residential purposes, setbacks, street widths and general alignments and distances to areas of employment, shopping and other services.

Developers should not expect to receive assistance or advice in matters of availability of land or the value of land. These matters would necessarily have to be between the developers and present owners since the Memphis Housing Authority presently owns no land in the areas.

Memphis Sees SCLC In Action

The 11th annual national convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Memphis last week was a typical convention with speeches, singing, a banquet, closed door sessions where most of the action took place, and a slight rumpus created by a local Black Power group called The Invaders.

There were no demonstrations or violence and, because of this, Memphians breathed easier.

Ninety percent of the delegates were youngsters, most of them in Afro get-up. SCLC leaders said this was a good sign, an indication of future strength.

The convention was given plenty of coverage by radio, TV and newspapers. Downtown hotels placed "Welcome SCLC" placards at convenient spots. The Chamber of Commerce provided cars, and police patrol cars remained out of sight most of the time.

Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., singer Aretha Franklin and the Mayor of Gary, Ind., Richard G. Hatcher, flew in and took their bows.

At the election, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy was continued as president, and Judge Ben Hooks of Memphis, an SCLC board member, was voted the title of financial secretary.

This was the largest attended convention in the history of the organization.

On a whole, the convention went off in tip-top shape, including food and housing of the many delegates. There were some who felt a stronger program should have been offered, especially in the scheduled workshops.

The convention continued to stress non-violence but, as SCLC Executive Vice President Andy Young said: "We no longer expect demonstrations to be non-violent. We don't condone violence, however."

The Ghetto Development Committee will meet this week with merchants of the Hollywood area. The Rev. Ezekiel Bell, pastor of Parkway Garden Presbyterian Church, will be in charge of the Hollywood project.

Dr. Smith said meetings are scheduled next week with officials of Montesi Supermarkets, Dixie Hart and Corondole stores.

A report on strategy and procedure will be made to members of the NAACP at their regular monthly meeting this Sunday, Aug. 25, starting at 4 p. m. at Mt. Olive Cathedral.

Tenant Review Board Proposed By Rev. Brewster

"5. A tenant review board could secure the proper legal aid in keeping all actions legal.

"6. A tenant review board could play a most valuable role in preserving peace and tranquility that can only come to any community through a fair and square deal that recognizes the meanings of the rights of a tenant.

"7. The tenant review board could serve in capacity of an educational, or shall we say teaching and training unit. This would better prepare many for living in a highly complex society and the moral and spiritual renovation of the slum areas.

"8. A tenant review board composed of a cross section of capable members would guarantee both tenants and landlord the equity in solving these problems.

"9. A tenant review board could save the turbulence of many lawsuits. The group should proceed and act only upon capable legal advice.

"10. The tenant review board should be selected by the people involved and should seek information on standard and substandard housing and demand full redress within the law for any injustices or inequities that the tenants have suffered."

often inflicted by landlords who are interested only in collecting rent.

"2. Only those who are not seeking any special self-aggrandizement can be of much help to the slum victims.

"3. Some people have been living in these conditions so long that they feel that it can be accepted as their only way of life.

"4. A review board could serve as an advisory agency working between the tenants and the landlords. They would also serve as a channel of dialoging and communication with the City Council and other municipal authorities.

and the responsible parties is both appropriate and a desirable way of resolving the complex situations, if and when a Slums Improvement Program becomes a reality.

"If such a board is officially established it should consist of ministers and other solid citizens who, by experience have an understanding of the existing status quo. This conclusion may be based upon the following reasons:

"1. The people most directly involved are in most cases in the low income bracket and cannot afford higher rent. This often blunts the thinking of those who should demand due redress for injustices

McGovern Offers Viet Peace Plan

By JOHN HALL

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—Presidential contender George S. McGovern presented the Democratic Party Tuesday with a 60-days-to-peace plan for Vietnam calling for the immediate withdrawal of 275,000 American troops.

BOMBING HALT

McGovern, who hopes for a "miracle" in Chicago which would make him the Democratic candidate to succeed Johnson, called for a bombing halt, an end to search and destroy operations by U. S. troops in South Vietnam, an end to "our absurd over-identification with the Thieu-Ky regime" and support for other non-Communist Vietnamese elements who could make peace with the Communists.

"We must stop saving face and start saving lives," he declared. A third Vietnam dove, Sen. Gay lor Neulson, Wis., said the committee should obey its conscience, not the advice of any candidates, in writing a plank. If the candidate doesn't like it, that will be his problem, not ours," he said.

Neulson said if the platform endorses Johnson's policy, he would feel morally bound "to repudiate that plank in the platform and campaign against it."

Fullbright was careful to avoid personal criticism of Johnson, but he contended that the bombing of North Vietnam "is not really necessary to protect our troops."

"Its real purpose is to put pressure on them to give in," he said. "I don't think they're gonna," he drawled. "And since the coming has failed in its real purpose, why not abandon it and try a new approach?"

The South Dakota senator urged a campaign platform that would repudiate Johnson's latest restatement of U. S. bombing policy.

A coalition of supporters of McGovern and of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., proposed a Vietnam plan which they hoped to present to the Democratic Platform Committee prior to Secretary of State Dean Rusk's nighttime appearance before the committee to defend administration policy.

So distant from Johnson's position were the McGovern-McCarthy proposals that the possibility of writing a plank papering over the differences appeared remote, and a floor fight at the Democratic National Convention next week seemed inevitable. It would require a minority report signed by only 11 of the committee's 110 members to produce such a battle.

Joining Rusk in defense of present policy was Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming who, in prepared testimony, dismissed talk of bombing halts and coalition government as "political hucksterism." He said "an American retreat" would mean that perhaps millions of South Vietnamese who had sided with the United States would be liquidated.

McGovern argued that the withdrawal of 275,000 troops would still leave 250,000 — "more than enough to protect our bases and, if the South Vietnamese are willing to defend themselves, to hold the major population centers."

Applause from about half the committee and many in the audience greeted McGovern's plan to end what he called "the most tragic diplomatic and moral catastrophe in our national history." Applauded, too, was Sen. J. William Fulbright, Ark., who advocated a full bombing halt.

Court Orders Atty. Garrison To Delay Case

NEW ORLEANS—UPI A Federal Court Tuesday ordered Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison to postpone the Sept. 10 assassination conspiracy trial of Clay L. Shaw until the U. S. Supreme Court can act on Shaw's countersuit against the district attorney.

Shaw was scheduled to be tried on a charge that he conspired with Lee Harvey Oswald and others to assassinate President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

A three judge panel said Tuesday the Supreme Court could not possibly act on Shaw's request for an injunction by Sept. 10. The same low court panel dismissed Shaw's suit last month but that decision is being appealed to the Shaw charged in his suit that Garrison has conducted a reign of terror against him and has deprived him of his constitutional 1, 1967. His trial has been postponed several times, once before by a Federal Court.

The panel headed by Judge Robert A. Ainsworth of the U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, said "nothing has happened to change our opinion" about dismissing Shaw's suit. However, the judges said Shaw's appeal to the Supreme Court "will become moot" unless Garrison is restrained from carrying out the Sept. 10 trial.

"We are of the view that Shaw is entitled to have his appeal determined first whether it will consider the Shaw appeal if it does grant a hearing, Shaw's trial would probably not be conducted until at least next year.

A denial would allow Garrison to proceed with his trial as soon as another date could be set.

In 11 Southern States 37 Negroes Now Work On Daily Newspaper Staffs

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — At least 37 Negroes are working alongside whites as reporters and copy desk editors on daily newspapers in the 11 Southern states, according to a survey by Southern Education Reporting Service (SERS).

The survey, taken in mid-July located 40 newspapers that have designated their newsmen.

These papers and another 15 Negroes employed full-time as librarians, copy boys, newsroom typists and an artist; one employed as a full-time photographer; nine part-time employees, including columnists, sports and society assistants; and 17 interns, mostly college students in training for newspaper work.

The survey covered 108 morning and evening newspapers. It included publishing companies with a combined morning and evening circulation of approximately 60,000 or more in the following states: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

SERS said the survey showed that:

- Compensation to hire and keep Negro newsmen is less.
- Almost all of the editors questioned say they want to hire Negroes, and many are actively seeking them.
- The turnover among Negroes on segregated staffs is high. Southern newspapers are often unable to compete with salaries offered by large Northern newspapers or with non-newspaper employers, such as magazines and government agencies. Military service has claimed several.
- Most of the Negroes on desegregated staffs have been hired of New Orleans, La., three grandchildren, a great-grandchild, nieces, nephews and other relatives.

Her funeral will be held Tuesday, Aug. 20, at the Hunter Street Chapel of Sellers Brothers Funeral Home.

Rusk's task was to defend administration policy — restated only 24 hours earlier by the President in a Detroit speech. Johnson ruled out a bombing halt until the Communists show a will "to join with us in deescalating the war and moving seriously towards peace."

A Virginia editor expressed the view stated by several other editors who reported no hirings of Negroes: "None I'm sorry to say. We've interviewed a couple of applicants recently. One seemed promising, but he just couldn't spell 'cat.' We're still looking."

SCLC CONVENTION DRAWS LARGE CROWDS TO MEMPHIS

Life in Memphis (for many) centered around SCLC's National Convention that convened in Memphis bringing people out from all corners of the city (both Negro and white) who tried to get just a glimpse of Mrs. Martin Luther King and of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Abernathy.

Dr. Abernathy, president of SCLC, was the first person of distinction to arrive in Memphis on Tuesday morning. Portions of the Municipal Airport was packed and police and detectives were stationed at every possible spot. Large groups sang songs dedicated to the noted leader (Dr. King's successor) who later spoke and thanked the group. Miss Erma Laws, who did a terrific job as director of publicity for the convention, called a press conference in the VIP Room where the news media was held spell bound for ten minutes. Dr. Abernathy expressed in main interests for the convention as placing emphasis on dealing with poor people. He added that they (members of the organization) had no resentment for Memphis and still believed that non-violence was the way of life.

The charming and easy-to-meet Mrs. Abernathy, arrived on the Wednesday morning plane. There was a big reception for her. Picking her up was Mr. Charles Morris of the R. S. Lewis Funeral Home. Riding with her were Miss Laws and Mrs. Ardella Bowdrie. She was presented flowers brought out for her on Tuesday.

Receiving much attention was Mrs. Martin Luther King who arrived here on Tuesday evening from Atlanta. The reception was tremendous. Miss Laws again held a Press Conference with Mrs. King with TV, radio and newspaper reporters rushing around to hear what she had to say. Travelers were also seen running after her just to get one peep. Children, as well as adults, sang and again detectives and police officers were on hand at every corner to protect the beautiful widow and especially did our Negro police officers take pride in being gracious to the internationally known widow who gave the Commencement Address at Harvard University this year. Mr. Arthur Mason of the Patterson Funeral home, picked up both Dr. Abernathy and Mrs. King in a shiny limousine.

MRS. KING SPEAKER FOR BANQUET

Mrs. Martin Luther King was her usual charming self (wearing an exquisite black Thai silk frock designed with a jeweled neckline) when she spoke to more than five thousand at SCLC's banquet at Club Paradise Thursday evening. She was presented by the beautiful Mrs. Marion Logan whose husband was the late Dr. King's physician in New York City. who also served as toast mistress of the evening. The pretty four month widow, who has strength, poise and who is a vibrant speaker, thanked friends whom she said had been a comfort in sharing their great loss. She spoke of her appreciation for the royal reception that she received at the Memphis Airport. Mrs. King started her address talking about slavery and the people who had become an oppressed people in this country. Her talk centered around deprivation and the lack of education, both factors that have kept the black man down. We are now (she continued) being destroyed by racism and war, both moral decays. Deprivation to some. We must, she ended her address, strive for national power and capital for business. Our greatest gains for freedom have come about by non-violence. This is your challenge and responsibility.

The evening would not have been completely without the Rev. Abernathy who was presented by Judge Ben Hooks, whom we delay only in Memphis.

People, people, people were there. We could never tell you just who there was... nor mention all of the many dedicated and interested friends who came from all over the country... nor could we do justice to the distinguished leaders who came to Memphis by plane from New York, Atlanta, Los Angeles and cities and small countries from all over... and from as far away as London and from Africa. There were those who came by car and train. All of these people attended the banquet.

To name a few, I shall start with some of the officials that I noticed assisting Dr. Abernathy... And they were: the Rev. Andrew Young, vice president of SCLC... Dr. Wyatt T. Walker of New York City... Rev. Saul Williams, New York City... Dr. Richard Houser, London... Rev. James Robinson, Houston... the very likable and tactful Rev. Albert Sampson of Boston who came here from headquarters in Atlanta... Rev. T. Y. Rogers of Atlanta... Mrs. Rosa Parks who stands out in the organization... Rev. Jesse Jackson and Rev. Calvin Morris of Chicago... Rev. O. Earl of Boston... Rev. Edgar Thomas of South Orange, N. J... Dr. Dearing King, a native of Memphis who is now in Chicago... Rev. and Mrs. Jim Lawson, Rev. and Mrs. Ben Hooks and Mrs. Billie Kyle who did much in setting up the convention. OTHERS NOTICED IN THE HUGE CROWD Others noticed in the huge crowd were my fellow media members. Of course, Erma Laws, who had a Press Table. We (my spouse and

I) were invited to sit with her and with Mr. and Mrs. McCann Reed at another Press Table, but we had already found a front table sitting with an old friend, Mrs. Marguerite Evans Murphy and her young daughter, Linda of Chicago. There we saw Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Echols Lary of Atlanta... Rev. and Mrs. Fred Shuttlesworth (the big man with SCLC)... Rev. and Mrs. Curtis Harris of Virginia... Rev. C. K. Steele who came up from Florida... Dr. Thomas Kilgore of Louisiana... Dr. M. L. Wilson of New York... Dr. D. W. King of Chicago... and Dr. A. D. King, brother of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, who came in on Wednesday morning and accompanied his sister-in-law from the airport.

Almost first to be seen in the audience after we arrived were Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Price (he president of LeMoyn College) and with them were Mrs. Price's father, Mr. Smiley Banks... and Dr. Charles Dinkins, former president of LeMoyn College and now an official at the LeMoyn-Owen College who accompanied Mrs. Doris Jean Harris and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Roddy.

Others seen during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Whittier Sengstacke... and with them were Mons. Father Leppert, of Memphis... Father Theodore of St. Thomas... Father Thomas of New Orleans and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deifus, jewelry store owners and civic workers. Mrs. Barbara Hicks Mrs. King's secretary... Rev. J. Freeman of Chicago... Dr. Major Jones of Atlanta... Rev. Dan Speed and Dr. Lawrence Reddick of Baltimore... Mr. Edith Bagner of West Chester, Pa.

Mrs. J. Ward who accompanied the four King children to Memphis... Mrs. Caffrey Bartholomew and her charming daughter, Mrs. Ann Bartholomew Harris... Mr. Robert Lewis Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Vasco Smith, Atty. and Mrs. A. W. Willis... Rev. Wesley Raney III and Mrs. Bates Ford of Boston... Mr. Ralph Parks, Mr. Louis Miller, Detective Thomas Marshall and Detective Whitney and Reddick who were always on hand... Mr. O. W. Pickett... Miss Janet Patterson with her brother and uncle, Councilman J. O. Patterson Jr. and Dr. Leland Atkins... Miss Theresa Hooks, columnist for the Chicago Defender who came from the "Windy City"... and Mrs. Sterling Tucker, head of the Washington, D. C. Urban League who was presented an award on Friday evening by Rev. Andrew Young.

Mr. James I. Taylor with Mrs. Cornelia Crenshaw... Atty. H. T. Lockard, administrative assistant to the Governor... Mr. Carl Carson, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Tolloson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook, Dr. and Mrs. W. K. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Alperin, Father Chas. Martin, chairman for the Council of Human Rights of Christians and Jews... Father Gary... Mrs. Rhetaught Dumas, chairman of Psychiatric Nursing at Yale University and a member of the City Board of Education who came with her cousin, Miss Erma Laws with whom she was stopping... Mrs. Margaret Dichtel, Mrs. Betty Snowdell, Dr. and Mrs. Pindel (the director of St. Jude Hospital)... and Mr. and Mrs. William Pace.

Sister Margaret (the former Miss Margaret Coleman who was graduated from St. Augustine-High School here of Chicago... Brother Martin of CBC... Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Jackson, Bill Matney of the National CBS Network... Dr. and Mrs. Charles Pinkston, Dr. John Jordan, Mrs. Ardella Bowdrie, Mrs. Ann Stribling, Mrs. Pearl Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whalum, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whalum, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Westbrook, Mrs. Anderson (Josephine) Bridgeway with Mrs. Ed Clayton, public relations director for SCIC who hails from Chicago and Atlanta... A. Kwaku Adoboli who came from Togo, West Africa and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mitchell, who were with their friends... Dr. and Mrs. Ike Watson with their brother-in-law and sister, Mr.

AFTER 31 YEARS... it was a happy day for J. H. Calhoun (left) who was among those who received graduate degrees Wednesday at Atlanta University Summer Convocation exercises. Calhoun is shown with AU Professor J. B. Blayton, Sr., who was also his instructor when he received his AB degree from Morehouse College 31 years ago.

and Mrs. Bennie Batts... Mr. and Mrs. (she Pearl) Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mitchell, Major and Mrs. Geo. Robinson, Mrs. Andrew-netta Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hooks, "Nat" D. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, Whittier Sengstacke Jr., Rev. and Mrs. Eddie Currie and their daughter, Carla... Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Withers and the Withers Brothers... Mrs. Edna Claiborne, Mrs. Dorothy Hudson, Mrs. Minnie E. Sanders, Mrs. Rosa Lee Dandridge, Mr. Hunt, Dr. Richard Houser of Louisiana... Mrs. Elmer Harris and her sister, Mrs. Edith Hubbard and Mrs. Edith Davis.

There were approximately 4,000 others whom I did not run into nor talk with during the beautiful evening.

THE MASS MEETING AT MASON TEMPLE on Friday evening was another "First"... A most impressive address came from the Eminent Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind. who told first why we in America are fighting... and his first reason was because of the murdering of three of the nation's greatest men. Mayor Hatcher, a brilliant speaker, held the huge crowd of more than ten-thousand spell-bound. Others to speak during the evening were the Rev. Wyatt T. Walker and Dr. Abernathy who made much in a few minutes.

A trophy was presented to Mrs. Martin Luther King and her four brilliant children by Mrs. Rosa Parks, and it was the first Martin Luther King Trophy... Mrs. King only spoke, saying that their daughter, Yolande would give the acceptance speech... and it was a masterpiece coming from a 12-year-old who takes after her late father and her charming mother. Her enunciation and diction were perfection. An award was presented Dick Gregory, the comedian and TV star, who was both witty and interesting. With a bit of humor, he brought out many true facts in accepting the plaque for outstanding work in the human relations field.

MR. HENRY RYAN, Public Affairs Officer for the United States Information Agency in Africa and his good looking wife, dropped by with Mr. Phillip Booth to see Jim and me last week. Mr. Ryan who formerly taught at LeMoyn College and was Dean of Men at Howard University, has been between assignments in Kinshasa in the Ivory Coast, and in the Embassy in the Congo. Jimmy and Henry had much to talk about as my spouse, Jimmy was with the same agency, the United States Information Agency only Jim was in Paris over USA for five years... and later over Library Services in East Pakistan... lecturing in seven cities and with complete control of library services and librarians... Mr. Ryan makes, handles, cultural exchanges of students and instructors between the U. S. and Africa while he is assigned. Here the Ryan visited a brother, Edward Ryan and his family. The two men had something else in common. Once they were tennis partners here... Both attended Columbia University and both worked at Columbia... Henry in the field of Foreign Languages... and Jimmy in the field of Library Science. He also visited with many other friends.

NAACP Official Predicts More Racial Violence In Petersburg

By JOHN W. ROSS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (UPI) — A Negro leader predicted continued and spreading racial violence and the city manager reported an "easing of tensions" late Monday in this resort city.

The conflicting views came out of news conferences held by both Marvin Davies, Florida field director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and City Manager Lynn Andrews.

While admitting "We are still in a state of emergency," after three nights of violence, Andrews added, "We believe there has been a considerable easing of tension in this community."

Davies charged that "police brutality and harassment" is keeping St. Petersburg Negroes "in revolt."

"I don't think it's over. I know it's not over," he said. "As a matter of fact, I think it's going to spread."

REIMPOSED BANS

As a "precautionary measure," Andrews reimposed bans on the sale of liquor and beer and restricted sale of gasoline products in a 29-by-35 block area of the central Negro district. But he did not impose a curfew on residents.

Andrews said he might lift all restrictions Tuesday "if we have a quiet night."

"If there has been any police brutality, I do not know of it," Andrews said in response to Davies' charges. "I don't believe there has been any."

Three consecutive nights of burning, looting, rock and bottle throwing and other vandalism in the southside Negro district between 16th and 22nd streets, has resulted in at least 60 arrests, about 20 persons injured, none seriously, and an estimated $200,000 in property damage. (Continued from Page One)

Fighting to maintain order and protect property is a city police force of 150, augmented by Pinellas County sheriffs' deputies, 200 firemen and a special 100-man force of Florida highway patrolmen and riot-trained men from the Game and Fish Commission and other state agencies.

GUARD ON ALERT

A 300-man National Guard force was put on the alert at the height of the crisis Saturday but was taken off that status Monday morning. However, the guard unit commander, Maj. William Ellis, said, he could mobilize his men again within one to three hours.

The City Council held a 90-minute private meeting Monday morning, mainly to brief councilmen called back from summer vacations. Afterward, the council announced it had reaffirmed an emergency ordinance, passed by a bare quorum Saturday, which broadens Andrews powers.

The ordinance allows Andrews to ban sales of liquor and gasoline in disturbance areas and to impose a curfew if necessary. The council also granted $200 hazard pay for the month to 200 city firemen called on for riot duty.

Davies listed at his news conference five specific cases of alleged police mistreatment of Negroes and said he had heard of "many more" while talking to about 30 to 40 of the Negro spokesmen in the violence sector.

"Unless this stops, the Negroes in this community will have no choice but to form their own police protection unit," Davies said.

TVA To Build World's Largest Nuclear Plant

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — (UPI) The Tennessee Valley Authority announced Wednesday it will build one of the world's largest nuclear power plants on Chickamauga Lake 18 miles northeast of Chattanooga.

The plant, the first commercial nuclear power plant in Tennessee, will cost more than $300 million and will take about five years to complete.

TVA officials said the new nuclear facility, to be known as the Sequoyah Nuclear Power Station, will be the major source of power for Chattanooga and lower east Tennessee.

Prayers For Ike

One of the foremost world statesmen of our time would be former President, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, who lies critically ill in the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington where he has been confined with his seventh heart attack.

The last appearance of the General was on TV, when he addressed the recent session of the Republican National Convention meeting in Miami Beach, Fla.

His voice was strong, his enunciation distinct and his analogies coherent and pointed. In this hour of failing health and the diminishing of faculties, it was marvelous how he in collected diction, would be so consistent with the use of words and contrasts. Such is one of the blessings of high thinking and noble living, and so to the brave General the nation and the world speak in our vein.

General Ike needs no introduction in this tribute; his name is firmly written across the lintels of time and his record as a statesman is among the immortals.

The prayers of the nation and the free world ascend in his behalf. May he recover and live to make further contributions to this generation and nation.

Inflation Must Be Stopped

A test of the American governmental system is taking place in the field of living costs. The latest government report shows the cost of living jumped appreciably in June and the recent hike in steel prices threatens further acceleration.

The customer is facing an atmosphere in which costs increases are regularly justified with the excuse "everything's going up." Many increases are primarily an urge to increase profits though others are obviously necessary.

In essence, our system of government is being tested. Uncontrolled and continued inflation is certain to price American-produced products out of the world market (many already are) and lead to an aggravation of an already-critical balance of payments problem. It will also cost every citizen, reducing his or her income, while adding to the costs of running the government. It will add to an already-high national debt.

The nation, the government, must somehow inflation or our government process has failed to serve the vital interests of the vast majority.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

The Poet's Corner

"LOVE"

If you are full of goodness,
And you love through and through;
Believe it, when you send it out
Lots more comes back to you.

Each day do something for someone,
Even little deeds;
A kind word, a happy smile,
Folk have so many needs.

Don't expect to be made happy
That is your job to do;
With joy and peaceful gentle patience
From the love that's within you.

Look for good in other people,
Love your neighbor as yourself;
Pray a little for your enemies,
Keep your love down off the shelf.

You will find you're overflowing,
For coming down from above
All the good that you intended
Returning to you in love.

The new office is the second in Tennessee. The first Apprenticeship Information Center was set up in Nashville two years ago. The Memphis Apprenticeship Information is staffed by Miss Thelma Billingsley, formerly of McKenzie, Tenn., and a graduate of the Employment Security Department's "GREAT" program, secretary Art McFarland, a graduate of Memphis State University, is counselor.

"I would like to meet with every Joint Apprenticeship Committee in Tennessee to explain the functions of the Center and the services it can provide for them," said Carter.

BRASS TACKS

By THADDEUS T. STOKES

A CALL TO DISORDER

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — For tens of millions of the nation's youngsters, the official closing of summer will be signaled by the ringing of the first school bell. In days past, when a majority of our people lived in rural areas and scattered small towns, that bell often rang in the typical one room schoolhouse calling youngsters from the dusty lanes, the fields, the swimming holes where they worked and played, learned and grew during the days of summer.

Answering its call, they came to resume, often with considerable reluctance, the regimentation of school hours and the traditional pursuit of at least a passing proficiency in the 3 R's. For most people, an education was something you got through "when you were a kid" so that you could get on about the business of making your way in the world.

The school bells of today carry a far different message of challenge to the nation's generation of young people. The store of man's knowledge is increasing so rapidly that no one can estimate what it may hold 10 or 20 years from now. In such a world, the school-room has become not a place of dull drudgery, but a vital and broadening bridge of understanding and knowledge spanning the present range of man's accomplishments and offering the young people of today the capacity to build a future beyond our present imagination.

Our young people have a new enthusiasm for education, and this is our greatest national asset. But they must learn of our heritage and the roots of our freedom, as well as the wonders of our technical accomplishment and capacity. As they return to school this fall, they deserve all the encouragement and opportunity which we can give them.

American students will receive almost $2 billion in financial aid for college, with the majority going to those from families with low and middle incomes, according to an American Legion publication, "Need A Lift?" Major sources of assistance, the booklet reports are:

Scholarship grants by colleges, $131 million, to 320,000 students. Loans by colleges from own funds, $24 million, to 68,000 students. Wages paid by colleges for part-time work, $145 million, to 439,000.

National-defense student loans, with the U. S. paying 90 per cent and the colleges 10 per cent, $221 million to 419,000. U. S. work-study programs, $139 million to 199,000. Benefits for post-Korean veterans, $520 million to 624,000. Social Security payments to students of deceased or disabled workers, $355 million to 402,000.

Despite the encouragement given students today and despite the great opportunity given them, not to mention financial aid for college students there are dismal predictions of racial disorders erupting in every sector of the nation this fall.

The sordid picture was drawn by the Lemberg Center at Wellesley, Mass., for the Study of Violence and released in a 78-page report released by the center, located at Brandeis University.

The center said it would be "highly advisable" for local school officials to meet immediately with leaders of black communities to avoid potential violence where there are tense interracial situations.

The report said there were almost as many racially related disorders in April of this year, 237, as in all of 1967 when there were 249 reported upheavals. Eighteen were killed during April while National Guardsmen were called out six times and federal troops summoned once to put down trouble.

Researchers reported that tense conditions would, no doubt, continue until the 'long range recommendations of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders' are implemented. The report added, "Unrest in schools appears to be a general long-range phenomenon."

Unrest will not be confined largely to college campuses, but will involve high schools, grade schools and even pre-school level, predicts the report. Adding, "School related disorders generally, are of a more serious nature and involves more participants including nonstudents, a great area and more arrests, injuries and deaths."

So this fall's school bells could well ring out a message other than the call to learning. It could be a call to disorder.

James A. Slaton, School Principal Succumbed Aug. 12 In Edison, Ga.

ALBANY, Ga. — (SNS) — Mr. James A. Slaton, beloved principal of the Singleton High School, Morgan, Ga., and a long time resident of Edison, Ga., died Monday morning August 12. He had suffered an attack of severe illness Saturday night.

Mr. Slaton was an educator, scholar and a gentleman. He worked tirelessly for the young people of Calhoun County and was loved and respected by both races in this section.

Just last year the Calhoun County Board of Education named the new gymnasium and health building in his honor.

He was elected principal of the elementary school of Edison in 1930. In 1934 the school became an elementary and high school. Under his administration he served as Principal from 1930 to 1968. He was expected to return as principal this coming term.

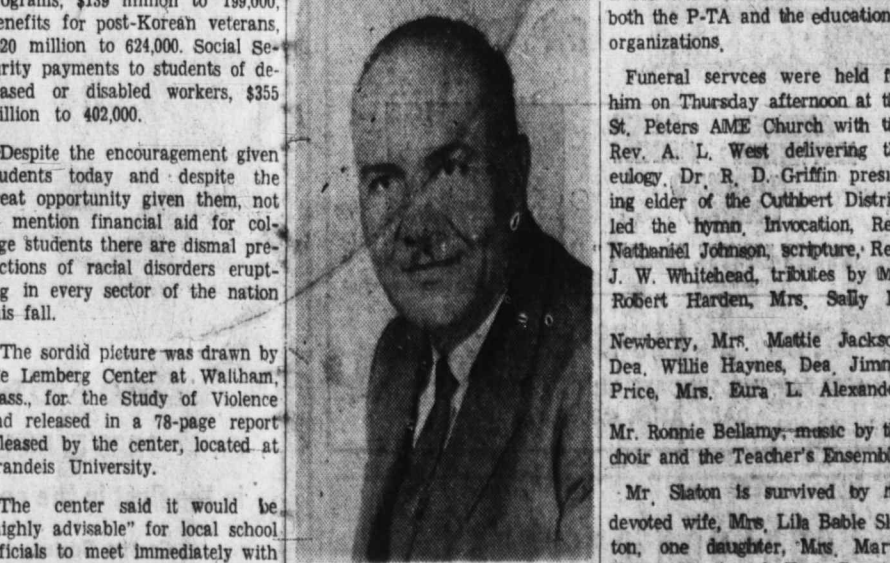

Mr. Slaton was a member of the state national and local educational organizations. He was always a gentleman.

He was a member of the St. Stephens AME Church where he served as Superintendent of the Sunday School and Superintendent of the Blakely District for a number of years. He was active in P-T-A work and held offices in both the P-T-A and the educational organizations.

"ALONE WITH GOD"
Text: Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place.—Mark 6:31.

In these days of hurry and bustle we find ourselves face to face with a terrible danger, and this is, no time to be alone with God. In our rush and hurry we are in danger of being jostled out of our spirituality. We are too busy to be good, running too fast to keep our torch burning.

So many are so filled with bustle and noise and hurry and excitement and fret and criticism that they cannot detect the gentle tick of God's telegraphic messages, or the soft cooing of the heavenly Dove, or the footsteps of Jesus the Christ.

Like Mary of old, who chose the better part, let us sit at Jesus' feet. Mary knew it was needful to sit at the Master's feet. It is grandly true "they that wait upon the Lord shall mount up with wings as eagles."

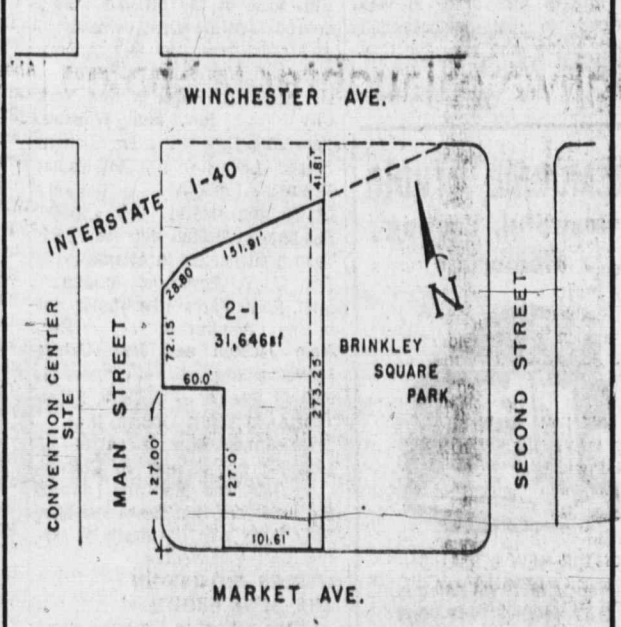

The world today in this space age is running too fast; too fast to stop and pray for international and interracial peace. We feel we must keep pace and not keep pace. The result is no time to be alone with God and no inclination to be alone with God.

Read the precious page of scripture and we find that God's mighty men were those who had been in the School of God, and His school was simply this, in the desert alone with Himself. It was there they got their teaching. Far removed from the din of the haunts of men, there they met alone with God; there they were equipped for the battle of life. And when the time came that they stood forth in public service for God their faces were not ashamed; they were bold and fearless and victorious for God.

For 40 days and nights Jesus was away from the sight and sound of human forms and human voices communing with His Father. Then He returned to His Disciples as a wandering teacher, preaching the good news of the Kingdom. In the desert alone with God thinking and planning out His program. And now in His later ministry Jesus went away to the remote region of Tyre to make plans for Gethsemane. Jesus wanted to be away from the crowd. There in the loneliness of the desert alone except for that ineffable mystery of the Divine Communion Jesus decided that He would make men see Him by dying for men. Then He was able to say "and I if I be lifted up from the earth I will draw all men to me."

Voice Teacher Says The Star Spangled Banner Is Too High

By MARGARET MCGOVERN
HARTFORD, Conn. UPI—

When a voice teacher can't sing the Star Spangled Banner, it's high time to lower the tune.

Frank Caruso, 72, has taught singing since 1906 and he insists most of his pupils can't sing the national anthem, either.

"When we sing the original version, we continue to let the public suffer," Caruso explained.

"It's the part where the rocks' red glare, the bombs bursting in air' goes over the top of an octave that usually does the average singer in leaving him with little more than a screech falsetto and a face red with exertion."

DRINKING SONG

The White-haired former symphony violinist said he took the anthem's tune—originally the ribald drinking song of a London social club and pushed it down the scale.

"I've lowered the entire composition four tones because the range is too high for at least 75 per cent of all people," he added. "There is no change in the original except the key."

In 1963, Caruso had his arrangement copyrighted. The Connecticut legislature approved a resolution calling for adoption of the piece as the official U.S. version.

Caruso said he hasn't yet heard a sound out of Washington concerning the fate of his arrangement. But he's a patient man. He insists his version is "within the easy singing range of all voices and a long wanted relief to many thousands of citizens"—presumably those who can't get to the land of the free and the home of the brave without being just plain tucker out.

LOFTY KEY

The Star Spangled Banner with its rousing words and vigorous melody, will be 154 years old in September. With a few variations, the word have become standardized over the years and the tune, which spans an octave and a fifth has remained in the same lofty key.

As every third grader knows, Francis Scott Key wrote the poem "The Defence of Fort M'Henry" after witnessing the British bombardment of the Baltimore stronghold on the night of Sept. 13, 1814.

It was immediately put to the tune of "To Anacreon in Heaven," the Anacretic Society of London's tribute to the Greek poet who wrote mostly about wine and women. The tune was popular in the early 1800s and was used as a melody for a variety of political patriotic and satiric themes, including a campaign song for John Adams called "Adams and Liberty."

Renamed the Star Spangled Banner, various versions of Key's song gained popularity during the next 100 years. In 1916, John Philip Sousa wrote an official instrumental arrangement which President Wilson ordered the Army and Navy to use.

In 1931 following a nationwide campaign and a personal appeal by President Herbert Hoover, it was designated the U. S. National anthem by an act of Congress.

Highway Slaughter Is Shame Of Nation Says McKay

Human slaughter on the highways of Georgia and the nation continues to mount despite current safety programs, 4th District Congressional candidate James A. Mackay said in a speech before the Lenox-Buckhead Optimist Club Tuesday.

He said that the national traffic safety effort "has sagged because the National Highway Safety Agency which we created in the 80th Congress has been allowed to go underfunded and undermanned."

Mackay said that "more than 1,000 people have been killed in Georgia traffic accidents since Jan. 1, and 15,000 more seriously injured."

Nationally, he added, there have been more casualties from traffic crashes since the first of the year than "total casualties to date in the Vietnam hot war."

Mackay cited a recent report by the National Highway Safety Agency stating that about half of the nation's fatal multiple vehicle accidents were caused by the four percent of American drivers characterized as heavy drinkers.

"Identification and removal from the road of these dangerous offenders is important to the security of every American," he asserted.

Mackay added that "some citizens are apathetic about these heartbreaking losses, but no parent or spouse who has ever gotten a telephone call in the middle of the night is apathetic. They are demanding action now."

As a member of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee in the 89th Congress, Mackay was among those credited with passage of legislation establishing the National Highway Safety Agency.

Mackay noted that the recently adopted Republican Party platform devoted "only two words out of 13,000" to transportation safety.

"I hope that the Democratic platform will not ignore this immediate and critical problem," he said.

Production of red meat in Georgia's commercial slaughter plants totaled 29.5 million pounds during June 1968, according to the State Crop Reporting Service.

Wool production in Georgia for 1968 is estimated at 31,000 pounds, according to the State Crop Reporting Service.

Mississippi Chairman Counters Challenge To Demo Delegates

By PATRICK J. SLOYAN

CHICAGO—UPI—A state chairman from the Old South counter-attacked challenges of his group's right to sit at the Democratic National Convention Monday by demanding that McCarthy delegates swear advance allegiance to the party's nominee.

As advertised, the forces of three of the four Democratic presidential candidates told the opening session of the convention's Credentials Committee that the regular party delegation from Mississippi should not be seated when the convention opens next week.

The Mississippi challenge was the first of many affecting hundreds of delegates from at least 20 states. In most instances, backers of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy hope to oust so-called regular delegations in favor of rival groups considered more friendly to the senator.

DELEGATION UNDER FIRE

But McCarthy's got as good as he gave Monday when the Alabama Democrats chairman whose delegation is under fire demanded proof that more than 300 McCarthy delegates would remain true to the party's nominee.

There have been ramblings among some McCarthy partisans that they might go down the line for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey if he wins the nomination. The Alabama chairman, Robert S. Vance, brought such talk to a head Monday by filing a challenge to 312 McCarthy delegates.

The Minnesota senator's admirers immediately responded with charges that Vance is attempting by wholesale charges against hundreds of delegates to change the rules and write in a loyalty oath by indirectness.

Florence Ballard Acclaimed At Bud Billiken Day Parade

CHICAGO, Ill. — An enthusiastic crowd estimated at comprising over half a million people jammed the streets of Chicago Saturday (August 10th) to cheer and applaud popular Detroit vocalist Florence Ballard as she headed the Windy City's 38th annual Bud Billiken Day Parade.

The four-hour-long parade, the largest of its kind to be held in any community in America, is sponsored by the Chicago Defender Charities, Inc., and was held to the theme of "Black Heroes of Illinois' Sesquicentennial."

In addition to Miss Ballard, other celebrities participating in the parade were comedian Geoffrey Cambridge, actor D. Mitchell NBC-TV's "Inside" show Dick Gregory, Abby Lincoln (Sidney Poitier's costar in "For Love Of Ivy") and her husband, drummer Max Roach, top rated jazzman Julian "Julian Cannonball" Adderley, the Impression and Mohammed Ali. Many civic dignitaries and state officials also took part in the parade, including Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley, and Illinois Governor Samuel Shapiro, both having earlier issued official proclamations in honor of Bud Billiken Day.

Florence Ballard is no stranger to the Billiken Day festivities, having appeared with the Supremes in the 1965 parade. This time, though, the solo spotlight shined brightly on Miss Ballard as she was the center of attraction and attention for the crowds which lined the streets.

Following the parade, Miss Ballard appeared at the Bud Billiken Day Picnic which was co-sponsored by the Chicago Committee on Urban Opportunity.

The late Lucius Harper of the Chicago Defender created Bud Billiken in 1923 as a mythical character designed to act as a foster father to Chicago's disadvantaged boys. Through the years, under the recent direction of Mme. Marjorie Stewart Joyner, Bud Billiken Day has become a highly honored institution in Chicago. The annual Billiken Day Parade is now the fourth largest parade in the nation, and is surpassed only by the major annual Thanksgiving Day and St. Patrick's Day parades.

Among the popular entertainers who have headlined the Billiken Day Parades in recent years have been Carla Thomas and the late Otis Redding (in 1967), Aretha Franklin, James Brown, Bill Cosby and former football great turned actor, Jim Brown.

Florence's triumphant return to the Windy City was topped off by a guest appearance on Chicago's popular late night variety and talk program, The Marjorie Faye Show, which is broadcast over WCHV-TV. Jazz musicians "Cannonball" Adderley and The Young-Holt Trio also appeared with Florence on the show, which in recent weeks has featured such show business luminaries as Ella Fitzgerald and Tony Bennett.

Miss Ballard will return to Chicago on September 20th and 21st when she will appear with Billy Cosby at the Auditorium Theatre in a series of performances sponsored by popular Chicago Disc Jockey Daddy O'Dayle. She will be back the following week (September 29th) to perform at a benefit dinner given by Idelman Ralph Metcalfe, the former Olympic back star.

Florence Ballard recently completed a successful engagement at the Wonder Garden Club in Atlantic City.

Last week, Florence taped a special segment of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC) radio network's popular Action Set show, which will be broadcast throughout all of Canada later this month.

Miss Ballard is beginning an extensive recording session at the New York studios of ABC Records this week.

There are at present some 34,500 men and women enrolled in 109 Job Corps Centers throughout the country.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Dramatic moments in the Corps members' search for new lives are documented in over 125 black and white photographs, several enlarged to 8 feet by 8 feet. Portraits of individual Corps members are featured along with their taped statements concerning their personal experiences, discoveries and accomplishments. Other photos demonstrate the Job Corps' broad range of vocational training courses, some of the educational techniques employed, counseling and group living activities and the encouragement to community involvement by Corps members.

Global Portraits

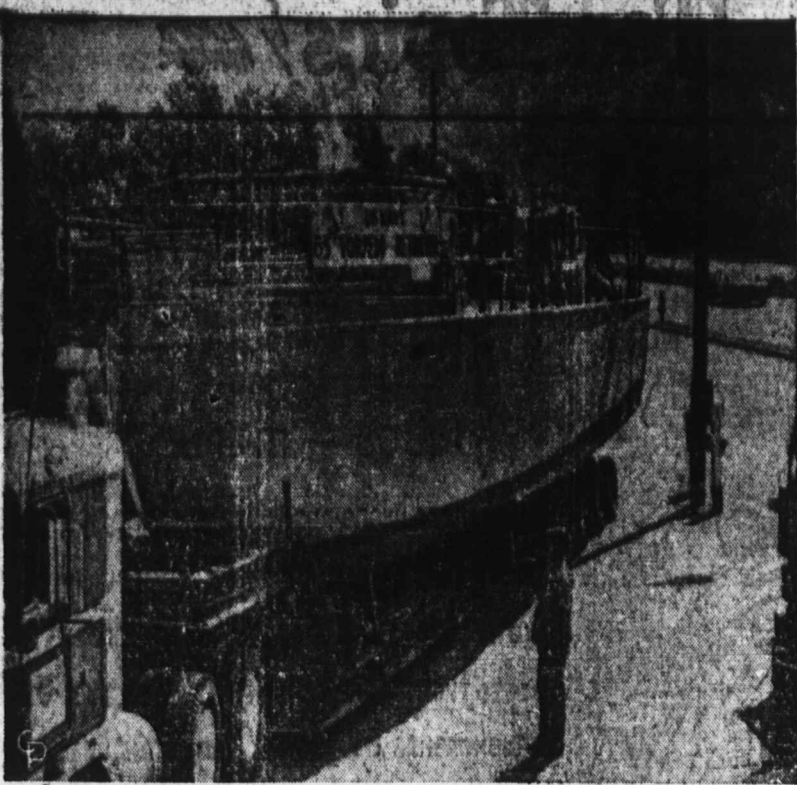

Global Portraits salutes a great author, JAMES NORBURY, of England whose book WORRIOR IN CHAINS St. Therese of Lisieux after having been sent to the Pope drew favorable and interesting comments when MR. NORBURY was blessed with an Audience with "His Holiness."

One could never know how that Audience with the Pope touched the heart of this great author unless you talked with him about it as your own Lou LaTour did when in London in July 1967. As guest in the home of JAMES NORBURY you immediately became enraptured with all that art, literature, a special reverence for the principles of love and truth—could give.

And it is no surprise that MR. NORBURY dedicated his book to a mutual friend, Geoffrey Handley-Taylor with the inscription—"in friendship and admiration; because he too dedicates his life to doing good for the world; and always brings together those interested in the arts as he did with JAMES NORBURY and your Lou LaTour.

'The Dynamics,' Aretha Franklins Proteges Unite Detroit-Memphis

DETROIT, MOH—In the business world of the most coveted honors that a consumer product can receive is to be awarded the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval.

In today's pop music world, the equivalent is for a performer to earn the stamp of approval of Aretha Franklin, The Queen of Soul. A vocal group must really be good to catch the ear of Lady Soul... and the Dynamics are not just good—they are great!

Discovered and managed by Ted White, the husband and manager of Aretha Franklin, the Dynamics have a new record, "Ain't No Sun," which has just been released on the hot new Atlantic Records subsidiary label, Cotillion Records.

The Dynamics are the first Detroit vocal group to ever record in Memphis. The session that resulted in June.

"Ain't No Sun" was written by Detroit songwriters Norman Whitfield and Sylvia Moy. Whitfield has written several hit tunes for the Temptations and Gladys Knight and the Pips, and Miss Moy's material has been successfully recorded by Stevie Wonder. The flip side of the record was written by Ronny Shannon, who wrote Aretha's first hit, "I Never Loved a Man The Way I Love You." The record was produced by Chips Moman and Tommy Cogbill of Memphis.

The members of the Dynamics are: George White, Fred Sunny Baker, Samuel Davis Stevenson and Isiah Keke Harris; all Detroiters, and all in their middle 20's.

The musical background of the Dynamics is essentially the same as that of Miss Franklin, each have begun to sing in church choirs. In fact pop music fans were quick to note the Dynamics' musical interpretations and renditions are strongly influenced by those of Miss Franklin.

Several members of the Dynamics grew up with, and were schoolmates of members of the Supremes, Temptations and Miracles vocal groups, as well as other nationally known Detroit based recording personalities.

The Dynamics have immediately been included in Aretha Franklin's national tours, where they are receiving their initial public exposure, and from all indications, a very enthusiastic response.

Former Congressman, Russell Tuten, Dies In Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON UPI—J. Russell Tuten, whose career ranged from brick layer to congressman, died early Friday of a fatal disease he had learned to accept.

Tuten, 51, a former congressman from Georgia 8th district was chairman of the Coastal Plains Commission. He served in congress from 1962 until 1966 when he was defeated by Rev. W. S. Bill Stuckey D-Ga.

Messages of sympathy poured in from Georgia political leaders including Gov. Lester Maddox, who called him a man of faith who put much effort into his job despite his handicap.

"I have admiration for this man who was facing death to have the spirit and courage he had," Maddox said.

State Democratic Executive Secretary O. Sports said Tuten served the Democratic party with distinction and honor.

"I am deeply sorry to hear the news and I extend my deepest sympathy to his wife and children from me personally and from the Democratic party of Georgia," he said.

Tuten suffered from a muscle deteriorating disease known as lateral sclerosis. Although confined to a wheel chair, he had continued to direct the operations of the regional commission.

Tuten said almost a year ago he hoped a treatment could be found for the disease, which also numbers among its victims the late Lou Gehrig, New York Yankee baseball star.

"I'm fork and experimenting on the basis of faith and hope," he said. "I'm determined to get the job done."

Tuten was born on a farm in Appling County. He later moved to Brunswick. He was a farmer, a teacher, a brick layer and was in the construction business.

He was elected to the Brunswick city commission in 1966, resigning in 1967 to run for the congressional seat of the retiring Mrs. Iris Blatch.

He is survived by his wife Hazel and four sons, James, Johnny, Ernest and Mark.

"Parent education" or "family life education" are terms often used to describe those informal study groups which offer an opportunity to read sound materials of various phases of parenthood and discuss them under leadership. Such discussion groups have proved helpful to parents in understanding why children act as they do, what their behavior means, and how they can intelligently direct it.

PROPER ATTITUDE AND UNDERSTANDING

A proper attitude and understanding of the decision to become a parent is exceedingly important. The relations between a husband and wife, as well as the future development of the child are often dependent on such knowledge.

Dr. Langmuir, authority on parenthood and children in one of her best works, says that the more real understanding we can have of ourselves, of how children grow or why we feel and act as we do the better it will be for us and our children. It will help us to appreciate why problems — and even mistakes — are a natural and constructive part of living. It will make it easier for us to be patient, sympathetic, and to keep in balance.

HAVING A BABY IS A PRIVATE AFFAIR

Having a baby is a private affair but not for long! Your baby and mine and the kind of parents we become, are the concern of our relatives, our neighbors, and even our country. That is why being a parent can never be easy!

Too many people are interested and responsible. In addition success in parenthood is hard to judge. For the returns are never all in during our life time, and family relationships are too complicated to be measured or even easily understood.

The nearest we can come to a success formula in parenthood is in terms of the enjoyment and satisfaction families have and the liking, respect, and love that husbands, wives and children develop for each member of the family.

In all of our thinking about children and family life, therefore, it is wise to remember that what happened day, by day in early childhood become an important part of each of us for life. Our early experiences can truly be said to have shaped our characters.

Facts and attitudes learned later in life are much more easily questioned or changed than those learned in the first six years. It is for this reason that psychiatrists and psychologists are right when they tell us that our preparation for parenthood began at birth. An important part of our parenthood is, of course, the willingness to accept parenthood.

The best foundation for being a good parent is to be a good husband or a good wife.

We all know from our own experience that it takes time to learn to understand another human being and to meet his or her needs. We can be sure it will also take time and study to learn to know and understand a child and to meet his needs.

Chicago Acquiring 100-Story "Microcity"

By Central Press

CHICAGO—The world's tallest and most spectacular office-residential skyscraper, 100-story John Hancock Center, is rising rapidly toward its full height of more than a quarter of a mile.

When completed in 1969, it will be one of the architectural wonders of the 20th Century—a city within a city—which may well revolutionize planning of downtown areas everywhere.

Consider a few statistics on this Goliath of the nation's skyline:

It will shortly become the second tallest building in the world (New York City's Empire State Building is only 21 feet taller). The completed main structure of John Hancock Center soars to a height of 1,107 feet. It will soon be topped by twin 544-foot antennas, giving it a total height of 1,451 feet.

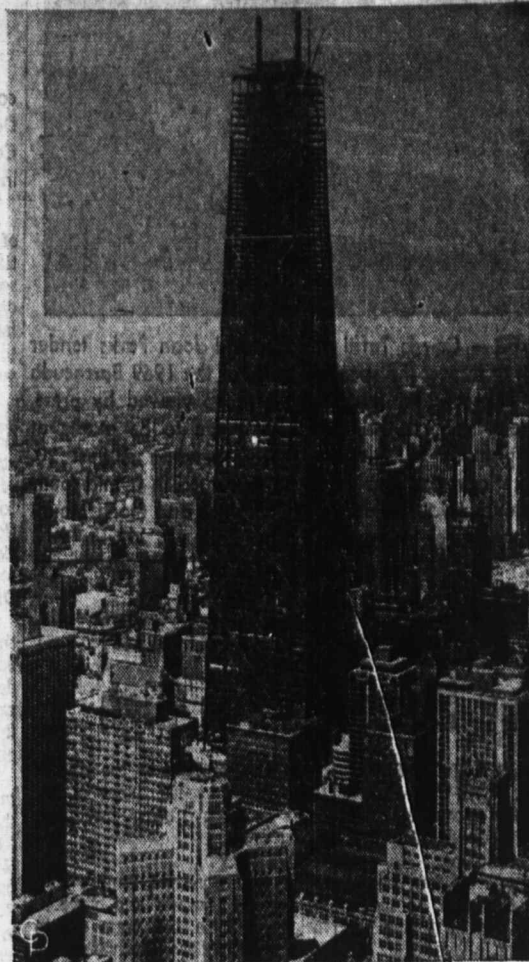

If laid on end, the Center would be longer than the longest ship ever built, the U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise. Its framework is constructed with 42,000 tons of steel, enough to build 28,000 automobiles. Some of the supporting columns weigh up to 100 tons each.

THE WORLD'S tallest all-electric building, the center will contain 850 miles of wiring and consume enough power to supply a city of 30,000 inhabitants. It is faced with 11,459 panes of glass, which, if produced in a single five-foot sheet, would measure 13 miles in length.

When construction reaches its peak, some 2,000 men will be at work on the building. Fifty of the world's fastest elevators (1,800 feet a minute) and five escalators will carry about 10,500 passengers a day.

More than a million persons a year are expected to visit the skyscraper's glassed-in 94th floor observatory which will offer a view of four states (Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois). A bi-level gourmet restaurant will be built on floors 95 and 96. The top four floors will house mechanical equipment, and the highest above-ground swimming pool in the world (546 feet).

THE CENTER is situated on Chicago's "Magnificent Mile," an elegant length of Michigan Avenue which has long been famous for its smart shops, galleries, restaurants and the historic old Water Tower which survived the great Chicago fire of 1871.

Its lower floors house 825,000 square feet of office space. Seven hundred and five apartments ranging from studio to four-bedroom suite are situated on its upper stories. Office and residential tenants will be served by separate entrances and elevators, so both groups can enjoy complete privacy and security.

APARTMENT dwellers will step into street-level elevators and travel non-stop to the 44th floor "Sky Lobby," whose amenities will include a restaurant, commissary, service shops, and the highest above-ground swimming pool in the world (546 feet).

The center's unique design reflects the logic of form following function. It also is an example of technical virtuosity which has already attracted international attention.

Consider the building's tapering sides, for example. Office space is most efficient and produces optimum income when it is offered in large blocks. This space is thus situated on the lower and larger floors of the building.

Apartment dwellers wish to be remote from traffic noise and enjoy an exciting, high-level view of the city. In the center, apartments begin where many buildings end—at the 45th floor — and continue through the 92nd story.

The five huge steel Xs which parade up each side of the building are of unprecedented visual interest and in keeping with a history of architectural innovation in Chicago, mother city of the skyscraper.

The boldly exposed Xs in effect make the building's frame a huge trussed box of enormous strength and rigidity. The Xs give the building a dynamic visual geometry as well as a high degree of structural efficiency.

Negro College Students Get "Quick" Course In Retailing

NEW YORK — College seniors are getting an inside look at the operations of national retail merchandisers as part of an organized effort to close the "credibility gap" between business and college students.

Thirty students from Negro colleges around the country are participating as "interns" in a concentrated program sponsored by the Consumer Distribution Committee in cooperation with the new York Human Rights Commission. The 11-week session will continue through August.

Aubrey C. Lewis, personnel representative for the F. W. Woolworth Co., one of the 30 retailing companies participating in the program, said the men taking advantage of this opportunity will return to their campuses "with a clearer picture of the retailing field, and hopefully with become walking, talking spokesmen to interest other potential college graduates in careers in retailing."

Two of the students—Steven W. Collins, a senior at Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga., and Guy Rawlings, a senior at Morgan State College in Baltimore, Md., are getting this "accelerated experience" in the management training program of the Woolworth company.

Neither of them found the business world to be dull. Both described their experiences as very interesting. An done of them, Mr. Collins, said he was already thinking of making retailing his career.

"You can get out of it what you put into it, and I like that," he explained.

They are participating in a series of seminars on various phases of retailing, but spending most of their time in stores and in the executive offices of the company. Major points in the management training program involve store organization, personnel supervision, human relations and merchandising.

The seminars deal with such subjects as standards of selling in-store operations, merchandising policy, store expansion, computer methods and research systems.

They spend most of their time "on the job" learning about sales merchandising, sales promotion, stocking of merchandise, display procedures, balanced operations and expense control.

"They also learn about the restaurant facilities and will work with buyers to get an understanding of how to buy merchandise in preparation for the coming seasons," Mr. Lewis explained.

"While doing this they will learn all about the controls that are vital to every store manager. These include such areas as shrinkage, breakage, expense control and, most important, proper customer service."

"Although the young men will not be ready to manage stores after a mere 11 weeks of exposure, it is our belief they will have a working knowledge of Woolworth's operations and will be considered advanced along the lines of our management training program."

"With this advanced insight into operations in the retailing field, they can be expected to return to their campuses with a knowledge that may be a contributing factor in interesting more college students in the opportunities for a career in retailing," Mr. Lewis concluded.

P. F. Fitch, management training director in Woolworth's Northeastern Region, said that 38 percent of those participating in the company's executive management training program in New York City are from minority groups, most of them Negroes.

Held His Own Heart In His Hands: Really

SYDNEY — (UPI) — The first wish of Dr. Phillip Blalberg after his heart transplant operation was to hold his original heart in his hands, according to a report at a medical congress here.

And so Dr. Christian Barnard brought it in and gave it to him, a medical colleague of Barnard's said.

Dr. Vatche Vahan Kalbalian, a delegate from Nicosia, Cyprus, told the story at a session of the third Australian Medical Congress this week.

Kalbalian said he had asked Barnard at a medical conference the two attended what Blalberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, had first requested on awakening. Blalberg asked to hold his old heart, according to Kalbalian.

"I agreed and we sent for his old heart," Kalbalian quoted Barnard. "So Dr. Blalberg sat up in his bed with his new heart pumping badly and held his dying heart in his hands."

Lemberg Center Predicts Racial Disorders In Schools This Fall

WABHAM, Mass. (UPI) — The Lemberg Center for the Study of Violence said Monday that schools everywhere in the United States, both at the college and pre-college level, likely will be the sites of racial disorders this fall.

The center said it would be "highly advisable" for local school officials to meet immediately with leaders of black communities to avoid potential violence where there are tense interracial situations.

The prediction of school disorders was contained in a 78 page report released by the center, located at Brandeis University. The report was based in part on a study of racial disorders during last April when Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated at Memphis.

Researchers said tense conditions would no doubt continue until the "long range recommendations of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders are implemented."

The report said there were at most as many racially related disorders in April 1967 as in all of 1967 when there were 249 disturbances.

The report said the "school related disorders" generally were of a more serious nature and involved more participants including non-students, injured and killed.

The group during April while National Guard troops were called in six times and federal troops summoned once to quell the trouble.

Unrest in the schools appears to be a general long-range phenomenon, the report said.

The sources of which may be brought in any or all of the following areas: the search for excitement and action by youth, specific grievances directed at the quality of education and school facilities and rising antagonism between white and black students.

Researchers said, "We can predict that schools everywhere both at the college and pre-school level will be the sites of disorders when they reopen in the fall."

P. P. Jordan Chattanooga Bell Telephone Official Is Retired

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — (SBS) — The retirement of P. P. Jordan, Chattanooga District Manager for Southern Bell and South Central Bell since 1956, was announced recently.

The retirement becomes effective August 31 and culminates a career of forty years with the Bell System. Beginning his telephone career in Nashville in 1926, Mr. Jordan later served in Jackson and Memphis,

The resolution concluded 12 days of debate on the charges and counter-charges of aggression brought by Jordan and Israel following an Israeli air attack on the Jordanian city of Salt on Aug. 4.

After the resolution was passed, Council President Joao de Araujo Castro of Brazil expressed a consensus of the members to ask Secretary General Thant to convey its support for the Middle East peace mission of envoy Gunnar Jarring.

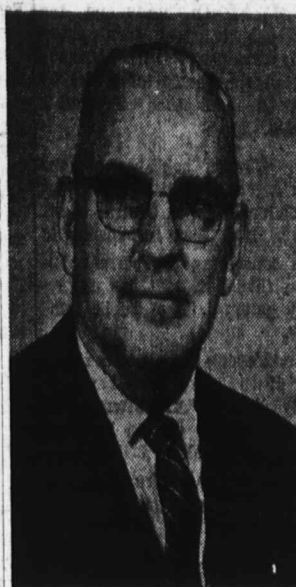

Part of the delay over the wording of the resolution earlier in the day had been whether to include an expression of support for Jarring's peace mission in the resolution. Algeria insisted that the resolution not contain any such expression of support.

The resolution referred to a previous one adopted March 24 and said the Council deplored all violent incidents violating the cease-fire and was "gravely concerned" about the deteriorating situation in the Middle East as a result of the cease-fire violations.

FOUR POINTS
The resolution embodies four points which said:
— "Grave violations of the cease-fire cannot be tolerated and the Security Council would have to consider further and more effective steps to ensure against repetition of such act."
— "The Council 'deplores' loss of life and property damage as a result of such cease-fire violations."
— Such "premeditated and repeated military attacks" endanger the maintenance of peace.
— Condemned Israel for the attacks.

Chrysler Corporation Preview 1969 Models In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SBS) — More than 300 newsmen from throughout the nation were set to arrive in Atlanta on August 20 for an advance showing of Chrysler Corporation's 1969 passenger cars. The event will be the last major press introduction of new automobiles ever held in Atlanta.

The new models will be shown exclusively to newspaper, magazine, television and radio newsmen at a three day preview. More than 100 new Plymouth, Dodge, Chrysler, Imperial, Simca and Rootes passenger cars and Dodge trucks have been shipped to Atlanta for the event.

Cars can be seen at the preview come from Chrysler Corporation assembly plants in Belvidere, Ill., Detroit, Los Angeles, Newark, Del., St. Louis, Mo., England, and France.

More than 40 of Chrysler's top executives, including Lynn Townsend, chairman of the board and chief executive officer and Virgil E. Boyd, president, will be here for the showing.

TOP EXECUTIVES TO SPEAK

Townsend, Boyd and John J. Riccardi, group vice president—U. S. and Canadian Automotive, will open the preview with addresses to the assembled newsmen.

The 1969 Chrysler, Plymouth, and Imperial passenger cars will be introduced under the direction of Green E. White, Chrysler Corporation vice president and general manager, Chrysler-Plymouth division.

Chrysler relies heavily on plastic in printed electrical circuits throughout the 1969 cars.

The new 1969 models will use plastic in many ways, including a new station wagon air deflector, rear fender skirts, rear window closures, in front bumper areas between the grille and the bumper where ice and corrosive materials gather and cold air packs under hood air scoops. Garwood said the cold air packs are among the most elaborate plastic structure created for the auto industry.

New methods of molding retard shrinkage and permit perfect finished materials without a trace of the fiberglass to eliminate any need for sanding Garwood said.

A major example of how plastic provides longevity to critical working parts is in the alternators for the 1969 Plymouth, Dodge, Chrysler and Imperial passenger cars and Dodge trucks. The alternators will have a single glass-reinforced alkylid brush holder which combines 28 separate items into one molding, retains structural strength up to 250 degrees F and maintains excellent dielectric properties, Garwood said.

Other new and improved plastic teams in the 1969 Chrysler built models include parts in the start and windshield wiper motors, instrument cluster with fluorescent materials imbedded into the plastics, grills, reflective side markers with acrylic lenses superimposed welded into place, simulated wood grain gearshift knobs, air conditioning louvers, accelerators, pedal outer wheel housing, and cow screening.

A vinyl horn pad represents a unique use of an injection-molded vinyl in a passenger car.

Plastic is also used under the hoods of the 1969 cars where an anti-shuffle wedge keeps the wide flat hoods from shifting and forces or heavy use, an intricate nylon bridge that sets the hoods from shifting wind forces or directly on the latches.

Fighting In Nigerian Civil War Takes Biggest Push In 14 Months

ABA, Biafra — (UPI) — Military sources reported fierce fighting on all fronts on Aug. 16 in what was described as the biggest push of the 14-month civil war by federal Nigerian forces. Biafran defenders were trying to hold the line.

Heavy combat was reported continuing in the areas of Port Harcourt, Afikpo, Awgu, Awka and Onitsha. The Biafran informants said Nigerian troops launched the push less than 24 hours after the start of what was to have been a temporary truce for the duration of peace talks in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

The new reports of fighting complicated international efforts to get relief supplies, including tons of stockpiled food and medicine, into the breakaway former eastern region of Nigeria.

A Swedish airliner chartered by the Catholic relief organization Caritas took off from Malmö, Sweden, Friday afternoon on a mercy flight bound for Biafra which was delayed for two hours by an anonymous bomb threat.

A similar flight from Sweden earlier this week delivered 18 tons of supplies, and the pilot reported he threaded his way through Nigerian anti-aircraft fire to reach his hell-hitchhike to Chicago if neces-

A. Philip Randolph To Retire In Sept.

NEW YORK — (UPI) — A Philip Randolph, the first and only president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, will retire next month after 43 years in the post, according to the American Labor magazine.

The magazine, in its current issue, says Randolph, 79, is stepping down because of ill health and will announce his decision at the union's convention in New Orleans Sept. 2.

Randolph, who never worked as a porter, was one of the original organizers of the union, and took the job after another union official heard him speak and offered him the post.

At the time Randolph was editor of "The Messenger," a magazine which described itself as "socialist, pacifist and admirers of Norman Thomas," published by and for Negroes.

Randolph, the son of an itinerant rural preacher, was born in Florida and came to Harlem as a young man. He worked days and studied journalism and economics at City College of New York at night. A widower for several years, he has no children.

McGovern Joins McCarthy In Aid To Loyal Demos

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — Senator George McGovern has joined Senator Eugene McCarthy in his support of the Georgia Challenged Delegation elected last Saturday in Macon.

In a telegram received Thursday by Rep. Julian Bond, co-chairman of the Challenged Delegation, McGovern stated: "Please except my support for your cause in accrediting the Georgia loyal national Democrats at the National Convention."

Senator McCarthy had announced his support of the challenged effort before the Macon Convention. The McCarthy and McGovern forces will almost certainly have enough votes on the Credentials Committee to assure a floor fight to seat the Georgia Challenged, according to a report recently.

Braden, a graduate student at the University of North Dakota, said that he's broke, and that if you work for McCarthy you get use to living off the land. He has been active in the McCarthy campaign since last November and worked in the South Dakota primary campaign in June.

Braden said that when he gets to Chicago he will live with friends. He said he can't afford the $22 a day hotel room. He hopes to take a train to Chicago, which is 73 miles away, but said his last resort is hitchhiking.

On Nigerian War:

Editor For Keeping Unity Of Country

By PORTIA SCOTT

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — "Suffering is the cost of all wars. I am for preventing disintegration in the country," Mr. Adamu Ciroma stated.

"The issue involved is whether Nigeria will continue as one country or be divided into bits to the overwhelming joy of the antagonist of African unity and the emergence of real black power which carries with it the perpetuation of the control of Africa by European and other imperialists he said.

Mr. Ciroma, publisher of the "New Nigerian," a daily newspaper in Kaduna, North Central State, Nigeria, had these comments to make concerning the current Nigerian Civil War that has just recently gotten a lot of public sympathy.

In addressing himself to the publicity of the war, which has been loosely labeled "an attempt of genocide," Mr. Ciroma charged that this was false.

"There is no desire on any group's part to eliminate any other group, he stated.

The publicity for the most part, he added, has been "an attempt to enlist the sympathy of outsiders not knowledgeable about the Nigerian situation."

The Nigerian editor who stopped in the World office Thursday is touring the country as a participant in the International Visitors Program of the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the State Department and has been here since August 5.

He has held his position as publisher of the "New Nigerian," which has a circulation of 60,000 in English, for two years. A position he considers "a great

Georgia Ordered To Change Death Sentence

NEW ORLEANS UPI — The U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the state of Georgia Tuesday to either give condemned police-killer Vernon Eugene Williams a new trial or change his death penalty to life imprisonment.

The circuit court said that the jury qualification record showed clearly that 33 veniremen were excluded when they indicated that they were conscientiously opposed to capital punishment.

The U. S. Supreme Court recently in Witherspoon vs. Illinois held that a "sentence of death cannot be carried out if the jury that imposed or recommended it was chosen by excluding veniremen for cause simply because they voiced general objections to the death penalty or expressed conscientious or religious scruples against its infliction."

Williams was tried for murdering one of three police officers who were brutally shot April 17, 1964.

In his appeal he claimed that certain evidence was denied him by the Gwinnett county, Ga., prosecutor during pre-trial discovery proceedings.

The circuit court said that if state courts determine that evidence favorable to Williams was unlawfully suppressed he must be granted a new trial.

Alphas Adopt Platform Urging Strong Rights

DETROIT, MICH. — Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity brought its 62nd anniversary Convention to a close here last week after adopting a public statement on Black Power; Civil Rights and Civil Rights Legislation; poverty and the Vietnam War.

Dr. Lionel H. Newsom of Atlanta, Ga., presided over the convention which chose a New Orleans civil rights lawyer and member of the Louisiana State Legislature, Attorney Ernest N. Morial as president-elect for the upcoming year. Newsom has served as president for the past four years and was praised for his dynamic leadership.

In his annual message to the Convention held at the Statler-Hilton, Dr. Newsom pointed out that the Negro revolution is physically non-violent but mentally violent, and Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity since its foundation in 1906 by seven Negro students at Howard University has had leadership in the Negro struggle for his freedom, dignity and equality.

He further claimed that in spite of this nation's pronouncements of equality and justice for all, Negro Americans still constitute the largest proportion of the repressed, the rejected, the poor the illiterate, the economically handicapped the occupationally unemployed and the politically disenfranchised.

Shifting his remarks to Black Power, Dr. Newsom said that Alpha Phi Alpha is Black Power. Alpha Phi Alpha is organized for the purpose of moving black people into every phase of American life, and it is not opposed to black power as long as black power is militant and aggressive, but remains non-violent.

The Fraternity's adopted statement read "Black Power is a proper and necessary objective in that it means acquiring economic power, influence and involvement in American communities by its residents; employment in all occupations at all levels; full participation in the political life of the community on all levels. For Alpha Phi Alpha black power does not mean revolution by violence, nor the destruction of property, or the creation of a separate racist society, or a black economic with in the American industrial system.

Rather, it means the exercise of legitimate means to obtain control over the destiny of the black community by black people."

The Fraternity statement further commended the work of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders in identifying the basic causes of social unrest, racial tensions and violence, and strongly urged the immediate implementation of the Commission's recommendations to reverse the trend toward a separatist society, and to assure the maintenance of a healthy, powerful and orderly society with the full participation of people.

It called for immediate congressional action to alleviate the suffering of the more than 36 million poor people, 14 million of which are Negroes, in the United States. The statement also urged that government take every possible action to bring the war in Viet Nam to a speedy conclusion.

A highlight of the Convention was a Memorial Service for the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who was a member of the Fraternity.

The convention was dedicated to Dr. King, who according to Judge Sidney A. Jones Jr., of Chicago, Ill., the convention keynote speaker, said—"We are still saddened and grieved over the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who was the greatest man of our day."

Of public interest was the public meeting held on Sunday prior to the official opening at the St. John's Presbyterian Church, with Dr. Wyatt T. Walker, former member of the staff of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., now pastor of Canaan Baptist Church of Christ and a special assistant on Urban Affairs, New York City, as the speaker.
